Defense Group Stresses Speed For All Orders

'Bottlenecks' Must Be Avoided, Policy
Declaration States

Washington — (AP) — President Roosevelt sent congress today, with his endorsement, a defense commission declaration of policy which had for its basic theme that "speed of delivery on all items of the defense program is essential."

"This means," the commission said, "that orders should be placed to insure 'the most efficient use of each particular facility from the point of view of the program as a whole,' that proper consideration should be given to contributor industries, such as the machine tool industry, to 'avoid creating underlying bottlenecks,' and that once delivery dates are fixed 'assurance be given that they will be met by the supplier.'"

Accompanying the list of general principles was a statement of labor requirements the commission adopted Aug. 31 as a guide for contractors.

Emphasize Importance

"I consider these two documents to be of such importance," the president said, "as to justify my sending them to the members of the senate and the house of representatives as a matter of information. The values of these policies and principles to the government, to industry, agriculture, labor and to the country, sectionally and as a whole, will be seen at once."

The commission's declaration made these other two points on the letting of contracts:

"Proper quality is also of prime importance."

"Price, while not the sole consideration, is of outstanding significance, and every effort must be made to secure a fair price."

"Due regard to the necessity of protecting civilian needs and morale, is needed, as is also 'consideration to possible off-season production in order to dovetail the military program into production for civilian requirements.'"

Against Concentration

"Adequate consideration must be given to labor."

"Undue geographic concentration of orders should be avoided."

"Financial responsibility of the supplier should be examined."

"The avoidance of congestion of transportation facilities should be sought. The same applies to warehousing facilities."

"Due consideration should be given to the adequacy of power facilities."

"A general preference should be given to firms having experience with so-called educational orders."

"The moral responsibility of the supplier is important, and in some respects, fundamental."

"The commission recognizes that competitive bidding is the better procedure in certain types of industry and circumstances," but "recommends that the use of the negotiated contract be authorized where necessary."

Slack Season Orders

After reading the entire message to reporters, the president said in response to questions that the first point in the report covering speed of delivery was to take care of the important problem of priorities.

Explaining the point regarding off-season production, he said the garment industry was an illustration. He said this industry had two slack periods each year and that an effort would be made to dovetail its orders so they would fill in the slack seasons and bring less dislocation.

The labor statement declared that in order to absorb the unemployed "all reasonable efforts" should be made to keep the work-week to 40 hours, exceeding that figure only when necessary, and paying extra for overtime work.

President Roosevelt clamped license requirements today on the export of certain plans and supplies for aircraft, in order to "further strengthen the national defense."

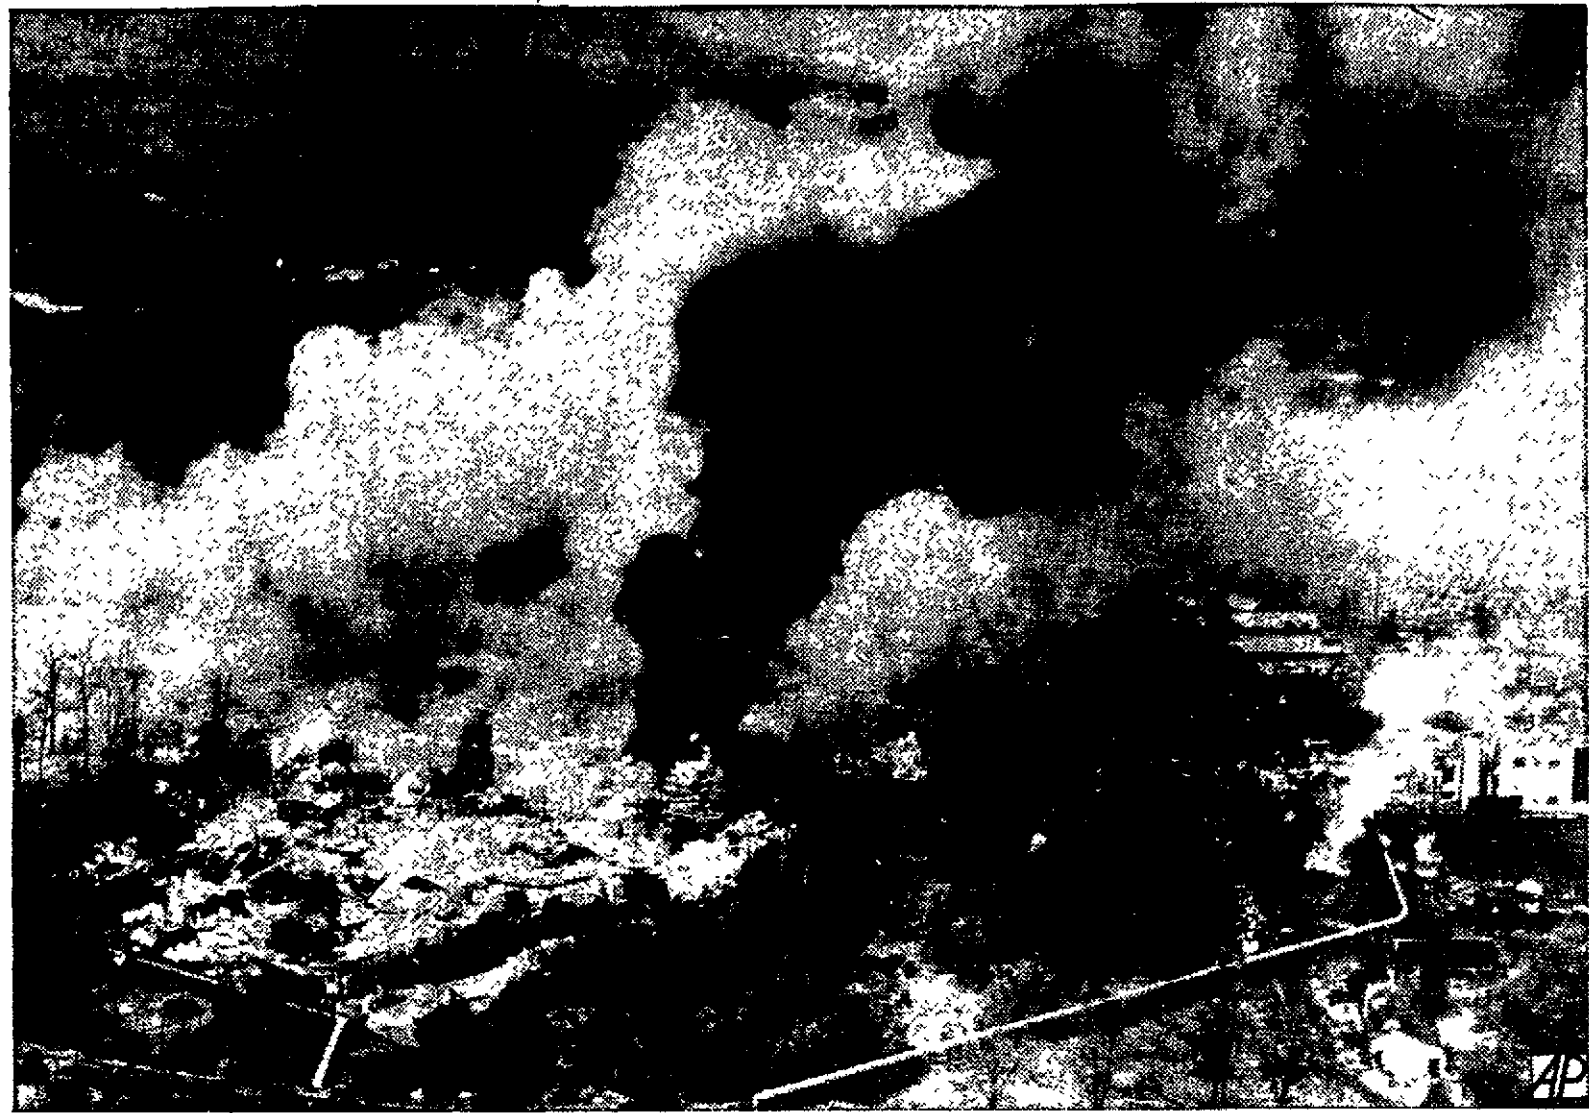

The presidential proclamation, made public at his press conference, added to the export license list equipment used for producing aviation motor fuel and tetraethyl lead or any plans or specifications used in the design, construction or operation of such equipment; and plans, specifications and descriptive or technical information of any kind setting forth the design or construction of aircraft or aircraft engines.

AT LEAST 39 KILLED IN EXPLOSION AT POWDER PLANT—at least 39 persons were killed, 125 were injured and property damage of $1,000,000 was caused in a series of explosions at the Hercules Powder company plant near Kenil, N. J. The countryside for miles around was rocked by the blast. This is an airview of the scene of the first explosions. Fires caused eight lesser blasts later.

More Victims are Sought in Powder Plant Disaster; 39 Known Dead

125 Workers are Injured; Property Damage Is Estimated at $1,000,000

Kenil, N. J. — (AP) — Rescue workers poked through a tangled mass of smoldering ruins today in search of more victims of terrific explosions that leveled the Hercules Powder company's plant here, killing at least 39 men, injuring 125 others and causing an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

William C. Hunt of Wilmington, Del., in charge of the company's explosive department, announced that two additional bodies had been recovered from the wreckage. Another man died in Dover General hospital.

Hunt expressed belief that "not more than four or five more bodies would be recovered."

Officials of the plant and state police expected the toll of dead to reach 45 or 50. In point of fatalities, yesterday's blast was one of the worst powder plant disasters in the nation's history.

The company manufactures smokeless powder and other explosives. It was engaged in fulfilling numerous national defense contracts. Today federal bureau of investigation agents were investigating possibilities of sabotage. In the last three months the company had received $400,000 in contracts from the federal government.

Cause Not Known

The blast, of undetermined origin, was of such intensity that the countryside was rocked for miles around.

Five Convicted Of Conspiracy

Former Annenberg Associate Guilty In Income Tax Case

Chicago — (AP) — A federal court jury yesterday convicted five former business associates of M. L. Annenberg of conspiracy to defraud the government of $7,883 in income taxes owned by the Consensus Publishing company for the years 1933-36.

The indictment originally named Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, but charges were dismissed after he was sentenced to three years in prison for income tax evasion.

Penalties imposed by Judge Walter C. Lindley were:

Arnold W. Kruse, secretary of the Cecelia company, Annenberg holding firm, 18 months in prison and a $10,000 fine.

James M. Ragen, Sr., general manager of Annenberg's nationwide turf news service before its dissolution, and William Molasky, president of the Consensus company, one year and a day imprisonment and a $10,000 fine each.

Lester Kruse, son of Arnold Kruse, and James M. Ragen, Jr., $1,000 fine each.

The Consensus company, $45,000 fine.

Judge Lindley denied motions for a new trial but granted a five-day stay of execution for all defendants.

Mayor Goodland Welcomes New College Students to City

Lawrence college freshmen and new students assembled in a body for the first time last night at the opening convocation of freshmen week which started yesterday, and in an informal way they were welcomed to the college and Appleton, received a few words of advice and indulged in a little community singing in Lawrence Memorial chapel.

The students who will enter their first college classes Wednesday at the completion of the freshman orientation week were welcomed to the city by Mayor John Goodland. Greetings from the faculty were extended by President Thomas N. Barrows and from the student body by Jack White, Chicago, president of the student executive committee. Dean John S. Mills presided.

They were introduced to LaVahn Maesch, professor of organ and music history at the Conservatory of Music, who played two pieces on the chapel organ, and Carl J. Waterman, dean of the conservatory, led the group in learning the Alma Mater.

In greeting the students for the city Mayor Goodland described how Lawrence college and Appleton have grown up together, sharing troubles and joys alike. "We are covered from the wreckage. Another man died in Dover General hospital.

Hunt expressed belief that "not more than four or five more bodies would be recovered."

Officials of the plant and state police expected the toll of dead to reach 45 or 50. In point of fatalities, yesterday's blast was one of the worst powder plant disasters in the nation's history.

State Labor Act Assailed In High Court

Employment Peace Law Case Appealed From Milwaukee

Madison — (AP) — Review of a suit attacking the constitutionality of the employment peace act has been undertaken by the state supreme court.

The action came before the court on the appeal of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees International Alliance (AFL) from a decision of Circuit Judge Gustave G. Gehrz, Milwaukee, affirming a state labor board finding that the union engaged in unfair labor practices.

The board found that the union had illegally called a strike at the Plankinton hotel, Milwaukee, Nov. 2, 1939, because it failed beforehand to obtain majority approval of such action by secret ballot.

I. E. Goldberg, union counsel, told the high court yesterday the law was unconstitutional because it infringed on the freedom of speech. Labor Board Attorney Newell S. Boardman contended the legislature had the right to "regulate the use of labor's weapon—the strike."

Declaring the law permits dissatisfied minority workers to go on strike, but prohibits them from

National League City Host Oct. 2 At Series Opener

Chicago — (AP) — The 1940 world's series will open in the home city of the pennant winning National league club—presumably Cincinnati, on Wednesday, Oct. 2.

This was decided at a meeting presided over today by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

The first two games of the series will be played in the National league city, with the scene shifting to the home of the American league winners for the next three games, if necessary, in the event more than four games are needed the last two will be played in the home park of the national leagues.

All games will start at 1:30 p. m. standard time.

If either the New York Yankees or Boston represent the American league, one day will be allowed for travel. No travel days will be required provided Detroit, Cleveland or Chicago are the American league representatives.

Prices will remain the same as last year with box seats selling for $6.00, reserve grandstand $5.50, unreserved $3.00 and bleachers $1.10. These will be increased slightly in Ohio to meet the requirements of state amusement taxes.

British Patrols Fighting Large Italian Forces

Clashes Far From Egyptian Frontier; Awaiting Offensive

Cairo, Egypt — (AP) — British patrols were reported today to be fighting hard against large Italian forces on a 200-mile front in Kenya colony, hundreds of miles south of the Libyan-Egyptian border area where Italy's main offensive is believed imminent.

The significance of this development, first mentioned in a British communiqué last night, was not at once apparent in the light of Italy's new troop concentrations on the Egyptian frontier in far north Africa.

In Kenya the Italians apparently were trying to reach Nairobi, the capital. They were moving across the desert sands from Turbi, on the southern Ethiopian border, southwest to Ft. Moyale and southeast to Waj Quaris. The latter is about 120 miles south of the Ethiopian border.

The Italians captured the red mud fortress of Moyale in July and now are holding a strip of northern Kenya colony more than 120 miles deep in places. Their lines, however, still are nearly 300 miles from Nairobi.

British regulars and Kenya troops were reported inflicting heavy losses on the attackers.

The situation in the north was tense.

Rome — (AP) — Italy's air force in day and night bombardments has dealt punishing blows at British positions along the Egyptian coast, the high command announced today.

Buckingham Hit 5 Times In Daylight Nazi Attack

London — (AP) — Five German bombs crashed on historic Buckingham palace and its precincts today in London's longest daylight raid of the war, but King George and Queen Elizabeth, at the royal residence during the bombardment, escaped injury.

Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose were not in the palace at the time, officials announced.

Two of the bombs fell in the inner quadrangle of the palace. A third hit the private chapel in the south wing and the other two fell on a roadway between the Victoria memorial and the palace gates.

The deafening crash of the bombs came while Londoners clung to shelter during an alarm lasting four hours and nine minutes.

It was made known that three palace plumbers who had been working in the south wing and had taken shelter near the chapel were slightly injured by the direct hit on the chapel section. They were given first aid by the palace ambulance corps and taken to Westminster hospital.

Historic Places Targets

Their majesties were on tour Tuesday when a delayed-action bomb, dropped Sunday, ripped a 15-foot deep crater in the palace grounds, next to the north front of the building, blasting an enclosed swimming pool, showering debris and shattering windows.

The house of lords has been damaged in recent air raids, it was disclosed officially tonight. An incendiary bomb that hit the house, in one wing of the houses of parliament, was extinguished quickly.

British sources said that in today's assault the Nazi warplanes appeared to center their thrusts on historic parts of the capital.

The court correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph, British news agency who had just left the palace, witnessed the attack. First he heard the roar of engines and then he saw a twin-engined bomber dive from the clouds.

As the plane came over the center of the palace the pilot appeared to cut his engines and the machine lost speed.

Then came the whistle of bombs, and explosions were heard in rapid succession.

Inside the palace the king and queen with members of the household staff already had gone to shelters underneath the palace.

They were there when one of the bombs crashed into the south wing, shattering the royal chapel, which is close to the ambassadors' entrance.

Rush to Safety

The Exchange Telegraph correspondent was thrown to the ground by pieces of stone and masonry which rained on Buckingham palace road.

Smoke shot into the air, and a few passers-by who had dared the alarm to remain outside shelter scrambled quickly to cover.

The attacking plane had gone out of its roaring dive into a "dead stick" glide—motors silent. The bombs plummeted down from it before the engine coughed and restarted. With a fresh roar the attacker climbed into the clouds again and was lost to sight.

Other bombs, incendiaries, fell close to the palace.

Soldiers from Wellington barracks dashed across the palace grounds with spades and other implements to control any blaze starting from the palace bombardment. They were aided by the auxiliary fire service.

Fires near the palace were extinguished quickly by policemen and park keepers.

The king and the queen walked through the cellars of the palace and talked with members of the staff.

Later their majesties went to the ruined chapel to inspect the damage. Then they left the palace on a tour of London areas which had been arranged yesterday.

Big Dig Craters

The two bombs falling in the quadrangle dug out large craters. A water main burst and water geysered up. Many windows of the south wing were blown out and the walls were pitted by flying debris.

Two bombs which fell in the roadway outside the palace close to the Victoria memorial caused a fire. A man walking by the palace at the time of the bombing said he was thrown to the pavement by the "tremendous explosions."

The raiders operated with the greatest caution, hiding in the clouds until such times as they could dart out and elude British fighter planes and the intense aerial barrage.

Then they would fly low and fast toward their objectives.

Cudahy Enters Senate Race in Badger Primary

Gerald Clifford of Green Bay Hints FDR Supports Candidacy

MILWAUKEE.—(P)—A group of Wisconsin Democratic leaders launched an eleventh-hour campaign today to nominate John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, for United States senator to oppose Senator Robert M. La Follette, Progressive who asks re-election.

With three Democratic candidates already entered in the senatorial lists and the primary only four days away, the Cudahy supporters admitted they faced a monumental task but expressed confidence that enough voters would "write in" the ambassador's name to nominate him.

A hint that national administration leaders looked with favor on the plan was given by Gerald Clifford of Green Bay, who was named chairman of the John Cudahy-for-United States-senator-club at a meeting last night.

In accepting the post, Clifford said that he was moved, in part, by "word from the east." He declined to amplify the statement.

Cudahy told an interviewer that he would accept the nomination if the voters gave it to him next Tuesday.

The club was organized at a meeting held in the office of Sheriff Edward J. Mitten. Several persons who attended said the ambassador's entrance into the senatorial contest indicated a split between President Roosevelt and La Follette.

In support of this, they cited La Follette's vote on the conscription bill and his radio address from Washington Wednesday night, in which he said "we are going step by step down that same road we took in 1916-17."

La Follette denounced the recent transfer of over-age destroyers to Great Britain and asserted that the next step "will be middle-age battleships; then it will be youngish cruisers; in the end, they will be calling for our right-angled us." He asserted that "the hocus pocus under which American destroyers equipped with the latest protection devices and armament become 'obsolete' should not deceive us."

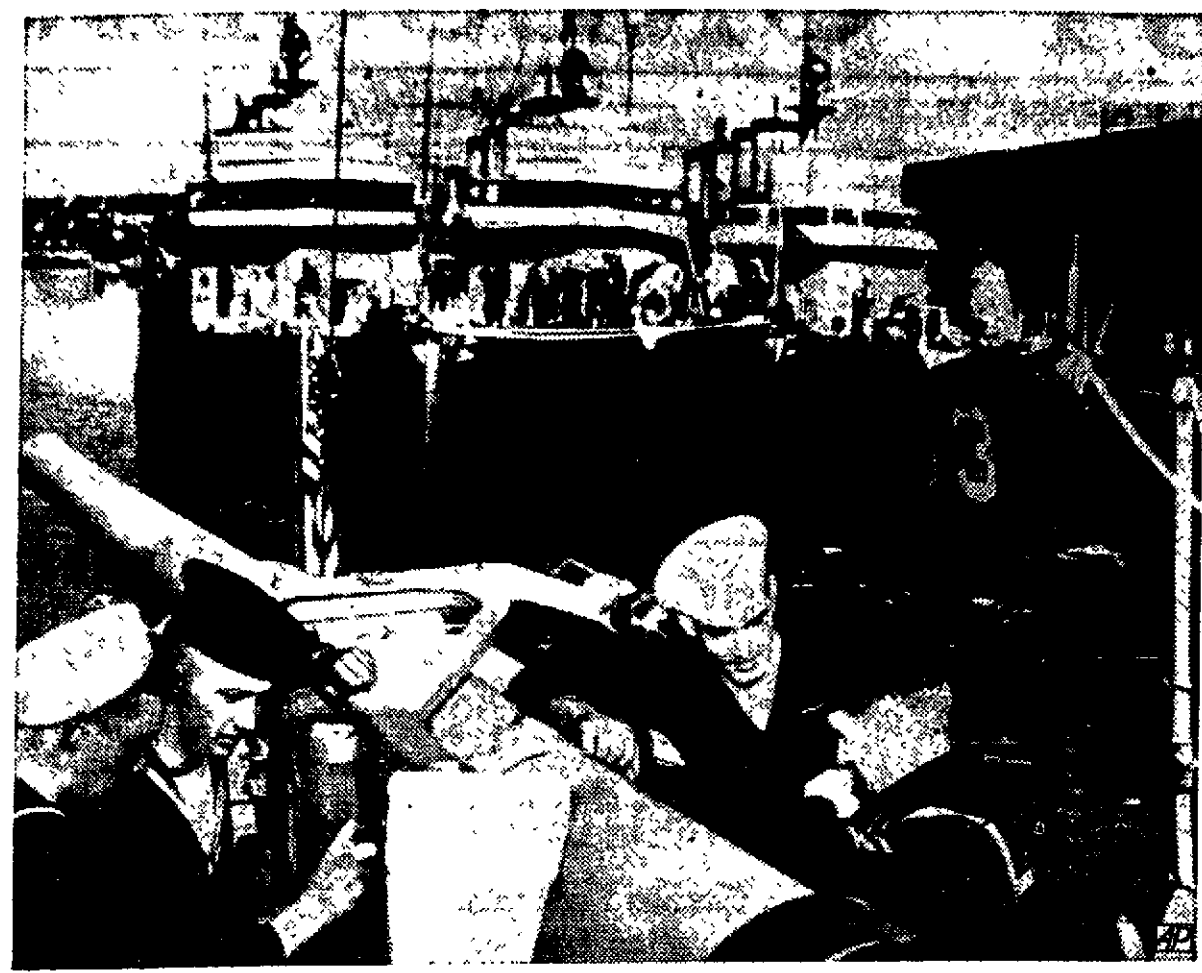

Cudahy was mentioned repeatedly as a candidate for senator or governor during Democratic national convention in Chicago. Convention delegates believed he would add much strength to the ticket. They cabled Cudahy, then in Europe, asking that he make the senate race. He declined in a wire to C. E. Broughton, national committeeman.

Clifford Explains
"A large number of the Democrats are not at all satisfied with the support Senator La Follette is giving the president," Clifford said in accepting the Cudahy club chairmanship.

"John Cudahy is the best informed man on world conditions that Wisconsin could send to Washington. He was ambassador to Ireland, Poland and Belgium. He has just returned from conquered France. He knows and appreciates the dangers of Hitler and Mussolini. He knows their intentions and their threat to the democracies of the world. He has seen the German army in all its might, strike down Belgium and Holland. . . . He knows what the war means to America. He would be against our entry into the war, except to defend ourselves. Wisconsin should avail itself of this opportunity of sending John Cudahy to the United States senate."

It's a New Reason

Rochester, N. Y.—(P)—Everett de Lorm, 23, fugitive from Monroe county penitentiary, came up with this one when officers captured him: "I figured it was getting pretty cold outside, and I wanted to drain the radiator of my car."

SAILORS OFFER ADVICE AS DESTROYERS CHANGE HANDS—Completing delivery of a U. S. destroyer to Britain, at an unnamed Canadian port, white-capped American sailors huddled with two British sailors over the mechanism of a gun (white area deleted by censor). In the background are three more of the 50 over-age U. S. destroyers which went to Britain in exchange for naval bases.

War Situation Today

King and Queen Unhurt When Lone Bomber Attacks Palace

Safely huddled in a palace air-raid shelter, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth escaped unharmed today when a lone Nazi dive bomber screamed down from the clouds and dropped a salvo of five bombs on Buckingham palace and its precincts.

Witnesses said the German raider came out of his roaring dive into a "dead stick" glide—with motors silent—to check speed and get a better aim at the palace.

Other Nazi raiders, flying low and fast over the heart of London, dropped incendiary bombs in narrow, dead-end Downing street, off Whitehall, where Prime Minister Winston Churchill resides at the famous No. 10. No damage was reported.

The great white-stone palace, blasted by a delayed-action bomb Tuesday, was damaged slightly.

In Tuesday's explosion, the glass-walled swimming pool on the first floor, directly under Queen Elizabeth's sitting room, was wrecked, a corner of the palace facade was blown out and at least 10 windows were shattered.

Drop Fire Bombs

The raiders dropped countless salvos of fire and shrapnel bombs, setting London's fashionable west end aflame in a series of bold daylight attacks.

Slamming batteries of "archies"—anti-aircraft guns—sent up a terrific barrage and R.A.F. spitfires flashed in and out of the clouds engaging the raiders in dogfights.

The daylight assaults took London's bomb-battered millions by surprise when the air-raid sirens shrieked the first warning at 7:37 a. m. (12:37 a. m. C.S.T.), less than two hours after the "all clear" sounded the end of the capital's sixth straight dawn-to-dusk attack, lasting eight hours and 30 minutes. The first alarm lasted 53 minutes.

Sixteen minutes later the raiders appeared again—among them several great 4-motored bombers.

Official casualty figures up to Wednesday night brought the toll to 1,173 killed and 4,270 wounded since Hitler unleashed successive night-long attacks on the empire capital last Saturday.

Breaking silence on the identity of bombed localities, the British censor permitted dispatches to disclose that among buildings and areas "affected" by bomb explosions are historic Somerset house in the Strand, the Piccadilly hotel, eight churches including St. Giles Cripplegate, Berkeley Square and the vicinity of Rotten Row, the famous bridge path in Hyde park.

Attack Liverpool
German raiders reported they attacked Liverpool, Cardiff and Bristol in night bombing forays.

Belfast reported a German plane dropped salvos of fire bombs on northern Ireland, damaging several houses. Fighter planes sped after the raider and pursued him out to sea.

In south east Europe, meanwhile, Egypt appeared on the verge of war.

Linked to Britain by a military pact, but still neutral, the ancient land of the Pharaohs was reported unofficially already the target of an Italian invasion.

A Rome military authority said an "operation" had begun in Egypt, but Mussolini's high command, in its daily communique, made no mention of any land offensive. The communique said only that Italy's air force was dealing punishing blows to British positions along the Egyptian coast.

Military observers have predicted the Italian drive would be coordinated with the German invasion of England.

The Berlin populace slept through the night without having to run for air-raid shelters although the Germans said British raiders crossed the borders of the reich during the night. These planes apparently another objective or were driven away by night pursuit planes and artillery fire, Nazi spokesmen said.

Mussolini's Move Is Essential to Invasion

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York.—(P)—Herr Hitler's invasion of England remained in the mysterious "if" class on this Friday the thirteenth, but overnight developments tended to strengthen indications that should he see a favorable opening he will once more gamble on the opportunist's luck which has served him so well heretofore.

The new writing on the wall this morning involves the Rome report that the Italian offensive against Egypt has started, the widespread Nazi bombing of Britain and the dropping of incendiary bombs by the Germans over northern Ireland.

It's well-nigh a certainty that Mussolini would undertake a major operation in Africa to support Hitler's assault on England. This strategy would be calculated to prevent Britain from withdrawing warships and airplanes from the Mediterranean area for defense of the mother country.

Extensive bombing of the British Isles would be an essential preliminary to invasion. The attack on northern Ireland obviously was for the purpose of causing destructive fires, and this might mean either that the Nazis contemplated landings on the Emerald Isle, or intended to land on the west coast of Britain and wanted to forestall interference from Ulster.

However this isn't the time for a man to bet his only shirt that an attempt at invasion is a foregone conclusion. We mustn't overlook that while Mussolini's move is essential to the success of an invasion of England, a threat of invasion would by the same token aid the fascist chieftain.

Hitler's weakness—and it is a dangerous one—remains his lack of control of the air, as I indicated yesterday. Unless he can give the Royal Air Force a quick smashing, he will be asking for a mighty spate of bollix if he tries invasion by water.

Still, my feeling is that his need of victory now is so pressing that he will make the gamble if he gets a whisper of hope from any source.

Even under favorable circumstances such an assault would be likely to result in a terrible slaughter of the attacking forces. It shouldn't be forgotten that this rejection of one of the most difficult military-naval operations of all time, and the advent of air warfare has complicated it.

Treachery Currents
The troops which go down to the English channel in the armada of barges and other small boats will first off encounter the swirling, shifting tidal currents of one of the world's nastiest stretches of water. They will come immediately under the devastating fire of the guns of the British home fleet and the land batteries. They will be blasted from above by the Royal Air Force.

Along the English shores they will encounter shallow waters strewn with mines. On land will be 3,000,000 troops ready to fight with the desperation of men battling for their homes and families.

It is a grim chance which Hitler will take. He will be at once risking a great army and vast quantities of equipment, and the cream of his all important air-force.

But loss of life won't stop the Germans. Their strategy long has provided that the end justifies the means and has followed the Napoleonic scheme of mass attack—breaking down the enemy by sheer force of numbers, irrespective of casualties. If and when the Hitlerian barges put out to sea, they will carry what will amount to suicide squads.

And here I will say I haven't the slightest doubt that there are scores of thousands of soldiers eagerly waiting for their fuhrrer to give the word for the start. The Germans are a brave race, but beyond that the young German mind is so thoroughly nazified by intensive totalitarian training, and is so wholly imbued with the idea that Hitler is a divinely-ordained leader (and I mean that literally), that if he called for a quarter-million suicide volunteers to go against England, doubt that number would trample on each other trying to be first at the bows.

That may sound like a strong statement, but it isn't meant to be an exaggeration. I venture this opinion after a long study of Nazi dom from many angles, including an extensive tour of Germany while this war was boiling up.

If the Germans make the attempt they will strike at many places about the English coastline at once, and also may try to land in Ireland. Parachute troops will play their part. Undoubtedly the Nazis will get men ashore, but small and isolated groups won't win the battle. The commander must establish bridge-heads through which troops, equipment and supplies can be poured.

All these things being so, I am inclined to agree with the salty comment of British first lord of the admiralty Alexander that he could promise "that if the enemy comes across in surface craft, they are coming to get something to go on with."

Along the English shores they will encounter shallow waters strewn with mines. On land will be 3,000,000 troops ready to fight with the desperation of men battling for their homes and families.

That may sound like a strong statement, but it isn't meant to be an exaggeration. I venture this opinion after a long study of Nazi dom from many angles, including an extensive tour of Germany while this war was boiling up.

If the Germans make the attempt they will strike at many places about the English coastline at once, and also may try to land in Ireland. Parachute troops will play their part. Undoubtedly the Nazis will get men ashore, but small and isolated groups won't win the battle. The commander must establish bridge-heads through which troops, equipment and supplies can be poured.

All these things being so, I am inclined to agree with the salty comment of British first lord of the admiralty Alexander that he could promise "that if the enemy comes across in surface craft, they are coming to get something to go on with."

Along the English shores they will encounter shallow waters strewn with mines. On land will be 3,000,000 troops ready to fight with the desperation of men battling for their homes and families.

It is a grim chance which Hitler will take. He will be at once risking a great army and vast quantities of equipment, and the cream of his all important air-force.

But loss of life won't stop the Germans. Their strategy long has provided that the end justifies the means and has followed the Napoleonic scheme of mass attack—breaking down the enemy by sheer force of numbers, irrespective of casualties. If and when the Hitlerian barges put out to sea, they will carry what will amount to suicide squads.

And here I will say I haven't the slightest doubt that there are scores of thousands of soldiers eagerly waiting for their fuhrrer to give the word for the start. The Germans are a brave race, but beyond that the young German mind is so thoroughly nazified by intensive totalitarian training, and is so wholly imbued with the idea that Hitler is a divinely-ordained leader (and I mean that literally), that if he called for a quarter-million suicide volunteers to go against England, doubt that number would trample on each other trying to be first at the bows.

LaGuardia to Push Roosevelt For Third Term

Calls Upon Nation's Independents to Work For New Deal Chief

New York.—(P)—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia will support the president for a third term because he knows Mr. Roosevelt "with his known faults to Mr. Willkie with his unknown virtues."

"Roosevelt has regenerated our country," New York's mayor said last night in a broadcast sponsored by the Democratic National committee. "Roosevelt has made America the hope of the world. That is why I am for President Roosevelt."

He called upon the nation's Independents and Progressives to work for the president's re-election, and said Senator George W. Norris (Ind.-Neb.) would be honorary chairman of "an independent committee for Roosevelt." In Mr. Roosevelt's first campaign eight years ago, Norris was chairman of the "National Progressive league for Roosevelt for President."

"Mr. Willkie," LaGuardia said, "has been engaged mostly in the financial structure natural to a holding company. Mr. Roosevelt has been engaged in the building of great power plants operated for service. Mr. Roosevelt has been turning the mighty wheels of the turbine. Mr. Willkie has been watching the little wheels of the stock ticker."

The mayor, twice elected head of the city by Fusion votes, emphasized that he belongs to no party and wants "nothing" from either party.

Chairman of the United States section of the joint American-Canadian defense board, LaGuardia said, "I know that President Roosevelt's foreign policy and his preparedness plan are the only hope of keeping our country out of war."

Pauley & Pauley's License Suspended For 60-Day Period

Madison.—(P)—The cheese grading licenses of three Wisconsin warehouse operators have been suspended temporarily because they were found guilty of misgrading, the state department of agriculture announced today.

A 60 day suspension, beginning Sept. 9, was imposed on the Pauley & Pauley cheese company, of Seymour, and John Seefeldt, its warehouse superintendent.

The license of the Brinkman cheese company and B. W. Winder, an employee, to grade cheese at the company's warehouse at Fenimore, was suspended for 45 days beginning Sept. 9.

Richard Walther, manager of warehouse at Platteville, owned by the Schmitt Brothers and Walther corporation surrendered his right to grade cheese for 45 days, beginning Sept. 12.

The department also announced that George Baten, Jr., Wrightstown, cheesemaker, had been fined $2 and costs in municipal court for Green Bay Wednesday on charges of operating a factory after his cheese maker's and operator's licenses had been revoked. A 60 day jail sentence was suspended on condition he immediately discontinue taking milk at his plant, the department said.

Douglas Will Speak at 'Y' Laymen's Meet

Committees to Discuss Future Program Plans at Sunday Meetings

Dr. George A. Douglas, assistant professor of sociology at Lawrence college, will discuss "The Problem of Appleton Juvenile Delinquency" at the first general meeting of Y. M. C. A. laymen at the Y. M. C. A. conference at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the "Y" banquet rooms. Dr. Douglas' talk is based on the results of a survey conducted by Lawrence college students under his direction of courthouse records, children grades and interviews with informed persons in Appleton.

The conference will open tomorrow morning when Clifford Carey, program director for the north central division of the national Y. M. C. A. council, will meet with "Y" secretaries. Five committeemen and the secretaries will evaluate previous year's programs with Carey Saturday afternoon and consider suggestions for future programs. Phil Outman, H. H. Heible, Dr. F. F. Lewis, William Callahan, the Rev. G. H. Blum and Carl Bertram are the committee chairmen who will meet Saturday.

The first meeting of all committeemen will be held at which each committee chairman will give a brief summary of the suggestions proposed in his committee and the closing address, "The Functions of the Layman in the Y. M. C. A." will be given by Carey.

Dr. H. F. Lewis is in charge of arrangements for the conference.

Who's Who in County Politics

Editor's note—The following is one of a series of articles on the men and women who are directing political activity in Outagamie county. Some of them hold no public office, nor do they seek office, while others are office holders and are candidates this year. These articles are confined to the men and women who have been political leaders first, and candidates and office holders secondly. Their personal reasons for being in politics are given in the articles.

Although she has been interested in politics since old enough to vote, Mrs. John R. E. Miller, 900 N. Fox street, became active in politics in 1934 when she was elected secretary of the Sixth Ward Voters club.

Mrs. Miller is a party precinct committeewoman and chairman of the Republican women of the Fifteenth ward. Mrs. Miller has made something of a record in the fact that for many years she was the first person in her ward to cast her ballot on election day. Maintaining the record was something of a hobby, she says, until she was named on the election board a couple years ago.

Mrs. Miller deprecates the lack of interest shown by the average person in voting, and says that at least twice the number of votes usually tallied should be counted after every election day.

She says the American constitutional system is built on the basic principle that governments, politicians and voters do not have the whole truth revealed to them instantly on great issues, that the country must not be committed to radical changes until it has been compelled to study them for a long time.

"We should study the issues to be decided earnestly, intelligently and impartially before we go to the polls," she says. "And we should investigate thoroughly the character and qualifications of various candidates before we decided how to cast our votes in the primary, Sept. 17."

Mrs. Miller says our forefathers 150 years ago were thinking of us and that we should be thinking of our posterity 150 years from now by voting on election day and preventing the making of radical

Take Applications For CCC Enrolment

The next CCC enrolment in Outagamie county will be taken in October, the county certification bureau has been notified. Applications for entrance in CCC are being taken at the bureau in the old city hall building. Youths, 17 to 23 years of age, who are in need of employment may make application provided they are otherwise qualified as to fitness and character. Relief status of the family is not necessary to be eligible.

Register for Sewing Class at Vocational School at 1:30 Monday

Registration for the first adult sewing class at the Appleton Vocational school will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon, it was announced yesterday by Miss Mabel Burke, director of the homemaking department. The class will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. every Monday afternoon for ten weeks and will be for seamstresses of intermediate ability and training.

Miss Burke will accept registrations at the same time for a class devoted exclusively to tailoring. The class will deal with the making of boys' suits, girls' and women's coats and suits and wool dresses. The time for class sessions will be determined after the completion of registration.

Bassett Will Speak Before Willkie Club

The Willkie For President club will hold a public meeting at 7.45 Monday night in the Conway hotel, L. R. Watson, chairman, announced today.

Watson said persons interested in the club's objective are invited to attend the gathering.

Robert Bassett, Green Bay attorney, will be the speaker at the meeting, the first general session to be held by the club.

Use Job School Library For Commercial Room

The library on the first floor of the Appleton Vocational school soon will become an office practice room for advanced commercial students, according to Herb Heilig, director. Commercial equipment including calculating machines, duplicators and mimeograph apparatus will be installed in the room. The library will be moved to the third floor. The change was necessitated by a need for space in the commercial department.

Says President's Talk Reveals He Can't be Trusted

Lawrence Says Speech Was Concealed With Political Purpose

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Very little that President Roosevelt can say over the radio or on the stump, whether political or non-political, will affect the outcome of the present election.

Whatever enthusiasm there is already for him will not be greatly increased and whatever prejudice there is against him will not be removed by mere words. The truth is that when a man has been president of the United States for nearly eight years he is the best-known personality in the land and his policies have been so publicized in detail that he cannot in the eight or nine weeks of a campaign reveal a new or changed personality.

That's why the president's speech to the Teamsters' union on Wednesday night in all probability neither lost nor added votes and perhaps in that sense it was non-political. The address was not needed to win votes among the teamsters and, on the other hand, served to confirm to opponents of the president why they have built up what unhappily amounts to a distrust of him as an executive in charge of large public powers.

A concrete instance of why so many Americans regrettably distrust the exercise by the president of vast powers may be found in the text of the speech itself. Thus the president starts out:

"I don't know whether this is a political speech or not."

Then the president proceeds to make an address in which several of his accomplishments and what the Democratic platform in Chicago said and adds thereto several sarcastic remarks about his political opponents. Indeed, he now charges that the word "often" used on the stump these last few years by vice presidential nominee, Henry Wallace, namely "appealment" is a "polite word for misdirected partisanship."

Does the president think that the American people who listen to radio speeches are gullible and that they swallow a political speech as non-political just because he himself naively contends that he doesn't know what it is? There is reason for the belief that the president is directing his campaign to persons who are influenced emotionally by what a president says and who do not think independently for themselves.

Harry Hopkins, the man who represented Mr. Roosevelt at the Chicago third-term convention, once remarked in a press conference that the people "were too damn dumb to understand, anyway" and it may well be that the strategy of the New Deal this time is again to assume that if the president says it, it makes it so.

But these people who have a sense of discrimination can tell at Mr. Roosevelt's speech was conceived with a political purpose and delivered with political arguments germane to the present campaign. The point would ordinarily not be important. There is no reason of rule which forbids Mr. Roosevelt to make all the political speeches he likes. But in a time of great crisis when the appeal on every side is for national unity it is unfortunate that the man who happens to be president of the United States merely furnishes in his speeches corroboration of what many anti-New Dealers have openly contended, namely that they do not feel Mr. Roosevelt should any longer be trusted with public power because of his lack of candor.

Vast Authority

Take the words "national defense." Mr. Roosevelt possesses vast authority which was given him for protection of the nation's security. But in his address he introduces the subject of "labor force" as "another type of national defense." Then after plainly boasting that his administration has helped to increase membership rolls of the labor unions—hardly a government function—he turns violently against the employer class. This means disunity instead of national unity and is certainly a species of class warfare that could be described as "misdirected ownership."

Later on Mr. Roosevelt uses the phrase "eminent domain" to justify seizure of plants. This effort to apply broad historic phrases to cover the present enlargement of executive power is what has caused widespread concern in America. Everybody knows that the object of a national defense program today is to

U.S. Should Turn Attention To Its Latin American Trade

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The senate has passed a bill which would provide the Export-Import bank with $500,000,000 for economic defense in the western hemisphere. The house recently passed a similar bill, but hitched to it was authority for the RFC to lend $1,500,000,000 for defense in this country. That provision the senate removed, leaving the measure standing on its own feet as one for hemisphere economic defense. There has been little public interest in this measure, and perhaps that is natural at this moment when anxiety is so deep for the heroic people of London now resisting one of the most barbaric attacks in history. To think of trade matters amid such agony is almost impertinence. Yet time is precious and we have much to do over here to protect ourselves adequately against unfavorable events.

Much must be done while Germany is busy fighting because the moment the pressure of battle relaxes Berlin will necessarily turn aggressively toward trade recuperation. We are allowed a brief respite for preparation. The direction of our trade interest at the moment is shown in a few key figures. In 1939 Canada and Latin America took 55 per cent of our exports. Our exports to Latin America last year are up nearly 50 per cent over last year. Last year Europe took 40 per cent of our exports but now these have all stopped except to Britain. Eastern Asia received 10 per cent of our exports last year.

Obviously, while present conditions exist, Latin America and Canada are carrying the burden of our foreign trade aside from the military exports to Britain. For the present Latin America is mainly all that we can count on for peacetime trade in any volume. But two factors make even that trade insecure. The first is that the British blockade has cut Latin America off from most of the normal European markets where nearly half of its foreign trade went.

Secondly, Germany will need to drive her exports hard the moment she is released from war, and the desperate plight of Latin American countries will make them easy victims for cut-throat pressure trading by Germany.

This insecurity of our trade with Latin America becomes a most important problem requiring prompt attention by us. Unless the situation is relieved and protected now, our current trade with Latin America is bound to shrink rapidly, and as soon as war stops South American countries will be sucked toward Europe economically because mutual interests will force it.

Really, that is why the administration has asked congress to allow an additional half-billion to the Export-Import bank. These funds would be used in a variety of ways. They would be used for financing export crops, to permit orderly marketing instead of a free competitive dumping in which we, too, would suffer. The funds would be used also to finance establishment of industries, such as the steel plant in Brazil, copper manufacturing in Chile, and development of other industries which would work to the general economic advancement of those countries, and in turn make them better customers of ours.

Expenditure May Turn Out To Be Fortunate Move

Involved in this is an opportunity to supersede some European nations in the exporting of commodities necessary to Latin America. The ability to bamboozle congress has certainly not been diminished by the Export-Import bank, is on his

Pupils Learning Flag Observance

Flag observance as it is embodied in the flag code adopted by the national flag conference is now being studied by the home rooms of Appleton High school. The history and significance of the American flag as well as the correct methods of displaying it and paying it homage are presented with illustrations for study in a pamphlet prepared by the national Americanism commission of the American Legion. Copies of this material have been provided for every student in the high school.

The Americanism commission of the legion asked a flag conference to draft an authentic code of flag etiquette. While the rules adopted have no official government sanction, they represent the authoritative opinion of the principal patriotic bodies of the United States and of army and navy experts.

Students are learning how to display the flag in the various positions, the proper use of bunting, the salute to the flag and the correct way of giving the pledge of allegiance. Federal flag laws and suggested state legislation are also being reviewed.

Purchases House, Lot On W. Franklin Street

Siegried Lehrer has purchased a house and lot at 1002 W. Franklin street from Ida Radloff. The real estate transfer has been filed at the office of Stephen M. Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds. The following also have been filed:

Kimberly-Clark corporation to George Van Zealand, two lots in the village of Kimberly.

way to South America to canvas the field.

Most of the Republicans in both houses opposed the measure as a waste of money. They regard it as money to be poured down the rat-hole.

Yet, though part of the capital never comes back, it may be a worth-while expenditure. It will not be enough to spend $4,000,000,000 on a second navy, and other great sums on air strength and bases, only to have the enormously rich continent of South America tie in to the European economic system under arrangements prejudicial to us. It is not the idea to try to prevent normal exchange of commodities between South America and Europe. It is rather to insure that such exchange will be under normal and free conditions, not under pressure and restrictions that will be injurious to South America and the United States alike.

High School German Club to Present "The American Way"

"Der Deutsche Verein," German club of Appleton High school, will inaugurate the new school year with a reading presentation of "The American Way" by George Kaufman and Moss Hart. The meeting, which also will include initiation of 34 new members and a new adviser, Norval Henn, German instructor is scheduled for Monday evening, Sept. 23, in the Early American room with Miss Sophia Haase, head of the German department and club sponsor, in charge.

"The American Way" is a 3-act drama about life of two German immigrants, Martin and Irma Gunther, who settle in a middle-western town and become successful and loyal citizens of the United States. Mary Bobb Knapp will be the interlocutor and parts will be read by Edgar Thomas, Jean Warson, Frances Galpin, Fred Heinrich, Walter Miller, Jean Favel, James Germanson, June Fumal, Janet Jones and Edward Reuter.

Initiates will be welcomed into the club by means of a "backwards" procedure. The program will be presented in reverse order and the novices will be required to distinguish themselves by wearing their clothes backwards. Gladys Lust is chairman of the refreshment committee. She will be assisted by June Weisgerber, Betty Greb and Betty Collins. The officers of the club will serve as the reception committee. They are Thomas, president; Barba-

Ammon Asks Board To Make Up $30,000 State Fair Deficit

Madison—(P)—Ralph E. Ammon, director of the department of agriculture, Thursday asked the emergency board to make up a $30,000 deficiency incurred in operating the 1940 Wisconsin state fair.

In a letter accompanying his request, Ammon stated that rain fell during four days of the fair, and that cold weather prevailed during five other days.

He said that capital from the 1939 fair had been used in constructing new buildings on the grounds, making it impossible to meet the shortage out of reserves. A substantial part of the 1940 receipts was paid out in premiums, $75,000 of which went to Wisconsin exhibitors, he added.

"Wisconsin's picture is not unfavorable when compared with that of other fairs," Ammon explained. "Losses approximating $50,000 were reported by Minnesota and Iowa officials. They held fairs a week after we did and experienced the same unfavorable weather conditions."

Eberlein, Clausen or Frank?

Denying any prophetic powers the Post-Crescent reports, however, that the grapevine is heavy with rumors that one of the three men named above will receive the Republican nomination for the senate. Yet in any seven candidate contest anyone can be a winner and the result is likely to be a surprise.

Whether the voter consciously weighs each candidate upon the standard scales we have no means of knowing, but we do know the scales.

One of the items concerns the candidate's relation to his party. However much we may all wander into different political parties because of the issues and the candidates we are nevertheless greatly interested in the maintenance of those parties which can only be accomplished by the faithful men who stick around and do the nursing when the kitchen is bare and the prospects poor.

In this respect Mr. Eberlein's candidacy is conspicuous. He has tended Republican needs in sickness as well as in health and when it seemed that perhaps the party was a goner for good.

Upon the issues and the other qualifications of the candidates the voter will find it more difficult to make a decision even though he may know what he wants in a candidate. Mr. Frank makes an excellent appearance and delivers most readable addresses. He is a scholar but as president of the university he was subjected to the sharpest of criticism because he did not get his work done. Nor did this criticism originate alone among his political opponents. Much of it came from strong personal friends.

Mr. Clausen is a well known industrialist of decent methods and standards, who has busied himself on many occasions in the attempt to create for worker and employer those happy and honorable relations from which most good may be expected. He is a novice in the political field.

Mr. Eberlein has taken a forthright position regarding the great issue of war, an issue that may dominate this election and should be met without wincing or weaving. In advance of others he spoke in support of the doctrine of guarding this Western World and against depleting our strength or hazarding our liberties in responding to calls from Asia or Europe irrespective of sympathies.

The candidates from Milwaukee may, for local reasons, and perhaps through personal persuasion, receive a sizable vote in the Wisconsin metropolis but their strength is an unknown quantity just as their qualifications are like the contents of a surprise package.

While the People Sleep

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of the steadiest and truest in support of the Democratic party, almost lost itself in anger at the methods pursued by Mr. Roosevelt in his recent treaty with England, a treaty he refused to submit to the senate for ratification although the constitution says that treaties must be so submitted.

The Post-Dispatch says that what Mr. Roosevelt did was done in "utmost contempt of the democratic processes and of the constitution of the United States" and that instead of asking the senate to ratify his agreement he is "telling them that it has been ratified by him—America's dictator."

We caution against getting too purple in the face at anything Mr. Roosevelt does beyond the extensive powers invested in him by law. There is no use getting a stroke of apoplexy because the constitution is now being torn into shreds. It is true the process has been gradual, and that a war with Mr. Roosevelt at the helm will complete it entirely, but it should have been perfectly obvious the day a member of a criminal organization was put on the supreme court and Mr. Roosevelt's floor managers rushed his confirmation through the senate by smothering the last chance to expose him.

The only miscarriage in that plot was that the press went to work on the smelly affair and exposed it to the country with the satisfaction of seeing it finally and brazenly confessed.

But in wartime the press can be put to sleep. If drugs won't bring on the desired slumber clubs will.

But What Sort of Peace?

Last Sunday, in observing the day he had proclaimed for special prayers for peace in a troubled world, the President sat in church surrounded by royalty that had been driven out of Europe to these safe and friendly shores.

He listened to the rector pray for "a peace of righteousness and justice" but no one indicated what such a peace would be like insofar as its terms are concerned.

England satisfies herself to say that she is fighting to destroy Hitlerism. But there are many who believe that Hitlerism is only a froth which, when brushed aside, will reveal the problems that no one seems to want to answer until he gets the upper hand at a peace table.

How is peace to be maintained in Europe until we know what is to be done with Poland, the Russian half as well as the German half? How will men be kept from each other's throats until we find a just solution of the Bohemian question and in particular, Sudetenland? And when that is decided what about the lands wrested from Finland? And what is to be done for Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania? And shall Bessarabia be abandoned? And Transylvania, too?

These are a few of the questions that protrude, but they are far from all. There is a part of Bulgaria that was choked out of her by Rumania. There is a part of Greece that was torn from Albania. There are islands all over the Mediterranean whose abstract of title in their present hands is far from clear.

Let America ask itself this question—Is there any possible chance of maintaining peace in Europe except by force? And let each American try to answer that question frankly and coolly. How can he avoid declaring that only the mailed fist can keep the pot of war from bubbling with these ancient wrongs of which practically every nation has some to present?

How can the future stability of that continent be secured if we are to intervene except by our constant intervention?

The sort of peace that Europe knew before our idealists led us into the Great Adventure in 1917 was far from perfect but it did sort of suffice. It was known as the Balance of Power. It resulted in one or two great struggles a century with a few minor clashes among the little nations which seemed to give them an idea of maturity.

There is an old saying, and a very good one, that one has no right to criticize a prevailing system unless he has something better to offer. Criticism, and particularly of European wrongs, is as easy as opening a book. One may take any side he likes and sustain it with proof and arguments no end.

But when we agree that Hitlerism should be destroyed let us not put the lights out and adjourn the meeting until those most interested tell us what is to supplant it.

The "Funny" Side of Education

One of our great investigating organizations has discovered that the educated supply by far the greater percentage of radicals among Americans.

This should not be a black mark upon education but upon the sort of education we have and the sort of people to whom we give it.

We are pouring out education at a great expense to the public and much of it is being absorbed by neurotic youths and maidens who would be better off doing hard manual labor that opened their pores.

At the same time we consign to the toughest jobs millions of our splendid, intelligent youth because they haven't enough money to pay their way through college.

Important as scholastic ability is to anyone who pursues educational lines a cooperative disposition is indispensable to good citizenship and has been too long neglected in reckoning things of importance.

Our educated radicals have created conditions like the dog who lives under the house. He may or may not be of high degree but he is an introvert and the darkness that surrounds him is his world and the light outside is his enemy.

Actually our radicals are sick. It may be an ailment of the brain. It may be a twist in the nervous system. It may be lack of courage. But it isn't normality.

And educating that class only makes them more miserable.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

HUMAN LOVE

Often they picture Him as being Harsh and revengeful. Is it true
That One who gave us Heaven's blue,
And who is gracious and all-seeing,

Could fail to comprehend our weak
And striving hearts? We read His sign
In every leaf and flowering vine.
From peaceful hills we hear Him speak.

When human love can be forgiving,
And understand an erring brother,
How gentle must be the kind Father
To all who fail the task of living.

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—If federal authorities probe deep enough into the crash of the Pennsylvania Central Airlines plane which carried Senator Lundeen to his death in Virginia, they may find some highly interesting facts regarding nazi activities in the United States.

What most people do not know is that Senator Lundeen, rabid pro-German isolationist, was under investigation at the time of his death. A G-man, a department of justice attorney, and an FBI secretary were on the plane with him, and all were killed. The department of justice probably will deny that they were shadowing the Minnesota senator, but the fact is that at least one of them definitely was.

Suspicion had been directed in Senator Lundeen's direction after many mysterious visits to his office on the part of George Sylvester Viereck, famous German propagandist and reputedly a cousin of the Kaiser. Viereck published "The Fatherland" during the World war, has since received fees for public relations work for Berlin, and is a self-avowed "friend of Adolf Hitler's Germany."

Viereck frequently came to Lundeen's office to inquire if certain speeches had been inserted in the congressional record. These speeches presumably had been written by Viereck himself or at least inspired. In fact, speeches written for the senator by his research assistants, among them Miss Izetta Robb, frequently were changed in order to give them a pro-dictatorship slant.

Viereck brought frequent gifts of candy to the Lundeen stenographers, but eventually they got suspicious and reported the mysterious goings and comings of nazi sympathizers to the Lundeen office. They also reported the presence on the Lundeen office force of a New York German girl, whose German husband traveled in South America.

MYSTERIOUS CRASH

Lundeen was one of the isolationist bloc in the United States senate, and his speeches followed the line of the fifth columnists in the sense that they were bitterly anti-British and vigorously against American preparedness. Justice department agents were attempting to find out the extent to which Berlin was definitely hooked up with any members of this congressional bloc when Lundeen's plane crashed.

As to the cause of the crash, air experts continue to be mystified. The plane struck a ridge in a thunderstorm, but at an unorthodox angle and at an excessive speed with throttles wide open, seemingly out of control. It was over a terrain where an emergency landing would have been possible, and the pilot had reported everything OK only 10 minutes earlier. Pennsylvania Central had never had a crash before in its entire history.

Whether certain foreign agents figured that they were about to be exposed, whether G-men on the plane tangled with Lundeen in flight, or whether it was an act of God and the weather may never be known. But some of Lundeen's office force can tell a lot of things about fifth column activities in the United States congress.

NEW FARM SECRETARY

The little group that witnessed it is still chuckling over the slapstick comedy at the swearing-in of Claude Wickard as new secretary of agriculture.

The fun began when the president was unable to find Wickard's commission of office. He rummaged through his crowded desk and in the drawers. But no luck. Finally he dispatched Chief Clerk Rudolph Forster to make a search of the executive offices.

Five minutes later Forster returned, clutching the missing document. Roosevelt prepared to proceed with the ceremony—but a new hitch developed. No one was present empowered to swear in Wickard.

Whereupon the president threw up his hands in mock dismay.

"I can't administer the oath," he said. "I'm only the president. It takes a notary." Raising an eyebrow at Forster, he inquired, "Can you swear?"

Amid the roar of laughter that followed, a photographer, pointing to his colleague, suggested, "I don't know about Mr. Forster, Mr. President, but these boys are mighty good at it. Why don't you try them?"

Forster again stepped into the breach, produced Frank Sanderson, White House clerk with a notary's license, and the ceremony was completed.

FDR AND ARGENTINA

There has been a lot of publicity regarding Roosevelt's conference with Argentine diplomat Leopoldo Melo over buying Argentine beef. Actually the conversation covered a lot of things besides meat.

Roosevelt promised that this country would substantially increase its imports of Argentine products; first because Argentina has suffered heavy loss of her European export market and faces an acute depression; second, because Argentina continues to buy from the United States, but this buying must fall off if she cannot sell here to obtain dollar exchange for purchases.

Discussing these problems, the president told Melo that the defense program would require heavy purchases of wool for uniforms, hides for shoes, and canned beef for the commissary. Though the government would not buy direct from Argentina, the buying from domestic sources would create new demand for imports, substantially benefiting Argentina.

There was also discussion of using a part of the new Export-Import Bank fund of $500,000, about to be voted by congress, for trade with Argentina.

Note—Latest export figures show that Argentina has now become the leading foreign purchaser of American passenger cars.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Dr. Francis Townsend was disappointed in Wendell Willkie's acceptance speech because he didn't endorse the old-age pension plan. Several weeks ago Townsend claimed that Senator McNary had "endorsed" the plan, although actually McNary said merely that he thought the issue should receive "sympathetic" consideration. This week Townsend sourly declares that Willkie's statement favoring "adequate old age benefits" is insufficient. Townsend has been trying to arrange a conference with Willkie, so far with no luck. . . . E. B. Germany, red hot Garner booster and manager of his unsuccessful campaign, has made it up with the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket. After a conference with National Chairman Ed Flynn, Germany told Texas leaders he was 100 per cent for the slate and would assist House Floor Leader Sam Rayburn, another Garner crony, in managing the southwestern campaign. Germany will direct the campaign headquarters in Dallas while Rayburn is busy in congress. . . . Those reports disseminated by certain politicians that no Taft leader could get anywhere in the Willkie organization are largely axe-grinding talk. Inside fact is that Dave Ingalls, hard-hitting manager of the Ohioan who nearly licked Willkie, is now on the closest terms with him.

A Bystander In Washington

Editor's Note—While Jack Stinnett, who writes the "Bystander" in this space usually devotes to his column has been made available to the major political parties for a pro-and-con presentation of an agreed list of political subjects.

This is the Republican view of "The New Deal." The Democratic view will be presented tomorrow.

BY STYLES BRIDGES

U. S. Senator from New Hampshire

Washington—The eight years of the Roosevelt administration will go down in American history as the era of futility, or as something even worse.

That futility will give way to tragedy, should Mr. Roosevelt succeed in achieving his third term ambitions, is my sincere conviction. War would, in that event, appear inevitable. And no hurried appropriations of billions will suffice to repair in time our long neglected defenses.

To attempt to detail the New Deal record of failure in the space here allotted to me is, of course, manifestly impossible. I can only point out some of the consequences, actual and potential, from the New Deal's mistakes, bungling and ineptitude, results that will be with us for many years.

But even the New Deal's sins of omission and commission in its handling of the domestic economy, its sometime concealed, sometimes openly provocative, foreign policies; its unbridled waste and extravagance; its unwarranted attacks on legitimate business; the piling up of a national debt of inconceivable proportions; the failure to solve the unemployment problem, or to provide adequately for the nation's defense, all these, and other faults equally grievous, are less evil in their potential consequences than the continuous usurpation of power by the executive.

This steady encroachment by Mr. Roosevelt upon the constitutional prerogatives of the legislative and judicial branches of the government is the real menace of the New Deal and the gravest danger confronting the republic.

Temporarily stopped by the defeat of the Supreme Court packing bill from the creation of a high court completely under the executive domination, resignations and deaths of members of the court, enabled the President, by the power of appointment, to accomplish his purpose in the end.

The Congress, in control of the New Dealers, has largely ceased in its function of exercising a restraining influence.

Lump sums of billions of dollars are placed at the President's disposal to do with as he wills and taxes are then levied, or the debt limit raised, to procure the money to be expended.

In the hands of the executive has been placed complete control over the monetary system of the country. Thus neither the Congress nor the Supreme Court longer serves as a serious check to the carrying out of any mandate that may issue from the White House.

Sworn to uphold the Constitution, the executive has again and again flouted its provisions and has expressed views that he considers the document outmoded and outworn.

Instead of the representative government our forefathers handed down to us, we have government carried on through the creation of innumerable bureaucracies, each sufficient unto itself, possessing arbitrary powers over both individuals and property, responsible only to the executive, subject to no court review.

Already the abridgment of many individual liberties has resulted, and we have been carried a long way toward adopting the alien concepts of totalitarian government in force under the European dictatorships.

The ultimate result of a continuance of these trends can only mean the destruction of democracy by our own hands, rather than by any threat emanating from a foreign power.

The New Deal must, then, be judged not only by the record it has already made but by what is its clear intent and purpose should it be continued in power.

Thus far in the present campaign there has been no effort to explain, or to defend, the waste and extravagance that has brought the nation near to bankruptcy; there has been no excuse offered for the proven political use of relief money; no adequate explanation has been given as to what has been obtained for approximately six billions appropriated for defense purposes, prior to the President's recent emergency messages.

No promise has been given of the curtailment of the ordinary expenditures of government to help defray the extraordinary appropriations now required for armaments.

There is, in short, no reason for the people to believe that the New Deal has learned anything from its mistakes, or that it intends to correct them.

There is only the insatiable ambition of one man to be continued in office, cost the American people what it may, in dollars, lives or liberties.

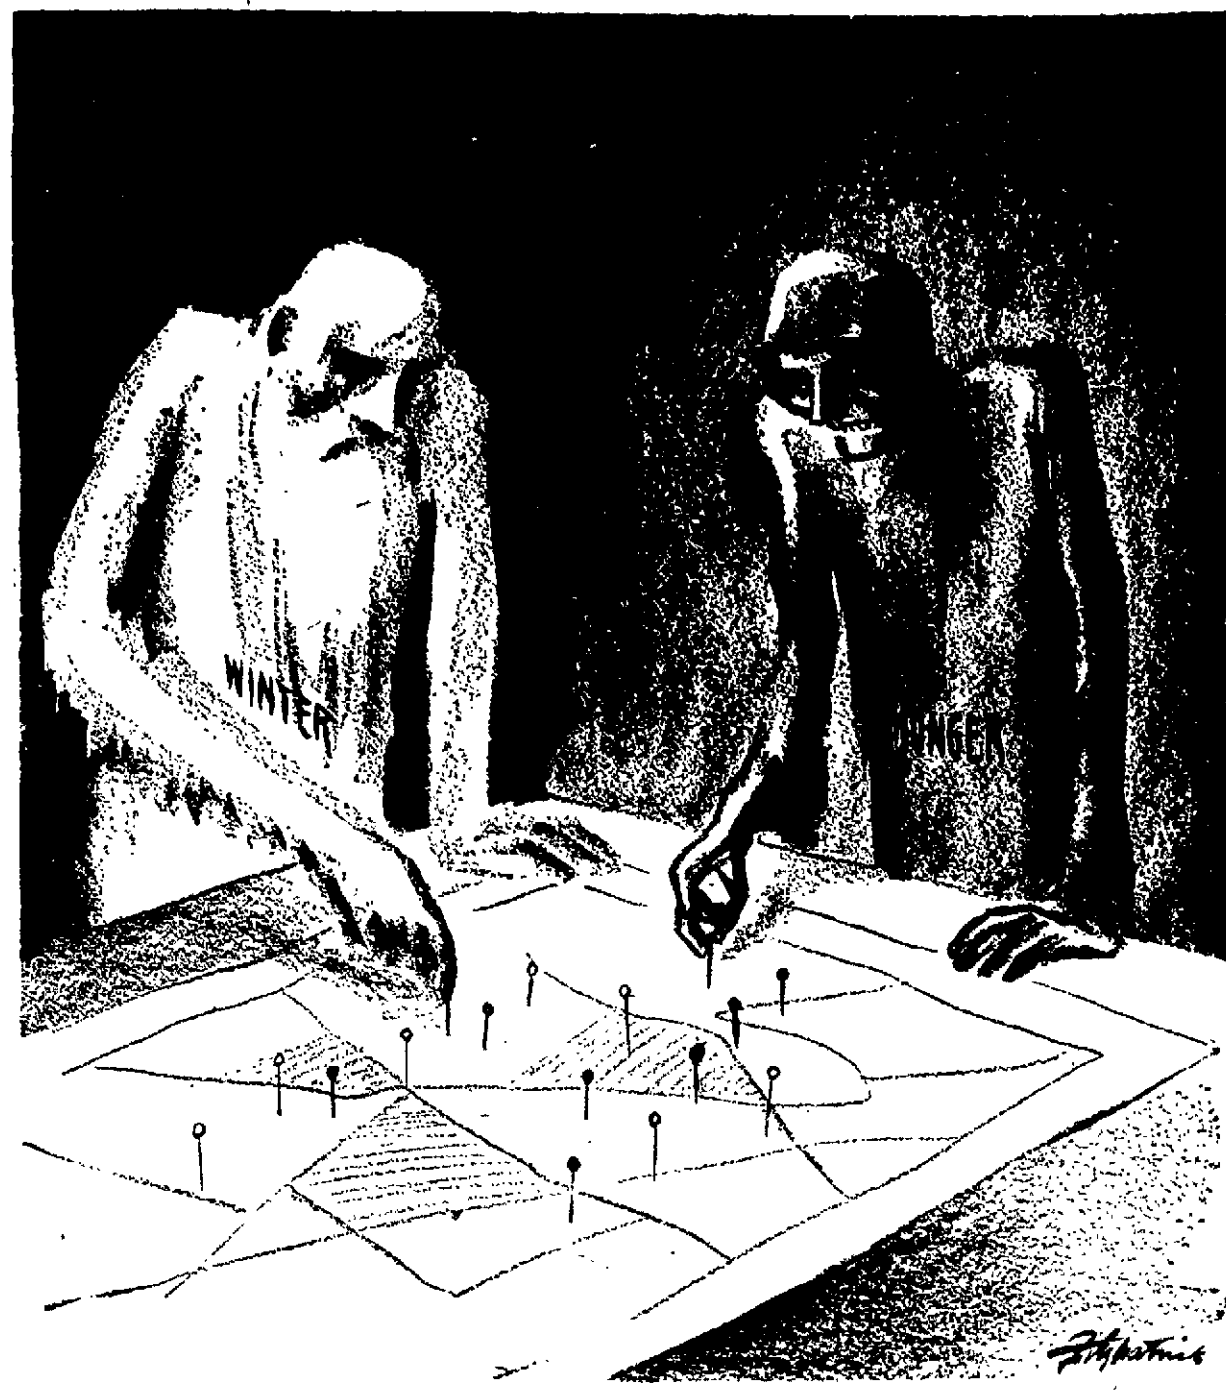

A Stay-at-Home

Santa Barbara, Calif.—(AP)—Delphina de la Guerra a living link with the romantic days of Spanish rule in California, has lived all her 79 years in the same adobe house and sleeps in a room adjoining that in which she was born.

Seniorita de la Guerra herself was never a Spanish subject but her family was one of the most powerful of Spain in California officials. Her home is now in the heart of the business district.

Sniff! Sniff!

Gilroy, Calif.—(AP)—This is a case in which police literally are after a scent. Somebody stole 1,000 pounds of garlic from a ranch.

Two Other Commanders

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—In contrast to the 1936 campaign, the powers of the Townsend movement are playing their hands discreetly in the 1940 contest but politicians are not yet convinced that the vote power of the pension movement can safely be ignored.

Two years ago the Republicans, Progressives and Democrats bubbled over with eagerness in promising bigger pensions for the old folks, with the result that the pension vote as such was pretty well diffused although Progressives maintained that the Republicans profited handsomely from it.

This year there is little open discussion. The strategy of the pension organizations appears to be to advise their membership privately, by letter, on the favored candidates. The result is that it is difficult to appraise the situation.

There probably will be one index to the strength of the "pension vote," however, the primary vote collected by Walter B. Childen of Merrill, Republican candidate for senator who is frankly depending upon the Townsend endorsement to put him over.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

It is safe now to predict that the forthcoming platform conventions of the Republicans, Progressives and Democrats, scheduled after the candidates are nominated at Tuesday's primary will furnish some of the most interesting political debates to be heard in Wisconsin this year.

A strenuous tug of war for control of the party's platform is in prospect for the Progressive convention, mainly because of the LaFollette's forthright attitude on issues of foreign policy and defense.

A considerable segment of the Progressive party stands behind the Roosevelt program. The LaFollette does not. There may even be an issue of support for the president's third term candidacy, although it is unlikely that Senator LaFollette will publicly oppose it.

Just as significant will be the potential disputes in the Republican platform convention, mainly because of the obvious disagreements between Wisconsin Republican leaders and Mr. Willkie.

KELLY ISOLATION

Consider the loneliness of Morley G. Kelly of Fond du Lac, unopposed candidate for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket.

Doubtless Kelly filled what would have been an embarrassing breach for the Democrats when he decided to run for lieutenant governor, for apparently no one else in the party was interested in doing so. Democratic leaders' gratitude, however, has not been great enough to warrant any public expressions of support thus far.

In fact, the pointed failure to mention Kelly in the public speeches of C. E. Broughton of the New Deal regulars and Gustave Keller of the DPOW is causing some comment. Broughton recently named his preferred candidates, but skipped reference to the lieutenant governorship. Keller in a radio speech in the capitol read the slate he is supporting, but again there was no mention of a lieutenant governor candidate.

POT-POURRI

Expect the Progressives to concentrate on the oleo issue in their campaign against Hoel after the primary. . . . The state bar association is protesting against the alleged practice of the state industrial commission of advising workmen they do not have to employ lawyers in compensation cases. . . . A recent proposal from the Henry Gunderson camp for a concerted denunciation by the four regular Progressive candidates against the Socialist supporters of Orland Logans has fallen flat.

CESSATION OF MIGRAINE

Several years ago (writes a woman) I started taking calcium acetate. I applied to your instructions for periodic sick headaches. As a result I had less frequent and less severe attacks, and also I enjoyed absolute immunity to ere during that time.

But here is the mysterious part of my experience. Four months ago I took several hundred grains of sulfanilamide to help combat a throat infection, and since then I have had many an attack of headache, nor have I taken the calcium since at my physician's suggestion.

Could it be possible that the sulfanilamide aroused some latent gland, inactivity of which was responsible for my sick headaches? My doctor is unable to account for the complete cessation of the headaches, but says the sulfanilamide can hardly be credited. (Mrs. A. A.)

Your doctor shows admirable restraint, for sulfanilamide is being credited with helping in the cure of almost everything from streptococcal eczema to the pips. No sooner said than I find myself blushing furiously as I recall the imposing list of complaints for which I recommend calcium. Oh, well, we doctors are human and sometimes our enthusiasm gets out of control.

Periodic sick headaches, otherwise known as migraine, especially if the attacks are preceded by an aura of warning most frequently scintillate or fortification spectra, zig-zag light effects on one side of the field of vision—cases when the subject reaches the age of fifty or fifty-five, in a good many cases, regardless of treatment. It is difficult to attribute this spontaneous cessation of migraine to the menopause (change of life) unless you maintain that the men who suffer from migraine aren't. For every five women with migraine there are two men—I mean that is the ratio of the trouble in the two sexes.

Never in my recollection—and that includes the heyday of aspirin and 606—has a new medicine been so thoroughly sold to the profession as sulfanilamide. How it acts nobody seems to know. Certainly it is not an antiseptic or germicide in the ordinary sense of the words. What the exact destruction of blood corpuscles may be when a little too much sulfanilamide is given in any case, everybody seems to ignore when reporting on the effects of administration of the drug in various conditions.

The miracle men who gave sulfanilamide to the profession merely suggested that it is bacteriostatic—that is, it inhibits or slows or diminishes the growth of germs, especially the notorious streptococcus, without destruction.

Calcium treatment of migraine is described in pamphlet "Why Have Headaches?"—for copy inclose stamped envelope bearing your address.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Stale Milk
We keep milk in the refrigerator for a week and it seems as good as it was when fresh. Is there any harm in using milk as old as that, if it stays sweet? (B. R.)
Answer—Bacterial growth may continue even though the refrigeration delays actual souring. Naturally soured milk would be safer, I believe. Souring, from conversion of milk sugar (lactose) into lactic acid by the growth of lactic bacilli, tends to make the milk less favorable for growth of any disease germs that may be in it. Better get fresh milk at least three days a week.

Foot Itch
Kindly print the formula for the salve you recommended for foot itch. (Mrs. E. L.)
Answer—Whitfield's ointment—15 grains of salicylic acid, 25 grains of benzoic acid, two drams of soft petrolatum and enough coconut oil to make one ounce of salve. Apply at night to affected patches of skin, for a week, then rest off for a week, and repeat if necessary.

Guest Speakers Will Preach at Annual Festival

Number of Lutheran Churches in Appleton Area to Hold Programs

A number of Lutheran churches in the towns and villages surrounding Appleton are celebrating their annual mission festivals this month. Among those scheduled for Sunday are festivals at St. John Lutheran church, town of Center; Immanuel Lutheran church, town of Clayton; and St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Fremont.

At the Center church, the Rev. Wilmer Valleskey of Greenleaf will be guest speaker at the 9 o'clock English service in the morning, while at the English service at 2:30 in the afternoon the Rev. Walter Gieschen of Green Bay will be guest preacher. Bible class and Sunday school will be conducted as usual at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The Rev. Sylvester Johnson, pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran church, Appleton, will preach the sermon at the evening services for the annual mission festival Sunday at Immanuel Lutheran church, town of Clayton. At the morning service at 10 o'clock Kurt Lederer, candidate for theology of Green Bay, will preach. Both services will be in English and an offering for missions will be taken. Because of the mission services at the Clayton church which is served by the Greenville pastor, there will be no services at the Greenville Lutheran church Sunday afternoon. Afternoon the pastor, the Rev. Leonard Kaspar, will preach the mission sermon at the Lutheran church in Waupaca of which the Rev. F. Reier is pastor.

Chicken Dinner

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Fremont, will observe its mission festival Sunday with a German service at 10 o'clock in the morning at which the Rev. A. E. Schneider of East Bloomfield will speak, and an English service at 2:30 in the afternoon with a sermon by the Rev. J. H. Pustatz of Shawano. During the noon hour the women of the congregation will serve a chicken dinner in the church basement.

English services will be held at 9:30 Sunday morning at Immanuel Lutheran church, Cicero. Sunday school will follow. The confirmation classes for the next two years will attend school Saturday, instructions beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Election of delegates of the Hortonville Women's Christian Temperance Union to the state convention at Richland Center will take place at a meeting at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Sept. 20, at the home of Mrs. Charles Rhodes. The sermon at the 11 o'clock service at Community Baptist church, Hortonville, Sunday morning will be entitled "Encouragement in Well Doing." The Bible school topic at 10 o'clock will be "The Ever-Present God." The Rev. I. T. Foreman, pastor, attended the Wisconsin Baptist Ministers' retreat at Beaver Dam last week.

Sunday Masses

St. Patrick's Catholic church, Stephentown, will have mass at 7:30 Sunday morning. At St. Paul Lutheran church services will be at 8:45 Sunday morning, while at the Methodist church they will be at 10 o'clock.

Mass will be celebrated at 7:30 Sunday morning at St. Joseph's mission at Dale, and at 9 o'clock at St. Peter and Paul church, Hortonville. A business meeting of the entire congregation will be held after the 9 o'clock mass at Hortonville.

Divine services will be held at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at Bethlehem Lutheran church, Hortonville, in the form of English communion. Sunday evening the Rev. H. E. Wicke, pastor, will preach at a mission festival for the Rev. Edward Hinnenthal at Kolberg. The Rev. Mr. Wicke will attend the pastoral conference at Kaukauna next Tuesday.

St. John Evangelical church, Black Creek, will have Sunday school at 9 o'clock Sunday morning and the regular service at 10 o'clock. The sermon topic will be "The Father of Them That Believe." Today the Churchmen's Brotherhood is resuming its meetings. Mrs. Ervin Rohloff and Mrs. John Mutschmidt are attending a meeting of women of Evangelical and Reformed churches today at Wausau to organize a Women's

Wisconsin Among Leaders in Snap Bean Production

About a tenth of all the snap beans produced in the nation this year will be harvested in Wisconsin, according to crop reporting service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, county agent.

Only Oregon, Maryland, and New York exceed Wisconsin in the production of this crop.

Present estimates show that the state's production of snap beans for canning will be about 10,600 tons. A larger acreage was planted than was harvested in 1939 but some decrease in the yield per acre is shown for Wisconsin this year, the yield being about 1.4 tons per acre. The acreage is estimated at 7,600 acres for the state. Acreage and production of snap beans for canning are both larger than the 10-year average.

With a larger acreage than reported for 1939, the total production of snap beans for canning for the United States will be larger than last year's crop. Present estimates indicate that the total crop will be about 101,700 tons, or eight per cent above the crop harvested in 1939. Unfavorable weather in some states caused a decrease in the production of snap beans for canning. The yield per acre is lower for the nation than it was in 1939.

Guild of the North Wisconsin Synod

The sermon subject at Immanuel Lutheran church Black Creek at a 9:30 English service will be "The Grace of God Bestowed Upon the Christian." Sunday school will begin at 10:30.

A low mass will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Dennis Catholic church, Shuonon, and a high mass at 10 o'clock at St. Mary church Black Creek.

Farmers to Get AAA Payments

$79,238, About Half Of County's Total, to Be Paid at Meetings

Soil conservation payment checks amounting to $79,238.23, about 50 per cent of the total for the county, will be distributed at a series of meetings in the county, it was announced today by Joseph E. Garvey, county chairman of the AAA committee. Persons who are to receive checks have been notified.

Following is the meeting schedule: Black Creek town hall, 4 to 6 p. m. Sept. 18; Bovina town hall, 1 to 3 p. m. Sept. 18; Buchanan town hall, 1 to 3 p. m. Sept. 17; Center town hall, 10 to 12 a. m. Sept. 20; Freedom, Schommer's hall, 10 to 12 a. m. Sept. 16; Grand Chute, county office in Appleton, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Sept. 17; Greenville, DeBruin tavern, 4 to 6 p. m. Sept. 20; Hortonville, Fireman's hall, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Sept. 19; Kaukauna town hall, 10 to 12 a. m. Sept. 17; Liberty town hall, 4 to 6 p. m. Sept. 19; Maine town hall, 10 to 12 a. m. Sept. 18; Maple Creek town hall, 1 to 3 p. m. Sept. 19; Oneida, Vandenberg hall, 1 to 3 p. m. Sept. 16; Osborn town hall, 4 to 6 p. m. Sept. 16; Seymour city hall, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Sept. 16; Vandenberg, Wau's hall, Little Chute, 4 to 6 p. m. Sept. 17.

Licensing, Bonding Laws Have Prevented Losses for Farmers

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Licensing and bonding laws recently enacted for Wisconsin canners and dairy plant operators have resulted in preventing thousands of dollars in losses for Wisconsin farm patrons of those establishments, records of the state department of agriculture showed today.

While losses resulting from bankruptcies and failures of canners and dairy operators in former years sometimes reached half a million dollars in unpaid farmers' accounts, losses to farm patrons of canners have been eliminated entirely while last year only $30,000 was lost to dairy plant patrons, according to the report. In 1938, for example, dairy failures caused losses of $300,000 to farmers.

The dairy bonding law was enacted in 1939, and to date securities have been approved on license applications of 3,174 plant operators and 113 dairy products dealers, according to W. L. Witte, marketing department head.

Various kinds of security were accepted, the department explained.

More than 1200 used the contract type provided by the law. The next largest number, furnished surety bonds and financial statements. Slightly more than 100 indicated by affidavit that they are not buying from producers, 201 submitted certificates of deposit, 18 turned over savings pass books, three furnished life insurance policies with a cash value, and nine submitted bonds and stocks.

Action was recently started against several plant operators who were charged with being slow and making no attempt to comply with the lawful requirements, Witte said. Others are making final arrangements for compliance.

Farmers May Reseal Corn on AAA Loans

Farmers who have stored 1938 or 1939 corn under loan in the AAA ever-normal granary have three alternatives in handling their loan: These, as given by the county agricultural conservation committee, are: They may reseal the corn for either one or two years; in the corn counties they may redeem the corn at 58 cents for 1938 corn and at 57 cents plus accrued interest on 1939 corn; or they may deliver it to the Commodity Credit corporation when notified to do so.

Effort is being made to encourage the resealing of a considerable part of this corn. The committee is asking farmers to notify it as soon as possible on their plans.

Farmers who reseal their corn are being advised that they can receive additional storage payments to help provide cribs and bins for such storage. The storage payment, it is said, will amount to 10 cents a bushel if the corn is resealed for two years and 5 cents for a one year storage. Past interest will be canceled on all corn that is resealed.

Thiel and Schider to Conduct Farm Auctions

A. J. Thiel, Chilton, will conduct an auction at the John Meyer farm, a mile north and a mile west of New Holstein at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Next week he will conduct two auctions, one Wednesday afternoon at the old Fisher farm five miles south of Little Chute and a mile south of Darboy, and the other Thursday afternoon at the Charles Machenske farm 2 1/2 miles southwest of Nichols. On Tuesday, Sept. 24, he will be in charge of a dairy cattle auction at the Thiel farm 3 1/2 miles north of Chilton.

An auction will be held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the William Weiss farm, situated a half mile south of the Fremont church on County Trunk H. A. A. Schider, Manawa, will be the auctioneer.

Rebekahs Will Meet Thursday at Waupaca

Waupaca—Rebekahs will meet Thursday evening, Sept. 19, at the Odd Fellows hall. In addition to the business meeting, there will be a program and other entertainment. Refreshments will be served. The committee is composed of Mrs. Emma J. Olson, Irma Hansen and Elizabeth Peterson.

The Samaritan Ladies Aid society of Holy Ghost Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 18. The hostesses will be the Misses Inga and Etta Rasmussen.

The women's Bible class of the Methodist church will meet in the church parlors next Tuesday. A pot luck supper will be served at 6:30, after which there will be election of officers.

Tesch Herd Is High Producer

Averages 31 Pounds Of Butterfat During Month in Test Group

The Ervin Tesch herd won high honors in the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement association, No. 7, last month by producing an average of 918 pounds of milk or 31 pounds of butterfat.

Other high herd records were: Jerry Young, 30-pound butterfat average; Gustave Mentzel, 29.2-pound average; Albert Klug, 28-pound average; and Ben Bolinski, farm No. 2, 27.8-pound average.

A cow of the Ben Bolinski No. 1 farm was high in individual production with 911 pounds of milk containing 64.7 pounds of butterfat. A cow in the Ervin Tesch herd was second high with 53.5 pounds. Third was another cow in the Bolinski herd with 52.1 pounds. An Albert Knapp cow was fourth with 50.1 pounds, and a Gustave Mentzel cow fifth with 46.4 pounds.

Following are the owners and number of cows producing 40 or more pounds of butterfat during the month: Albert Klug 1, Harvey Buboltz 1, Harvey Baerwald 1, Gustave Mentzel 1, Ervin Tesch 2, Albert Knapp 1, Ben Bolinski, farm No. 1, 1, farm No. 2, 2, Frank Jepson 1 and Jerry Young 2.

Horse Disease Attack Was Light This Year

Wisconsin had fewer cases of equine encephalomyelitis this year than in any year since the disease was introduced in this state about five years ago, according to a state department of agriculture bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

Commonly known as sleeping sickness in horses, the disease has been limited to scattered areas throughout the state this summer, according to Dr. V. S. Larson, chief of the livestock sanitation division, state department of agriculture.

A great deal of vaccinating was practiced to control the disease, Dr. Larson stated.

City Council Will Request Bids for Pool

Mayor Calls Special Session for Approval Of Plans for Project

After tonight, youngsters of Appleton will know for certain that before long they can splash and swim in a fancy new swimming pool.

The city council at a special meeting at 7:30 tonight in city hall will approve plans and specifications for the new Hunter pool and authorize the advertising for bids on the project, estimated to cost about $48,000.

Meeting with the council will be Paul Schroeder, Watertown, engineer - representative of Hunter Swimming Pools, Inc. which has its headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind.

Schroeder this week met with the board of public works of the council and conferred with members of the state board of health on the project.

The call for the special meeting was issued this morning by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., after it became apparent that all preliminary work was finished and the time for asking of bids at hand.

The council will also deal with other matters tonight, among them a request by the Fuhrmann Canning company for the purchase of a strip of city-owned land on the city home property.

Discussion on the Hegner plat, and consideration of applications for various licenses, and petitions will come up tonight.

Post Office Mail Carriers, Clerks To Attend Parley

Appleton letter carriers, post office clerks and members of the organizations' auxiliaries will attend the Northeast Wisconsin district of letter carriers and the Fox River district of post office clerks meeting tomorrow at Sheboygan.

Appleton members of the letter carriers association who will attend are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rietz, Mr. and Mrs. John Rossmass, George J. Weinfurter, R. W. Haase, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George F. Grimmer and W. W. Grimmer and Mr. and Mrs. William Schulze. Weinfurter is president of the Wisconsin State Letter Carriers association.

Post office clerks at the meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kahler, president, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Pirner, Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Schroth, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Schulze, Arthur H. Pirner and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen D. Balliet, postmaster.

Elroy C. Hallbeck, a vice president of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, will be the main speaker for the clerks, with Ben Sparks, Rushville, Ind., member of the board of trustees of the Mutual Benefit association, the principal speaker for the carriers. A general meeting of both groups will conclude the sessions.

The Weather

Forecast for Wisconsin:
Partly cloudy; cooler northwest and west central portions tonight; Saturday fair, cooler south and east portions.

General Weather Conditions:
Since yesterday morning showers have occurred over the north Atlantic states, the St. Lawrence valley, the northern Rocky mountain region and the northern Pacific coast states. Fair weather prevailed over all other sections of the country.

It was warmer this morning over the Missouri and Mississippi valleys, the Great Lakes region and the central plains states, while temperatures were somewhat lower over all sections of the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states.

Partly cloudy weather is expected in this section tonight, followed by fair and cooler Saturday.

Hits Ditch to Avoid Truck Parked on Road

Alfred Luedtke, route 2, Appleton, escaped injury when his car rolled over after he went into a ditch on Highway 45 north of Appleton at 2:30 this morning to avoid hitting a parked truck. The car was badly damaged.

Clyde Pender, 28, Ashdown, Ark., driver of the truck, told Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad, that he was tired and went to sleep after stopping his truck. Pleading guilty of parking his truck on a highway and interfering with traffic, the trucker was fined $5 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning.

Hand Injured

Robert Hoffman, 20, 728 W. Packard street, suffered a severe laceration of the thumb and part of his right hand in an accident on a splitter in the woodroom of the Interlake mill about noon yesterday. He is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

NEW IDEA IN STREET SURFACING—Workmen began surfacing North Superior street from Parkway to Nicholas street yesterday with what is called soil cement construction. Aggregates of clay, cinders, pit run gravel and portland cement are mixed and moistened directly on the surface to be covered by specially designed mechanical equipment. After thorough mixing and compacting the grade is established with a wide blade power grader, then rolled tightly with a ten ton roller. By next spring curing will be complete and a bituminous one half inch layer of wearing surface can be applied. Shown above is the watering operation. To the right farther down are two other machines used in this type of construction. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Cloudy Tonight, Fair Tomorrow

Cooler Temperatures Expected Saturday; Mercury at 71 Today

Partly cloudy weather prevailed in Appleton today and was expected to continue tonight, according to the Milwaukee weather bureau forecast for Wisconsin. Cooler weather is predicted tonight in the north-west and west central portions of the state.

Fair weather is expected Saturday with cooler temperatures in the south and east portions. Highest and lowest temperatures recorded in Appleton during the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning were 69 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 51 degrees at 3 o'clock this morning, according to Wisconsin Michigan Power company reports. The thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building stood at 71 degrees at noon today.

Phoenix, Ariz., again experienced the highest temperature in the nation, 100 degrees. Lowest mark reported by official weather bureau stations during the last 24 hours was 41 degrees at Louisville, Ky., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Veterinarians Meet At Hotel in Seymour

Seymour—The Northeastern Wisconsin Veterinary Medical association met at Hotel Falck on Wednesday. About fifty veterinarians and their ladies were entertained at a banquet at 7 o'clock in the evening. Several outstanding speakers were present including Dr. W. S. Larson, state veterinarian; Dr. L. P. Scott of Waterloo, Iowa; and Dr. D. M. Campbell, editor of Veterinary Medicine.

Entertainment at the banquet was furnished by the Nagel sisters. Wesleyan Service Guild met at the home of Mrs. Oral Berry Friday evening. Mrs. Fern Blanshan and Mrs. Edward Brownson were assistant hostesses. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Miss Warrine Sherman, president; Mrs. Agnetta Spande, vice president; Mrs. Arthur McBain, treasurer.

Trades School Teachers In Madison Conference

Recruiting Is Program Aim

Giant Searchlight to Be Displayed Tonight; Band Will Entertain

An exhibition of an anti-aircraft searchlight in operation will be one of the features of a national defense program at 7:45 tonight at the fairgrounds near the city water tower. Sergeant E. L. Friday, of Fort Sheridan, Ill., recruiting officer stationed in Menasha, will describe regulations for entering the army and the government's present recruiting program. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., will talk briefly on the program.

The 120th Field Artillery band will be on hand to entertain at tonight's gathering. A mobile recruiting unit from Fort Sheridan, consisting of an officer and nine enlisted men, will operate the anti-aircraft searchlight.

Sergeant Friday reported today that officials of veterans organizations in Appleton have been invited to appear on tonight's program.

Sons of Legion Corps Plays at Fond du Lac

The Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps of Oney Johnston post had a full program Thursday night at Fond du Lac, playing for the Fond du Lac Legion installation, the auxiliary installation and also at a baseball park in that city. A group of Appleton Legionnaires accompanied the boys to Fond du Lac. The Appleton delegation, both drum and bugle corps and Legionnaires, paraded from the Retlaw hotel to the army.

Officers will be elected by the Sons of the American Legion at their first fall meeting next Thursday.

Loomis Lashes at Gov. Heil's Record

Kenosha — (P)—Laborers should beware of political candidates who profess "deep interest" in them only at election time, Orland S. Loomis, Progressive candidate for governor, said last night.

"Every piece of legislation in the interests of laboring men and women, farmers and small businessmen, was put upon the statute books of Wisconsin by the Progressives over the bitter tooth-and-nail opposition of reactionaries in the Republican and Democratic parties," Loomis asserted.

"Since Progressives have been out of power efforts have been made to wipe out or cripple this progress."

Employment On Upgrade

Private Industry Is Taking Up Slack in Northern Lakes States

Washington — (P)—Substantial increases in the number of private industry jobs filled by state-operated employment offices in the northern great lakes states are shown in records of the federal security agency for July, compared with a year ago. The increases ranged from 11.3 per cent in Michigan where 10,907 were placed in July to 37.8 per cent in Minnesota on the basis of 7,492 placements. Wisconsin's increase was 17.2 per cent with 6,702 placements.

At the same time out-of-work benefits paid to unemployed workers increased 50.8 per cent in Wisconsin, 30.9 per cent in Michigan and fell 6.7 per cent in Minnesota.

Besides private placements, there were 887 public placements and 268 supplemental placements (where the office takes only some of the steps to complete placement) in Michigan. For other states there were 852 public and 423 supplemental in Wisconsin and 1,182 public and 949 supplemental in Minnesota.

For the first seven months of 1940, private placements for Michigan totaled 65,197, a 28 per cent increase over the corresponding seven months last year; for Wisconsin 39,351, a 13.8 per cent increase, and Minnesota, 34,397, a 20.5 per cent increase. Benefit payments for unemployed workers in Michigan totaled $2,918,348 during July and $14,494,939 during the seven months; Wisconsin $456 and $3,055,572; Minnesota, $598,010 and $6,997,076.

Program Charted For GOP Rally

The program for the county-wide rally sponsored by the Outagamie county Young Republicans at the Rainbow Gardens Saturday night was announced today.

It will open with music from 8 to 8:30. Community singing will follow. Introduction of cooperating Republican candidates for county offices will take place from 8:45 to 9:30. Introduction of cooperating party candidates for state offices will follow and they will be permitted to give short talks. Among them will be Alvin E. O'Konsky, candidate for lieutenant governor; John M. Smith, candidate for reelection as state treasurer; Joshua L. Johns, candidate for reelection as congressman; Francis J. Dilleit and George Miller, candidates for congress.

The talks will be followed with a dance period from 10:15 to 11 o'clock when refreshments and lunch will be served. Dancing then will be resumed until 1 o'clock.

Exams for Pension Jobs Will Be Held Sept. 21

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau). Madison—Examinations for positions in the professional classifications in county pension departments will be held next Saturday, Sept. 21, the state bureau of personnel announced today. Applicants for clerical positions under civil service as provided in the new county civil service law will be examined later.

Outagamie county applicants will write their examinations at the Appleton Vocational school, beginning at 9 o'clock.

D.A.V. to Stage Parade, Picnic

Legion and V.F.W. Will Participate in Activities on Sunday

American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts from this part of Wisconsin will participate in the parade and public picnic Sunday which will be sponsored by William F. Speel chapter, No. 18, Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

A parade at 10 o'clock Sunday morning will open the day's program. Represented in the column will be a Chinese novelty band from the Neenah American Legion post, the kitchen band of the Appleton V. F. W. auxiliary, the Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps of Oney Johnston post, Appleton, and bands and floats from Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Seymour, Kimberly, New London and other posts in this vicinity.

The parade will form on E. College avenue near Lawrence Memorial chapel and march down College avenue to Pierce park, according to Wilbur F. Bogan, vice commander of the local chapter and general chairman of the parade and picnic.

Rides, concessions, dancing and awarding of gifts will be featured at the picnic which will start at Pierce park at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon and continue until 11 o'clock in the evening.

State, district and local officers will meet Sunday afternoon at the Conway hotel to consider national problems and provision for the disabled members of D. A. V. chapters. Included at the meeting will be Alvin Wollenberg, Sheboygan, third district commander; Joseph E. Deuster, Green Bay, past state commander of the D. A. V. and member of the state advisory council; Harold S. Stafford, Chippewa Falls, past state commander, and Mayor L. Promen, Fond du Lac, Americanization chairman.

Representing the local chapter will be Robert Grainer, commander; Raymond Voight, adjutant; Barney Gamske, junior vice commander, and Wilbur Bogan, vice commander.

Propose Aviation Training Program At County Airport

The county executive committee yesterday discussed a federal student aviation training program at the county airport in cooperation with Lawrence college, but delayed action on the matter to get more particulars on the program.

It was voted to sell the Hortonville mill property to the village for $1,273.76, the amount of taxes against the property.

A representative of John Nuveen and Company appeared before the committee and suggested refunding the county asylum bonds amounting to $66,000 with a substantial saving to the county. The matter was referred to the district attorney.

Bills amounting to $5,429.82 were approved.

Lawrence Has Fewer Frosh

New Student Enrolment Shows Slight Decrease From Last Year's Mark

New student registration yesterday, the first day of freshman week at Lawrence college, totaled 265 students including upperclass transfers and conservatory of music students, John S. Millis, dean of administration, announced this morning. Total new student enrolment at the college will be between 275 and 280 after all transfer students have registered. This marks a decrease of about 20 students from last year's new student enrolment.

Freshman enrolment in the college will be about 230, and 31 freshmen have been enrolled in the conservatory. The freshman class will be about 15 students less than last year, Millis said.

Total enrolment for the college will be, down slightly from last year, but there is a slight temporary excess of students registered for the college dormitories, the dean said.

Upperclassmen will register Monday and Tuesday, and classes will begin Wednesday, matriculation day.

WPA Work for Vets Discussed at Parley

The matter of veteran's preference in WPA employment was discussed by county service officers of the Green Bay WPA district No. 2 with WPA officials at Green Bay yesterday afternoon. 2 Persons Hurt In Accidents

6-Year-Old Boy Is Injured by Car at Street Intersection

Two persons were injured in traffic accidents in the city during the last two days.

Jack Kettleson, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kettleson, 313 W. Franklin street, suffered abrasions of the right hand, knees and ankle in an accident involving a car driven by Joseph Stoffel, 45, 538 W. Eighth street, at the intersection of Washington and Superior streets about 5:15 yesterday afternoon.

The boy was crossing the Superior street and Stoffel was going west on Washington street when the accident occurred at the north-west corner of the intersection. Stoffel took the boy to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Cornelius LeNoble, 32, 631 E. Fremont street, suffered minor injuries when cars driven by Chester Zak, 26, 916 Broad street, Menasha, and Emil A. Kussman, 30, 1525 W. Wisconsin avenue collided at 10:35 Wednesday night on Wisconsin avenue. Both were going west and Zak started to pass as Kussman began a left turn. The Zak machine struck a light pole. Le Noble was in the Zak car, according to police.

A bicycle owned by Thomas Steger, 1415 W. Washington street, was damaged when struck by a car driven by C. L. Graham, Bakers Field, Calif., at 12:20 Wednesday afternoon, according to police. Graham was driving into a parking stall when his car struck the parked bicycle.

The parked car of Mrs. Carlton Babcock, 227 1/2 Third street, Neenah, was damaged about the rear end in an accident involving a car driven by George Mader, 40, 708 N. Oneida street, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Mader was driving north on Superior street when the accident occurred, it was reported to police.

Mrs. L. H. Huibregste Is Elected President of Auxiliary at Brillion

Brillion—The annual meeting of the American Legion auxiliary was held at the legion hall on Monday evening. Miss Emma Horn gave a report on the county council meeting at New Holstein last week, and Mrs. Henry Horn gave a report as chairman of the building investigating committee.

New officers were elected: President, Mrs. L. H. Huibregste, to succeed Miss Harriet Andrews; first vice president, Mrs. Arthur Lau; second vice president, Mrs. Joseph Schwallier, and treasurer, Miss Emma Horn. The appointive officers will be named by the president before the next meeting. Installation of the new officers will take place in connection with the legion meeting at New Holstein after Oct. 15. The new president and the secretary who will be appointed by the president will be the delegates to the Sixth district fall conference at Kiel in October.

Before the meeting a musical program was presented. The following numbers were presented: a saxophone solo by Miss Helen Jane Horn; a reading on the origin and history of music by Mrs. Arthur Heimke, and piano accordion selections by Miss Caroline Schuh of Kiel. Later in the evening a social hour followed and lunch was served. Twenty-eight members and three guests attended. The committee in charge consisted of the Mesdames Arthur Lau, chairman; Arthur Heimke and Joseph Schuh.

Technocrats to Hold Study Course Tonight

The Appleton chapter of Technocracy, Inc., will hold a study course tonight.

The presentation will include an explanation of the characteristics of energy. H. H. Redlin is chairman of the education committee.

about them, and British fighters in hot pursuit.

At least two of the daring bombers were believed brought down in the city and parachutes from crippled planes drifted over London landmarks as clouds of anti-aircraft bursts filled the skies and hanging British pursuit planes dashed after the attackers.

Scores of incendiary bombs were dropped far and wide, some of them in well-known thoroughfares. Air-raid wardens promptly extinguished great numbers of them.

Some of Germany's biggest bombers participated in the raid.

Despite the quick action of firemen, a red glow over the west end was seen by rooftop watchers and other fires broke out.

The first alarm today at 7:37 a. m. (12:37 a. m. C. S. T.), lasted five minutes and caught Londoners by surprise as they were at breakfast and on crowded trains, buses and boats going to work.

This first raid came only one hour and 54 minutes after the end of the sixth all-night alarm of eight and a half hours in which, however, Britain's new "all out" aerial barrage for the second time kept most of the raiders at a distance from the central city.

Widespread attacks were reported over the rest of Britain, however, particularly in the midlands and Lancashire, north of Liverpool. Belfast reported an incendiary bomb attack on northern Ireland where bombs in the main street of a town set some houses afire.

1175 Dead in London

Meanwhile, it was disclosed, London has suffered 1175 dead and approximately 4270 injured since Saturday and severe damage to a great many historic buildings in these mass bombings. Somerset house, a historic building in the Strand occupied by government offices; the Piccadilly hotel, houses in Berkeley square, an old residential district, and eight churches—St. Magnus the Martyr, St. Swinburn, St. Mary-at-Hill, St. Dunstan-in-the-East, St. Mary Woolnoth, St. Clements, St. Augustine's and St. Giles Chippendale—all have been damaged.

A petroleum cannister also hit a Catholic church in west London during the night and burned it to a shell.

Today's raiders were aided by a cloudy sky, which gave them cover. British bombers stuck heavily last night at Le Havre, on the German-held French coast, where the nazi army has been reported concentrating some of its most powerful units for an invasion of Britain, the air ministry announced tonight.

A German tanker and a supply ship were hit at Le Havre, the ministry said.

It also reported that a British balloon barrage had snared a German plane early today.

Party Will Open K. of C. Social Season

The fall social season for Father Fitzmaurice council, Knights of Columbus, will open with a dinner-dance next Thursday night at St. Joseph's hall for knights, their ladies and prospective members. The Rev. C. B. Vanden Borne, Kimberly, chaplain of the council, will be the speaker at the dinner, and dancing and cards will follow. Peter J. De Laine, speaker of the council, will be general chairman of the party. Norman Ehle will act as ticket chairman and Mrs. William Geenen will be in charge of the cards.

Mrs. Fred Stoffel and Mrs. William Tierney were the winners at schafkopf and Mrs. Elizabeth Neugebauer and Mrs. Augusta Schultz, the winners at plumpack, at the weekly card party sponsored yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's hall by the Ladies Aid society of St. Joseph's church. Another party will be given under the auspices of the society next Thursday.

Miss Ethel Stallman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Stallman, 518 E. Wisconsin avenue, who will leave Saturday for Minneapolis to accept a position with the Midland Cooperative Wholesale company, was honored at a farewell party last night at Dyer's Country club near Hortonville by a group of her friends. Personal gifts were presented to the guest of honor and a midnight supper was served. Miss Stallman has been employed by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

A ham fry for members of the Z.T.D. club was given Thursday afternoon at Telulah park, when a new member, Miss Alma Refke, was initiated. Those present were the Misses Refke, Ann Wyngaard, Betty Bruno, Helen Wildenberg, Hazel Gerrits, Leone Mitchell, Florence Seeger and Mrs. Herman Gustafson. The club will go on a leaf-gathering expedition soon.

Konemic lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will sponsor the first of a series of dances tonight at Odd Fellow hall. The committee in charge consists of Maynard Fields, chairman; Walter Nissen, William Damerow, Henry and Earl Moritz, Charles Goldbeck and Joseph Gabriel.

Mrs. S. N. Pickard, Neenah, and Mrs. James Whelan, Menasha, entertained about 60 guests at luncheon Thursday at North Shore Golf club. Honors at bridge went to Mrs. Robert Mc Millen, Mrs. Kenneth Dickinson and Mrs. John McNaughton.

Mrs. Ray Curry and Mrs. Bert Bewick were hostesses to 20 guests at a 6:30 dinner party Thursday night at the Copper Kettle in honor of Mrs. Louis Micheln. Bridge was played after the dinner, the prizes going to Mrs. Fred Gehrke, Mrs. George Culligan and Mrs. Clarence Baetz. Mrs. Emmery Greunke won the special prize, and Mrs. Micheln received a guest prize. Mrs. George Barth, Green Bay, mother of Mrs. Bewick, was an out-of-town guest.

A group of friends celebrated Fritz Selig's seventeenth birthday anniversary with him last night at his home, 514 W. Wisconsin avenue. The guests were Miss Marian Doyle, Menasha, Miss Bernice Hennes, Miss Priscilla Hammer, Miss Rosemary Nickasch, Miss Marian Wilson, William Knaack, Robert Coley, William Block, Florian and Rita Heimermann, Vernon and Betty Selig. Cards and dancing provided the evening's entertainment.

A family gathering was held Wednesday night at Hotel Delavan, Waupaca, in celebration of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Danielson, 1531 N. Harrison street. Dinner was served at 6:30, and the evening was spent playing cards. Prizes were won by Mrs. Walter Danielson and Chris Nelson, Waupaca, and Miss Ruth Simon, Appleton. Others present were Walter Danielson, Mrs. Chris Nelson and Virginia Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Martin, Miss Inga Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson and sons, Robert and Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Cartwright and Arlie Danielson, Waupaca; Denver Groff, Neenah; and Gladys and Ralph Danielson, Appleton.

amid unofficial reports that an Italian drive into Egypt already was under way.

It was the fifth successive day of such assaults, often the prelude of an offensive.

The high command communiqué did not mention any land offensive, but one military authority said "an operation" already had begun in that sector. He disclosed no details, however, and other high fascist sources expressed doubt that Italian land forces actually had crossed the British-defended Egyptian border.

But indications mounted that both the steadily increasing Italian and the public debt at the end of the next four years will be from 75 to 100 billions." He asked the crowd: "Is there anybody here who is so damned dumb as to think that that can go on for four years more?"

Member of the audience shouted, "No."

The nominee also attacked the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization saying: "I need help to clean out the mess. It will take several shovels just to clean out Chicago. I want to say to Kelly and to Pat Nash that when I get to be president there will be no income tax settlements." He did not elaborate.

Willkie expressed the hope that Chicagoans would vote for Dwight H. Green and Weyland Brooks, Republican candidates for governor and senator, respectively, in Illinois. Green introduced Willkie as a man who "made a success of everything—a laboring man, a farmer, business man and soldier—a man who came up the American way."

Willkie later contended that President Roosevelt "doesn't know what it means to work with his hands or to produce things so that other men can work."

The speech in the unusual setting of the mile-square stock yards was the first of four arranged for the day in the city.

Upon his arrival at the Union station Willkie said he would speak "the truth in plain Indiana language."

Before the Republican nominee left Rushville, Ind., late last night he told a cheering throng around his 12-car special train there was a "rare combination on the other side of this fight."

The "buccaneers," he asserted, are coupled with a "high profession of noble ideals."

"Even though I face a ruthless gang of political corruptionists—Boss Hague, Kelly-Nash and Boss Flynn—I don't believe that corruption can sway the vote of the great cities."

"And I don't believe that an entrenched bureaucracy with billions of dollars to spend can influence an election."

British forces along the desert Egyptian-Libyan frontier were preparing for major action. Day and night, the Italian communiqué said, Italian bombers have hammered at British motorized columns and other targets along the Egyptian coast.

A gasoline storage tank was reported set afire and trucks, armored cars and tanks put out of action by repeated hits.

Other Italian planes bombed British positions in an Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and a motorized column in the El Katulo zone of Kenya colony, the communiqué said.

The high command reported an Italian submarine had sunk 18,000 tons of British shipping in the Atlantic ocean, including a 10,000-ton oil tanker and an 8,000-ton freighter.

Five soldiers and one civilian were killed and several other persons were injured when a British bomb, dropped during a recent air raid, exploded as it was being removed from near the Fiat motor factory in Turin.

ported to have unloaded fresh destruction with "extraordinary accuracy" on the British capital's docks and industries.

Although Berliners slept through the night without air-raid alarms, authorized sources said these "retaliatory" attacks on London and other parts of England would continue without let-up.

Besides the daylight attacks on London, another foray against southern England was said to have put one airplane factory out of production.

In today's intensified raids on London DNE the official news agency, reported that new fires visible for miles were started in some sections of the city proper and on docks along both sides of the Thames.

"Several planes" broke through the British anti-aircraft barrage in south and southeast England and headed "unhindered" toward London where bombs of all calibers were dropped, DNE said.

The high command reported that during the night new fires and explosions were set off in London and the western port of Liverpool and heavy damage inflicted on Berhill, Brighton, Banburg and other places in southern England.

Eight British naval forces attempted to shell Boulogne, in German-held France, during the night, but were driven off by Nazi coastal batteries without damage, its communiqué said.

It admitted that British night raiders swept over northern and western Germany and dropped bombs on residential sections and a village, but declared that they failed to reach their real goals.

been preparing to invade Egypt from Libya ever since Italy entered the war at Germany's side and foreign observers believed the attack was timed to coincide with the intense German aerial onslaught against Britain, Egypt's protector.

More Victims Sought After Plant Blasts

Reverberations were felt as far away as Danbury, Conn., 125 miles to the east.

The powder exploded in two terrific blasts and was followed by a series of lesser concussions and a fire which raced through the ruins and surrounding woodlands. The flames hampered rescue efforts and for a time threatened an underground magazine.

Twelve hours later another explosion sent shivers through Kenil residents. It was minor in character but loud enough to arouse alarm.

Hunt said eight tons of powder in a solvent recovery plant blew up in the first two blasts, setting off other explosions which destroyed an additional 20 tons.

Word of the disaster spread rapidly and within an hour a score of agencies, including the New York and Pennsylvania state police had offered aid. Dozens of rescue squads and ambulances carried the injured to hospitals.

Town Hysterical

Hysteria ran through this Morris county town of 900 as the magnitude of the disaster dawned upon residents. Relatives of the plant's 1,500 workmen rushed to the 2,000-acre factory site. Anguished cries of wives and mothers added to the shrieks of the injured.

Police Chief Harry Jenkins, describing the scene at the plant as "horrible," said he saw arms and legs torn from bodies.

Most of the injured were taken to the Dover General hospital, where at least three died after arrival. Several others were not expected to live.

So great was the rush on the hospital's facilities that many were treated in hallways.

When the Dover hospital could take no more, the remaining injured were transported to St. Mary's Athletic hall, the Dover Hospital Nurses' home, and the All Souls hospital in Morristown.

Of the dead, seven were twisted and burned beyond recognition. Hunt said about 75 men were employed in the immediate vicinity of the explosions and that 25 in addition to the known dead were unaccounted for.

Some of the injured could not be identified because they were too badly burned to be questioned.

As workers waited for the wreckage to cool to begin digging for more bodies, Hunt said flatly there was "no possibility of further explosions."

Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R-N. J.), member of the Dies committee, visited the scene of the disaster and later announced the committee would "investigate the group who are holding employment in the plant."

In Washington, President Roosevelt asked the war department and Red Cross to rush aid to the scene. Governor A. Harry Moore called upon all state agencies to cooperate in alleviating suffering.

Hunt said the company was at a loss to explain either the fire or explosions.

"We thought all safeguards possible to prevent such an occurrence had been taken," he declared. "We have no suspicion of any sabotage."

picketing, boycotting or otherwise advertising the dispute, Goldberg said:

"You can go rowboating, but you cannot use oars. You can go on strike, but you cannot publicize it to get the support of the community. You cannot exercise free speech in a labor dispute unless you get a permit from the majority employees. That is about the size of it."

"The minority employees cannot do anything about wages, hours, working conditions—no matter how bad they are. Yes, they can go on strike, but about all they can do then is to go home and sleep," he added.

Boardman declared the law infringing upon no rights, saying: "Freedom of speech is not at issue here. Rather the issue concerns the right of organized labor to direct its concerted attack against an individual because it feels the end justifies the means."

"Where have the unions got any kick coming?" he asked. "The legislature has a right to provide reasonable regulations of labor's coercive weapons. The legislature has a right to determine when a dispute is not of a substantial nature, and it has the right to protect an employer from an unsubstantial or minority strike."

Yacht Damaged When It Strikes Rock Pile

A 38-foot yacht, Wilmet, from Charlevoix, Mich., was damaged yesterday when it struck a rockpile in the Fox river near Little Rapids below Kaukauna and it has been laid up at the Appleton Boat club for repairs. The boat was enroute to Fond du Lac with three men when the accident occurred.

Bloomquist, formerly head of the department, is substituting. Miss Ebert expects to be able to resume work next Monday.

All other high school instructors who were here last year have returned. They are Roy R. Bloomquist, principal; H. P. Barrington, Smith-Hughes agriculture instructor; Carlton Patt, music director at both the grade and high schools; Earl Carl Koch, English; Miss Mabel Pitts, English and Latin; Miss Gretchen Kelley, history; Carl W. Swiston, science instructor; Miss Mary Jean Rossmiller, commercial and Miss Dorothy Briggs, mathematics and general business. Mr. Bloomquist will coach basketball and track and Mr. Swiston will be in charge of football and baseball.

The grade school faculty includes two new teachers, Miss Elaine Barker of Shawano, third and fourth grades instructor, and Miss Helen Kirley of Doyleston, first and second grades teacher. Martin Krueger is beginning his second year as principal and seventh and eighth grades instructor and Miss Norene is again in charge of the third and fourth grades.

Manawa—A total of 381 students, 20 less than were registered in 1939, are attending the three Manawa educational institutions, according to figures released by officials. The number is 28 short of the record-breaking total of 409 set in 1932.

Enrolment at the high school includes 230 students, registered from all sections of central Waupaca county. The number is six less than last year's figures and 12 short of the number that enrolled in 1938, the largest in the history of the high school.

A total of 63 freshmen have enrolled equalling the record for first-year students set in 1937. There are 55 sophomores, the same number as last year, 55 juniors, six fewer than in 1939, and 37 seniors. The graduating class numbers four less than a year ago.

Manawa grade school enrolled 127 students this year, a loss of 12 from the attendance of 1939. The first grade has 21 pupils, the second, 13; third, 20; fourth 13; fifth, 15; sixth, 17; seventh, 18, and eighth, 10. The latter class is one of the smallest in years.

St. Paul Lutheran parochial school has an enrolment of 24 this fall. This is four less than a year ago. David Karpinsky is again principal.

Outagamie street. Mrs. Peter Bast was named alternate. The next meeting will be Oct. 11 at the home of Miss Helen Filz, 903 W. Elsie street.

The senior and junior Bible classes of St. Matthew Lutheran church will meet at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening at the church.

"Follow Thou Me," the theme of the state and national conventions of the Evangelical Sunday school, was the theme of the rally meeting of Berean Bible class of Emmanuel Evangelical church Thursday night at the church. Thirty-five persons attended. Miss Dorothy Van Horn reported on the state convention at Lomira. Viola Mae Trautman played a piano solo, "Lullaby," by Brahms. Mrs. M. W. Maxwell read a poem, "Love to Others," and Mrs.

24 Become Charter Members Of College Pi Phi Chapter

Pledged in the morning and initiated in the afternoon, 24 young women became charter members of the Lawrence college chapter of Pi Beta Phi sorority yesterday. The sorority was installed as Wisconsin Gamma chapter at ceremonies at the Masonic temple. Presiding were Miss Amy Burnham Onken, Chapin, Ill., national president of the sorority, Miss Miriam E. Williams, Carlsbad, Ill., province president, and Mrs. George MacClyment, Peoria, Ill., province vice president.

An informal luncheon was served at the Masonic temple between the morning pledging and the afternoon initiation, and the installation banquet was held in the evening at Riverview Country club. Mrs. Leslie Ross, Oshkosh, president of Fox River Valley alumnae of Pi Beta Phi, was toastmistress at the banquet, and the speakers were Miss Onken, Miss Mary Jane Hill, Columbia, Mo., Miss Williams and Mrs. MacClyment. Miss Dorothy Ahrensfield, Oak Park, Ill., president of the active chapter, spoke briefly, as did also Mrs. William Buchanan, one of the new alumnae initiates.

Today's program included a breakfast at the Pan-Hellenic house, a chapter meeting and a "cookie shine" at Mrs. Frank F. Wheeler's home, 826 E. Washington street. From 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon the sorority will entertain at a tea at Riverview Country club for Lawrence faculty members and a representative group of townspeople.

Initiated into the sorority were Miss Mildred Toll, Appleton; Miss Carmen Campbell, Clintonville; Miss Ruth Althaus, Shelbyville, Ill.; John Trautman and Mrs. Harry Krug sang a duet.

The Rev. G. H. Blum, pastor, gave a short talk Election of officers will take place Nov. 14 when a white gift offering will be taken.

Mrs. E. W. Turney, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Roy Harriman, vice president, of the Woman's Society of the Green Bay Baptist association met Wednesday afternoon at Green Bay with Mrs. W. P. Whitney to make plans for a district meeting of the society Sept. 24 at Pound, Wis. The district sessions will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and continue through the evening. Mrs. E. J. Steinberg, Milwaukee, state president of the Baptist Women's Missionary Society of Wisconsin, will speak at the afternoon session.

A rummage sale to be sponsored jointly by Circles 4 and 5 of First Congregational church on Friday, Sept. 20, was planned by latter circle at a luncheon meeting Thursday at the church. Twenty members were present.

The picnic of Circle 4 scheduled for yesterday was cancelled because of the weather, and a regular meeting will take place next Thursday afternoon at the church.

'Mikado' to Review of Kaufman-Hart Book Features First Fall Meeting of Woman's Club

A picture of America as seen through the eyes of a German immigrant in the period from 1896 to the present time was presented in vivid fashion by Mrs. S. E. Crockett, Menasha, who read "The American Way," play by George Kaufman and Moss Hart, at the opening meeting of Appleton Federated Woman's club Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Crockett, who described the first half of the play as ranking as one of America's superior folk plays and the second half as the American way of life coming to grips with racial, social and economic problems, read the most significant parts of the play which had such a successful run on Broadway with Fredric March and Florence Eldridge in the leading roles, and linked the parts together with brief explanations and apt comments.

The audience was amused by the references to popular songs of the various periods, excerpts from political speeches in the McKinley-Bryan campaign and slogans from the last World War.

Preceding Mrs. Crockett's program, Edgar Thomas, whom the Woman's club sent to the Badger Boys State this summer, told of his experiences there and distributed samples of the camp paper, political placards and other material used at camp. Edgar was elected judge of his city at camp.

Announcement was made that the date of the card party to be held at the Thomas Flanagan, Sr. home has been changed to Oct. 16 to avoid conflict with the program which Appleton Business and Professional Women's club will sponsor at the Methodist church on Sept. 24.

A luncheon was served before the meeting to about 50 women.

Officers of Appleton unit of the American Legion auxiliary will be elected at a meeting at 7:45 Monday night at the Legion clubhouse. Mrs. John Hantschel will be chairman of the social committee.

Sunshine club of the George D. Eggleston Woman's Relief corps met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Phillips, 1913 W. Spencer street. Twenty-two members were present. Mrs. John Woehler and Miss Nina Brannard were assistant hostesses. The afternoon was spent playing cards and dice, the prizes going to Mrs. Clark Dillon and Mrs. Ann Teske at schafkopf, to Mrs. Otto Reetz and Mrs. Fred Hoffman at bridge; and to Mrs. Edward Brinkman at dice. The club's next meeting is scheduled for Oct. 9 at Mrs. L. J. Kaufman's home, 189 Gardner's Row.

Miss Anna Bohi Charlotte street, entertained the J. T. S. club last evening at her home. Games were played, and prizes were won by Mrs. Hugo Redlin and Miss Lucille Schultz. Mrs. Redlin will be hostess to the club in two weeks at her home, 615 W. Summer street.

The picnic planned by the recreation department of Appleton Woman's club for this month has been postponed until early in October. Mrs. J. F. Magnus is chairman of the recreation department.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Yankevich, Kams, Mrs. Charles Hawks, Sr., Mrs. Herman F. Lange and Mrs. Julius Hoenlein, Horicon, visited yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Marugg, 323 N. Washington street.

Mrs. John G. Harmon and the Misses Margaret Dercks and Eleanor Verbeeten Little Chute entertained at a pre-nuptial party at the Hammen hotel, Little Chute, Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Helen Dercks, who will be married Monday to Henry Haupt. Prizes at cards were awarded Miss Willard Versteegen, Miss Edythe Hammen, Miss Lucille Peetris and Miss Lester Sander's. The guests were Miss Lambert Leygraaf, Mrs. L. Van Dyke, Mrs. Edgar Versteegen, Mrs. John Look, Mrs. Willard Versteegen, Mrs. Joseph Hinkens, Miss Betty Versteegen, Mrs. Clara Janz, Mrs. William Van Lankvelt, Mrs. Margaret Vanden Brand, Miss Belle Versteegen, Mrs. Lester Sander's, Mrs. John Reichel, Mrs. Nicholas Jansen, Mrs. Minnie Lucassen, Miss Grace Weidenhaupt, Mrs. Anna Wonders, Mrs. Henry Dercks, Miss Barbara Dercks, Mrs. J. Miss Dorothea Meggers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Meggers, Clintonville, was honored at a pre-nuptial shower Tuesday evening given by Miss Jean Eberhardt and Miss Leola Jackson at the O. C. Eberhardt cottage on Clover Leaf Lake. The affair was in the form of a dessert-bridge, there being four tables in play. Honors at cards went to Miss Louise Kant and Mrs. Harry Kluth. A gift was presented to Miss Meggers whose marriage to Edward McGlone, Clintonville, will take place this month.

Ruth Simon Is Honored At Shower

Miss Ruth Simon, whose marriage to Ralph Danielson will take place Sept. 21, was honored at a kitchen shower last night given by Mrs. O. Brucks and Miss Eunice Fredericks at the home of the latter, 1006 N. State street. Miss Rachel Owen, Miss Ruth Simon and Miss Jane Simon won prizes at court whist, and the out-of-town guests were Miss Helen Handler, Mrs. Robert Fredericks and Mrs. Jack Finch, Menasha, and Mrs. Elmer Vander Velden, Kimberly.

Others present were Mrs. Alex Ogilvie, Mrs. Walter Hensel, Miss Florence Klarner, Mrs. Roy Morris and Miss Bernice Hartung.

Miss Owen, 1604 W. Rogers avenue, will entertain at a personal shower next Tuesday night.

Miss Vera Moeller, whose marriage to Walter Thielker, St. Louis, will take place the latter part of this month, was guest of honor at a dinner given last night by Miss Eleanor Redlin and Miss Leone Lemburg at the latter's home, 739 W. Lorain street. The guest of honor received a gift and Mrs. Herman Lodholz, Miss Dorothy E. Omann, Neenah, and Miss Etienne Buetow, Kaukauna, won prizes at the games which were played. Other guests were Miss Marvis Schmidt, Miss Marie Hein and Miss Gladys Behrend.

Miss Elaine Stecker, 318 E. Winnebago street, entertained 15 young women at a breakfast yesterday morning for Mrs. Geraldine Ecker, who will be married at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at Zion Lutheran church to Robert Ecker. The bride-to-be received a gift. Hostesses with Mrs. Stecker who will be Miss Ecker's only attendant at the wedding ceremony, were Mrs. Wallace Mooney and Mrs. Earl Stecker.

'Lazy Town' Is Operetta for Lincoln School

Kindergarten Pupils, Lower Six Grades to Take Part in Show

New London — The operetta has been selected and work is under way at Lincoln school for the annual production which will be given Oct. 18 at Washington High school auditorium.

"Lazy Town," an operetta in two acts, will be presented by the lower six grades and kindergarten. The show will have 17 main characters, 20 musical numbers, seven dancing groups and six choruses.

The story centers around the cottage of Mama Rooze and her two children, Peter and Meena, who live in a Dutch settlement in small western town. Papa Rooze has been gone five years in search of gold and the children must work to support themselves. Suddenly gold is found in Lazy town and it becomes Crazy town. Finally papa returns with gold and all are happy.

Teachers in charge of the production and now selecting leading characters are Iris Dean, Vivian Shaw, Luella Andrews, Jessie Cottrell, Florence Ruhsam, Flora Matler and Marguerite Roycraft. The kindergarten and first grades will appear as chorus groups.

The costumed choruses will include small girls, Brownies, flower girls, neighbors, Eskimos, and Mysterious Men. Dance groups will be children, Eskimos, candles, flower girls, Brownies, ghosts, burros, Baby doll and dolls.

Methodists Will Hold Rally Oct. 6

New London — The annual rally day of the New London Methodist church was set for Sunday, Oct. 6, at a meeting of the official church board Wednesday night. The meeting followed a 6 o'clock supper.

Quiet Primary Is Indicated in Waupaca County

Democrats Fail to Have Ticket for First Time in Years

Waupaca — One of the quietest primary election campaigns witnessed in Waupaca county in many years will come to a conclusion Tuesday when voters will elect candidates to represent the Republican and Progressive parties at the general election in November. For the first time in many years, the Democrats failed to put up a county ticket.

Probably the best drawing card as far as county voters are concerned is the three-cornered Progressive race for assembly, with widely known and energetic candidates participating. They include Alvin A. Handrich, Manawa, assemblyman from 1934 to 1938; Rhinard I. Anderson, Iola village president, and Peter C. Jensen, former chairman of the town of Farmington.

Two close races are expected in the Republican field for the district attorney and register of deeds nominations. J. Kyle Anderson, Waupaca, and A. Don Zwiskey, Clintonville, are competing for district attorney while the register of deeds contest finds four candidates seeking the nomination, Alice C. Larkee, Waupaca, the incumbent; George N. Brooks, Ogdensburg; Paul J. Behm, Waupaca, and Fred E. Reinke, Clintonville. Mrs. Larkee defeated Brooks by 12 votes in the 1936 primary while Behm ran four years ago as a Progressive.

Congressman Reid F. Murray will be opposed by Herman H. Behm, Waupaca, at the primaries. Behm, who was defeated by Murray two years ago in the September election and also as an independent in November, has staged a vigorous campaign this year. On the other hand, Murray has been unable to do any personal campaigning except by card and letter from Washington. Gerald J. Boileau, Wausau Progressive, former congressman, and Wallace A. Bloedorn, Polar Democrat, have no opposition in the primary.

Present county officials without opposition Tuesday, all Republicans, include Julius Spearbraker, Clintonville, member of the assembly; Leland J. Steiger, Waupaca, clerk; Leonard J. Stadler, Waupaca, treasurer; Dr. A. M. Christofferson, Waupaca, coroner; Paul Ovrom, Waupaca, clerk of circuit court, and Walter E. Hoyard, Scandinavia, surveyor. Walter L. Jones, Weyauwega, present undersheriff, is the lone Republican seeking the sheriff's job, while Paul E. Roman, Manawa district attorney the last four years, is not seeking reelection.

Another Progressive race finds Raymond B. Wright, Iola, and Martin Kleist, Weyauwega, battling for the sheriff nomination. Progressives without opposition are Robert F. Ewald, town of Farmington, clerk; Peter M. Johnson, town of Iola, treasurer; Lawrence G. Patterson, Waupaca, coroner; Harold Hedtke, Clintonville, clerk of circuit court; DeLyle O. Omholt, Iola, district attorney, and Theodore R. Peterson, Weyauwega, register of deeds.

New London Woman Will Visit Home of Daughter in West

New London — Mrs. Ike Poehke, 1203 S. Pearl street, left this week to visit indefinitely at Bremerton, Wash., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. Rayburn. She was honored by friends at a farewell party Monday night.

Mrs. Richard Gehrke, 615 Dickinson street, left this morning for Aprata, Penn., to be a guest of the Dutch Maid Hosiery company for two weeks. She is considering an agency. En route to Pennsylvania she will visit relatives at Chicago and Pittsburgh.

Leaving Saturday for a weekend trip to Leland, Ill., to visit relatives will be Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Impelman and Mrs. Henry Drows of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Goetsch and son, William, of Weyauwega.

Miss Rena Cornelius, a social teacher at Milwaukee, and her niece, Helen Wing, returned to Milwaukee this week after spending the summer at her home at 1104 S. Pearl street.

Births

New London — A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ritchie town of Deer Creek, at Community hospital Thursday.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hoffman, Bear Creek, at their home Thursday.

Unions Favor Roosevelt Though Popularity Drops

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—Franklin D. Roosevelt is the presidential choice at this time of a large majority of labor union members polled throughout the country, but there has been a sharp drop in his popularity among labor union groups since 1936.

The poll, conducted by the Institute, reached a cross-section of labor union members throughout the country, putting this question to them: "If the Presidential election were held today, would you vote for Roosevelt or Willkie?"

Each voter was also asked how he voted in 1936. A comparison follows:

Labor Union Members
For Roosevelt	80%
For Willkie	20%
Today
For Roosevelt	64%
For Willkie	36%

Approximately one in every eight (12 per cent) said he was undecided at this time.

The greatest defection from the New Deal has come in the ranks of the A. F. of L., the poll indicates. Although John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. has been critical of the Administration and opposed a third term, the C. I. O. members reached in the survey were more for Roosevelt than the A. F. of L. members.

Roosevelt Willkie
A. F. of L. Members 62% 38%
C. I. O. Members 75 25

A comparison with the 1936 vote shows an 18-point drop in Roosevelt's strength among A. F. of L. members included in the poll, and a drop of only 10 points among C. I. O. members.

Willkie's Problem:

It must be remembered that the poll results reflect sentiment only as of today. The Willkie campaign has not yet swung into full action, and, in addition, future events in Europe may operate to change opinion one way or the other.

It is apparent at this writing, however, that Roosevelt still retains much of his strength with the laboring classes, in spite of the defection since 1936.

One of Willkie's main problems is how to increase the Republican vote not only in the labor union groups, but in the lower and middle income levels generally.

A recent Institute study of political sentiment by income groups indicates that whereas Willkie leads Roosevelt by a large margin in the upper income level, he trails far behind in the lower level.

Mr

Superintendent Greet Students At High School

Kavanaugh Says Desire To Acquire Education Is First Requirement

Kaukauna — A desire and determination to acquire a high school education is most important to a student, James F. Kavanaugh, superintendent of schools, said in a message of welcome today to high school students.

"I hope you realize that this requires work and it must necessarily be so if you are to gain any benefits from attending school. Like water from one container to another, knowledge requires self-effort. You will gain as much from your high school education as you put into it in the way of time and effort."

"We have no room in the Kaukauna High school for the loafer. Although to loaf in high school may seem more genteel than to loaf on the street, yet it is more dangerous."

"When a boy loafs on the street, the public and his parents know that he is loafing, when he loafs in high school, he not only deceives his parents and the public, but he deceives himself as well. If, after a reasonable exposure, any boy proves unresponsive to inoculation by the bacteria of hustle, then it is better for him and better for the school that he should seek elsewhere for an occupation by which to earn an honorable livelihood. As Carlyle remarks 'It is not the savor but the doers who carry the day'."

Pickup Truck for Garbage Arrives

Kaukauna — After three years of talk about solving the garbage problem, the solution is here. Yesterday the truck purchased by the council in August arrived, with its Elgin collection box attached.

After the council voted for the truck and box, Mayor William J. Gantner vetoed this action of Aug. 6, but the council overrode the veto. In the 1940 budget $5,000 was set aside for garbage disposal. It is expected the board of public works will put the truck to use soon.

Debate Teams Must be Registered by Dec. 14

Kaukauna — Registration for first semester forensic events at Kaukauna High school have been received from Wisconsin Forensic association, of which the high school is a member.

Debate teams are to be registered by Dec. 14. Coach Thomas Nolan has two veterans back from the squad which made an excellent record last year.

Nov. 1 is the deadline for entry in the 1-act play contest. A speech institute is slated for Clintonville Dec. 7.

St. Mary Senior CYO Maps Fall Activities

Kaukauna — Fall and winter activities being planned by St. Mary's senior CYO include weekly study clubs, skating several attractions at the church's annual bazaar and production of a play in November, according to Luke Martin, secretary.

Norbert Becker, vice president has been appointed as adviser to the junior CYO. The group will meet Sept. 23 with Anna Mae Nyles and Jerome Nyles co-chairmen.

Utility Commission Seeking Bids on Pipe

Kaukauna — The utilities commission is advertising for bids on articles to be used in the new power plant, with offers to be in by Sept. 24, according to H. F. Weekworth superintendent.

Wanted are 500 feet of 4-inch cast iron pipe and 1,200 feet of 6-inch cast iron pipe, according to American Water Works association specifications.

Field Hockey First Activity for Girls

Kaukauna — The first major activity for high school girls' physical education classes will be field hockey, according to Clifford H. Kemp, instructor, with boys to play softball and touch football. These activities will begin next week, with tournaments to follow instruction in rules.

Gun Club Shoot

Kaukauna — Kaukauna Gun club will hold a shoot at the grounds near the Fifth lock Sunday morning. Shells may be purchased on the grounds.

Hands Off!

Glendale, Calif. — (P) — Glendale's city council has decided it doesn't want shoppers to pick up and handle food in grocery stores. An ordinance providing penalties has been passed.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Build Sewers, Clean Up Parks

About 25 Men Now Employed on City's Work Relief Projects

Kaukauna — Men on city work relief projects are now busy installing sewers in Armstrong's plat and cleaning up in parks, according to Joseph V. Krahn, relief director. About 25 men are in the crews.

The city council at its Sept. 6 session authorized the board of public works to proceed with the paving of Island street. Residents of that street had petitioned the council for paving two years ago.

The council ordered the board of public works to use men from the city relief rolls for the labor on the project, to be supplemented by a WPA crew later if possible. The street is to be paved with the residents paying only for the cost of the materials and the city furnishing the labor.

It appears now the relief work force isn't large enough to proceed with the work, and thus the project probably will be deferred until next spring. With the large number of WPA workers on the new power project it is almost impossible to get more for other work in the city.

Church Women to Convene Sept. 25

Manawa — The annual convention of the Waupaca County Federation of Church Women will be held at the Methodist church here Wednesday, Sept. 25, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning, and continuing throughout the day. Church women of all denominations in Waupaca county may attend. Dinner will be served at noon by the Priscillas of the local church.

Officers of the federation are Mrs. Arthur Ritchie, Royaton, president; Mrs. Emery Jones, Marion, vice president; Mrs. Edward Richter, Manawa, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Francis Dean Royaton, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Grover Falck loaned the articles. Dolls of over fifty years ago are models. A lamp, night stand, cradle and stroller complete the picture. The baptism dress is seventy-five years old and there is hand made lace, a crocheted jacket and stockings.

Pegler Reads Constitution But Doesn't Find 'Democracy'

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — Since that time, about a year ago, when the citizens of California went to the polls to vote down mob confiscation of private property and a further proposal to repeal the American form of government, and elect a dictator I have intended to comb both the constitution and the declaration of independence for any mention of the words "democracy" or "democratic." Procrastination is no mere hobby but more nearly an occupation with me, so this task has not been accomplished until today, when I am able to report that the founding fathers, in their conservative wisdom, had no intention to found a democracy. On the contrary, they distinctly affirmed their determination to "guarantee to every state a republican form of government." Nowhere in either document will you find any reference to democracy, and the experiences of the Californians who, twice in three years, had to whip themselves into a swivet to save their sub-republic from destruction by the democratic process vindicate the judgment of those early patriots.

Unlike us who thoughtlessly permitted ourselves to glorify democracy in the days of 1917-18, not pausing to examine whereof we prattled, and who have continued ever since to praise the name of a system which would be fatal to our freedom, the founders of the nation pointedly rejected it. Democracy is not a representative form of government, and, on reflection, the reasons become apparent why the nazis and fascists ridicule us for our ignorance in extolling a system which we do not practice and would hate as fiercely as they do, should we try. When we say "democracy" we don't know what we are talking about, but they do, and, giving us credit for more sense than we possess, they think we must be crazy, when we are only ignorant.

We have confused ourselves and fallen victims to the ballyhoo of the party which was in power during the first World war and which used its own misnomer as an ideal and tocsin. That party never has attempted to practice democracy, and, even now, in its trend to national socialism would not dare advocate democracy except as a catch-word and in the knowledge that the people never have paused to examine its meaning. We live under a superstition that democracy is the guarantee of the republican liberties which exist nowhere else in the world but in this republic. The communists, naturally, have urged us toward democratic follies, knowing that it is unworkable in a land as vast and having so large a population as this one. That was the reason why in California the communist party and the communist CIO, endorsed and worked for a 15,000-word amendment to the state constitution which would have named a dictator, abolished all rights guaranteed and preserved only by the republican system and caused a ghastly brawl.

The initiative and referendum was looked upon as a sound reform 25 years ago and certainly the intent was good. But in practice the business of by-passing the legislature and referring long and complex issues to the voters is a menace to the very right to vote.

The American system intends that the people shall elect representatives who are presumed to be men of conscience, patriotism and somewhat superior intelligence. It is presumed, moreover, that these elected agents will have the time, the mental equipment and the character to consider wisely measures proposed in the proper place and make the laws with due regard for the liberties of those whom they represent. The fact that they have been guilty of many failures and much neglect is no reason for believing that the mass of voters would do as well. On the contrary, as the founding fathers knew, the voters have other things to think of and, not to flatter them, need protection from their own emotions and cupidity and the deceptions of persuasive but leering liars.

Democracy contains the process by which American freedom can be repealed utterly in the adoption, under emotional stress, of a measure disguised as California's ham 'n' eggs was in the gaudy colors of something for nothing. And the liberties of the ham 'n' egggers in California were saved for them only by a two-to-one vote of those whom the ham 'n' egggers hated as oppressors.

Never was a people so culled as the Americans are by the word "democracy" the whole case constituting a hell of a commentary on the educational system of a nation having almost as many seats of learning as saloons.

Jay Gridders Will Scrimmage Appleton High

First Intensive Drill Of Season Planned For This Afternoon

Menasha—Menasha High school gridders will scrimmage with the Appleton High school football squad this afternoon at Butte des Morts field in preparation for the 1940 grid season. Coach N. A. Calder has a squad of 44 players, one of the smallest numerically in recent years.

The squad includes 11 seniors, 12 juniors, 17 sophomores, and four freshmen. Conditioning exercises and drills on the fundamentals of blocking and tackling have occupied much of the time so far. The squad has received only a few plays and has had relatively little scrimmage work. The session this afternoon will be the first intensive scrimmage.

Seniors on the squad include the co-captains, Harold Funk and James DeLong, and Verli Franz, another guard. Senior tackles include Eugene Resch, Elmer Martell, and Robert Nankie. The latter has been shifted from a blocking back position. Blocking backs are Armin Weber and William Robinson while other seniors are Edward Humski, end, Ray Michalkiewicz, center, and John Baldauf, quarterback.

The juniors include five ends, Ray Wippich, W. Imor, Donald Pepp, Harold Maas and M. Stabe, a transfer from Winneconne. The latter has had experience only in six-man football but is improving rapidly. Other juniors on the squad are E. Stolla, tackle; T. Calder, center; Roland O'Brien, left half, and Harold Block, quarterback.

The sophomores also are strong on ends with six. J. Wiegand, E. Marx, R. Pomeranik, W. Thompson, Clarence Denny, and F. Manikewicz. Sophomore guards include J. Pozdinski, G. Dorow, and W. Hafemeister. Frank Rosch and E. Kozlowski are sophomore tackles. E. Bratz is a right half, Don Garigan and Donald Drucks are being used at the left half post. E. Naley has been shifted to quarterback and R. Wideman and Ambrose Naley are the only fullbacks on the squad.

E. Calder is a freshman center while three other freshmen just reported and haven't been assigned. They are Fred Rasmussen, Duane Gear, and Richard Jenson. Three juniors also reported for the first time Thursday. They are William Gear, George Overby, and Peter Clark.

Three members of the squad temporarily are inactive with slight injuries. They are Don Drucks, Ambrose Naley, and Elmer Marx. Coach Calder probably will have to shift several players to find adequate reserves for the fullback spot.

Y-Sponsored Clubs Will Participate in Red Cross Activities

Menasha—Miss Florence Warner, general secretary, announced this week to Twin City Y. W. C. A. sponsored clubs that preliminary plans are underway for Red Cross work in cooperation with the Neenah chapter, American Red Cross.

A special room will be set aside for Red Cross supplies and club members will be able to obtain materials prior to club meetings on which they will work during the meetings and at other times when possible.

The Friendly Folks club which meets Wednesday afternoons bi-monthly, the Who's New Club which meets Thursday evenings, the A. V. Club which meets Tuesday evenings, the Y. W. C. A. Business and Professional Girls club which meets Tuesday evenings as well as other groups will participate.

Instructions will be given those who work on Red Cross projects and Miss Warner will be in charge of supplies and completed articles.

A special committee will be named for this work within a few weeks as it is hoped to begin work Oct. 1.

Six More Enlist in Air Corps of Army

Menasha—Six more enlistments in the air corps of the United States army service were reported Thursday afternoon by Sergeant E. L. Friday, recruiting officer stationed at the Menasha post office.

The youths are Jerome B. Monarski, 717 Milwaukee street, Menasha; Ralph H. Kasten, 803 W. Winnebago street, Appleton; Delton R. Clocksin, 1003 W. Commercial street, Appleton; Homer T. Reigh and Earl G. Smith, Oshkosh, and Victor E. Drake, Shawano.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and display advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street, and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for display advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or telephoned. Orders for classified advertising should be placed by telephoning 543 in Appleton, and the cost of the telephone call will be rebated. The Twin Cities office closes at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Five Candidates Assured Of Winnebago County Posts

Neenah—When Winnebago county voters go to the polls Tuesday to cast their ballots in the primaries, they will be giving only votes of confidence for at least five of the candidates seeking election to county offices.

These five candidates virtually are selected, for they have no opposition for nomination on the Republican ticket and there are no candidates seeking nomination on the Democratic and Progressive tickets.

These candidates, all of whom are incumbents, are Arthur E. Hedtke, county clerk; Earl E. Fuler, county treasurer; George B. Young, register of deeds; Edward C. Abell, clerk of court, and Dr. George E. Steele, coroner.

Nurse Writes Tenth Annual Health Report

Board of Education Is Given 'Streamlined' Summary of Activities

Neenah—The annual health report for 1939-40, a "streamlined" tenth anniversary report, was submitted this week by Miss L. Evelyn Scholl, public health nurse, to the board of education.

Detailed summaries on summer activities, inspection work, vision tests, corrective work, school hygiene, goiter prevention, milk lunches, athletics foot inspection and physical examinations as well as clinics, including immunization, toxoid and smallpox vaccinations, tuberculosis test, tuberculosis control, and adult hygiene, dental hygiene, infant and pre-school hygiene and communicable disease control were contained in the report.

Reporting that the Fresh Air camp project has been abandoned, the city nurse during the summer completed her record work, made home calls on children for the correction of defects such as tonsils, dental and eye cases, and crippled children were contacted and followed up on work done on positive tuberculin test reactors.

In inspection work, 862 children were inspected last year of which 498 were normal and 364 had defects, including tonsils 370, nasal 26, eyes 20, hearing 2, speech 13, thyroid 19, cervical glands 152, posture 3, skin 19. The number weighed and measured in September amounted to 1,487 dual 1,482 in May, and of normal weight in September were 1,316 and under weight was 171. Of normal weight in May were 1,299 and the number underweight was 193.

652 Vision Tests

There were 652 vision tests given and 38 cases were corrected. The nurse made special arrangements for 22 dental, 31 eye and 16 tonsil cases to have corrective work done. Miss Scholl made 175 home calls where children were sick and 597 office calls were made by parents to consult her.

Miss Scholl reported on a goiter survey conducted by Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst, city health officer, in which 890 children were examined of which 871 had negative thyroid, and 19 positive thyroid. There were 1,894 students who took goiter prevention, consuming 72,861 goiter tablets. The milk lunch report included, from milk $60.57, Graham $36.86, straws $8.85 and napkins $14, and average of 550 pupils participating in the project weekly.

In September, 371 pupils were tested for athlete's foot and 29 cases were found in the grades and 20 in the high school, and 123 physical examinations were given high school boys and girls.

Schick Tests

In immunization work, Miss Scholl reported that 228 chick tests were given and 257 negative reactions and 31 positive reactions were found. Eight smallpox vaccination and diphtheria immunization clinics were held, 336 attending the clinics, and there were 205 smallpox vaccinations given. There are about 300 students in school who haven't been vaccinated for smallpox, including 160 are in the high school, she reported. There were 547 toxoid shots for diphtheria and 534 tuberculin tests given.

In tuberculosis control work, an extensive follow-up project was held, 168 cases having been admitted to medical service, 168 X-rays taken, 285 cases admitted to nursing services. Assisting Miss Scholl were Miss Ada Garvey, whose services for two weeks were furnished by the Neenah Health Council and the W. A. T. A., and Miss Ethel Mortenson, whose services for a month were furnished by the Red Cross and Health Council.

Miss Scholl admitted 273 cases to communicable disease service.

Banta Girls League Opens 1940-41 Season

Menasha—Banta Girls league opened its bowling season Thursday afternoon at Hendy alleys with the Spades sweeping into first place by taking three games from the Clubs. Hearts took two from the Diamonds and went into second.

Genevieve Hickey rolled a 498 series and 195 game for the best individual marks while Louise Stinski rolled a 193 game. Spades hit games of 561, 562 and 549 for 1,672 while the Clubs rolled 520, 540 and 531 for 1,591. The Hearts rolled 502, 613 and 535 for a 1,650 total while the Diamonds hit 555, 697 and 516 for 1,768.

Fox Valley Midget Drivers to Battle Milwaukee Racers

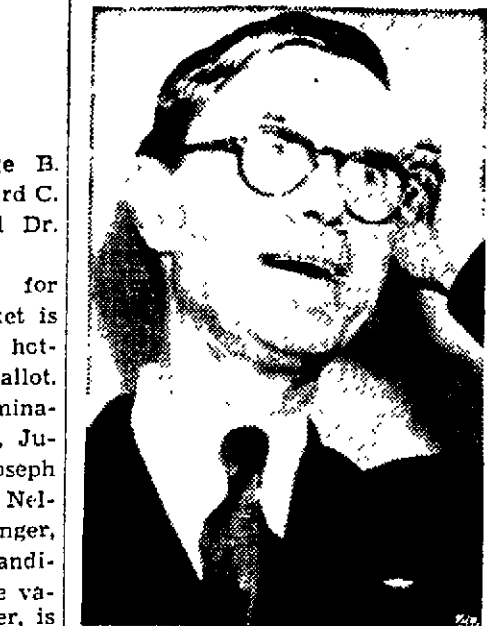

Menasha—Drivers of the Fox Valley Midget Racing association will compete with Milwaukee drivers at the Fond du Lac fair grounds at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Six automobiles from Milwaukee will be in the races while the valley group will have 13 drivers.

William Zeininger, Menasha, won the point championship of the local club last year with Frank Clark, Menasha, in second place. Both drivers will enter the competition Sunday. Zeininger driving No. 9 and Clark behind the wheel of No. 64.

Outline Home Courses for Neenah Groups

Morning, Afternoon Classes Will Begin Monday, Sept. 16

Neenah—Morning and afternoon classes in homemaking subjects will begin Monday, Sept. 16, according to Carl Christensen, director of the Neenah school of vocational and adult education. Four new courses have been added to this year's program, needlecraft, Red Cross sewing, advanced food demonstrations and homecrafts.

The needlecraft course of 10 lessons includes crocheting, knitting, weaving, quilting, fringing, chenille craft and other decorative stitches used in home decoration. The Red Cross sewing course consists of making garments in the quota assigned the Neenah chapter, including pajamas, operating room gowns, boys' shirts, layettes, and girls' and women's dresses. Materials are furnished.

The advanced foods demonstration course is for homemakers who have taken the first course and want additional information on special cookery problems, such as meat, deep fat frying, cakes, breads, frozen mixtures. The homecrafts course consists of planning and creating useful attractive articles for the home, such as cork articles, leather belts, purses, buttons, beadwork of wood, glass and tile, wood turned articles such as bowls, plates, trays, with decorations applied, jigsawing and carving, holemole block cutting and others.

Army Searchlight Battery to Operate At Menasha Program

Menasha—Henry J. Lenz post No. 152, American Legion, will sponsor a defense program Saturday night at the city triangle, according to Arthur Crushinska, commander.

The post has been requested by Lieutenant-General Stanley H. Ford, commander of the Sixth corps area of which Wisconsin is a part, to give active cooperation in the war department's intensive recruiting campaign in Menasha and other valley cities.

The Menasha High school band has been asked to parade and will play a short concert before the program. Mayor W. H. Jensen also will appear on the short program.

A searchlight battery from the coast artillery along with a squad of army men will participate. The artillery group will come with several trucks and its own generator will put the searchlight into operation.

Sergeant E. L. Friday, recruiting officer stationed at the Menasha post office, will explain the requirements for army service. Chief difficulty for the recruiting service, according to Friday, is the overseas clause in the parents' consent papers. The army man was emphatic that the clause means service in United States possessions and not service in France.

St. Mary Grid Team Drills Under Lights

Menasha—St. Mary's High school football squad held its first drill under the lights at Butte des Morts field Thursday night. The drill was hampered somewhat because only three of the 10 lights were ready for use.

Another drill under the lights is scheduled for this evening. The Zephyrs will open the football season Sunday night at Butte des Morts field when they oppose the Negro team from St. Benedict High school, Milwaukee.

Committees are Selected For Who's New Club Season

Neenah—Hostess committees for the 20 meetings of the Who's New club and general committees for the season were announced at a club meeting Thursday afternoon following a favorite dish luncheon.

Mrs. J. A. Jern is the president of the club, Mrs. Ward Sullivan, first vice president; Mrs. Dale Vawter, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Sharp, secretary and Mrs. Harold Bialkowski, treasurer. Mrs. C. J. Miller, Mrs. Oscar Reinke and Mrs. Stephen Naggy are members of the board of directors. Mrs. Franklin Otis and Mrs. Lynn Cooper will be representatives on the Young Women's council.

Mrs. A. Gross, chairman of membership, Mrs. C. Jones, Mrs. M. E. Palmer, Mrs. R. VanHagen and Mrs. D. Judd will make up the membership committee. Mrs. T. R. Probst will be music chairman, Mrs. Dale Vawter, hostess chairman. The program committee included Mrs. Ward Sullivan, chairman, Mrs. Carl Reimenschneider, Mrs. G. R. Anderson, Mrs. Paul Bowman and Mrs. Harvey Leaman.

Hostesses for Sept. 26 meeting at which Dr. Stephen Darling, Appleton, will speak, include Miss Loraine Abendschein, chairman, Mrs. C. Elmgren, Mrs. George Hrubecsky, Mrs. Francis Landig and Mrs. H. C. Schultz. Following the tour of the Oshkosh museum, Oct. 10, tea will be served at the "Y" with Mrs. C. Sorensen, Mrs. A. Weston, Mrs. D. Meyer, Mrs. F. Robinson and Mrs. S. Naggy as hostesses.

Make Shift in 2nd Ward Poll

Voters Will Cast Ballots in Gym of Brigade Building

Neenah—City Clerk H. S. Zemlock reported today that a change has been made in an election poll for the primaries Tuesday. Voters in the Second ward will cast their ballots in the gymnasium of the Neenah Bays' Brigade building, the entrance of which is off S. Commercial street between the building and the First Methodist church. Formerly, the poll was in a front room of the Brigade building.

To accommodate voters, 25 more election booths for the various polls have been purchased.

The city clerk reported that so far there have been applications for 13 absentee ballots. The deadline is Saturday. Persons who haven't registered and wish to vote in the primaries now have to go to the city hall accompanied by two property owners and be sworn in. Election polls will open at 7:30 in the morning and close at 8 o'clock at night.

Bendt Is Class A Tennis Champion

Menasha—George Bendt, No. 1 player on the Menasha High school tennis team, won the class A championship in the tournament conducted at Smith park by Lee Royer, WPA recreation director. In the final match Bendt defeated Fred Valey in three sets. The scores were 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Valey advanced to the finals by defeating Jack Asmus this week in straight sets. The scores were 6-3, 6-2. All matches in class B and class C must be completed by Saturday, Sept. 21, according to Royer. Medals will be awarded to the champions in each class.

Mrs. Peter Succa, 411 Walnut street, Menasha, underwent a major operation this morning at Theda Clark hospital.

Defense Rally Recalls Scenes Enacted at Neenah in 1917

Neenah—Memories were shaken in many men in their 40's and 50's—and women, too, as they stood in the autumn chill on Neenah's W. Wisconsin avenue last night listening to a defense program sponsored by the James P. Hawley post, American Legion.

Wistfully or poignantly, as the case may have been, they recalled, as the program progressed, 23 years ago when similar programs were held in Neenah and throughout the nation.

There was a difference between last night's program and those held 23 years ago when answering the plea to enlist in the army meant going to war immediately, while last night's plea to join the army is the plea to the nation's first peacetime conscription. Another difference was the lack of emotion strident in 1917; but like in 1917, the bands played patriotic selections and marched and there were speakers urging enlistments.

Officials Speak
On the program were Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, Sergeant E. L. Friday, army recruiting officer, and Lieutenant Clifford Ziegler, Company I, 127th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard.

The Neenah High school band, under the direction of Lester Maas, furnished the music, while the Oriental band of the local Legion post, marched through Neenah's thoroughfares playing its unusual music.

Declaring in his introductory remarks that "Let us hope that in a not too distant future, this America of ours will lead the world to a new and lasting peace through love, truth and light," Mayor Kalfahs told the audience that "none of us wants war to involve our country. God helping us, we shall not need to fight. But we must emphatically believe and endorse the plan that the surest way to keep out of war is to become so strong that we will be fully prepared to engage any country that dares attack us."

The mayor explained that the reason the Legion was staging the program was that at its convention it voted to oppose conscription unless voluntary enlistments prove inadequate to fill army, navy and air corps requirements.

Urges Parental Interest
Sergeant Friday urged parents to come to the recruiting office with their sons when they enlist so that they will have an idea of what their sons are doing.

He chided Neenah because it had furnished only two recruits against Appleton's 60, and he declared that the chances are 1 to 100 that recruits will be sent out of the United States.

Lieutenant Ziegler, who thanked employers of the Twin Cities for making up the difference in pay to guardsmen while they were at camp this summer, gave a brief review of the summer army maneuver at Camp McCoy.

The lieutenant reported that the company has received no definite information as to when and where it will go for a year's army training, but he said that Captain Howard Whitman has been interviewing guards with dependents.

This information will be sent to headquarters where it will be decided who will be exempt from the training program. Until then there will be no discharges.

Pre-Nuptial Party at 'Y' Honors Miss Bertha Braatz

Menasha — Miss Bertha Braatz, a purse was presented the bride-to-be.

Plans for the Sunshine club meeting Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 25, at the home of Mrs. Louis Ellinger, 616 Tavey street, were discussed at the Menasha Woman's Relief corps meeting in S. A. Cook armory Thursday afternoon.

The Young Ladies Sodality of St. John's Catholic parish will meet at 7:30 Monday evening in the school hall to elect officers and make plans for a fall and winter program.

Mrs. Leo Boehm Is Elected Adriel Society President

Neenah — Mrs. Leo Boehm was named president of the Adriel society of Our Saviour's English Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Zemlock. Mrs. Harry Dedrickson was chosen vice president, Mrs. Arnold Andersen, secretary and Mrs. Gordon Peterson, treasurer. Mrs. George Boehm and Mrs. Tom Thompson were named to the Sunshine committee.

Neenah Schools Use Audiometer to Test Hearing of Children

Neenah — An audiometer, an apparatus to test hearing, which has been donated to Neenah and Menasha by the King's Daughters, is being used in Neenah schools, Miss L. Evelyn Scholl, public health nurse, reported today.

The audiometer will be used in the schools of both communities. Neenah will have it during the first term when it will be operated by Miss Scholl, and it will be used in Menasha schools during the second term. During the summer, the Visiting Nurse association will have use of the equipment for adults.

Miss Scholl explained that because each test requires a certain length of time, not all of the students will be tested during the first year, and those to be tested will be selected by the teachers.

The nurse reported that in October, Miss Lavilla Ward of the state board of health, who has done this kind of work for years, will be in Neenah to work with her on the tests.

Take Bids for Loading, Hauling Crushed Stone

The county highway committee Monday will consider bids for the loading and hauling of approximately 2,500 cubic yards of crushed stone from the Black Creek Limestone company quarry to County Trunks Y and Y in the towns of Seymour and Oneida. Bids are being received until Monday.

Power to Be Held in Reserve

The extent of the confusion may be measured by the fact that virtually all public attention has become centered upon the procedure and the legal formulae by which congress shall reaffirm the power of the government to commandeer property for defense. The fact of the matter is that though this power must exist if the defense program is to be successful, yet the program will surely be a catastrophic failure if the power has to be used much or often. For it is obvious that the United States government would be totally un-capable of administering a large number of industrial plants if it did actually commandeer them.

This country knows how to operate industry as a whole through private management; it does not know how to operate industry as a whole, or any considerable part of it, by government management. To change over from the system we understand to a different system which we do not understand would simply stall the whole industrial machine.

It follows that the power to commandeer must be held in reserve in order to bring recalcitrant individuals into line. It can be used for that just as arresting motorists for traffic violations can

Johnson Thinks Profits are An Essential to Industries

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.—The federal excess profits tax, as it is likely to pass, is a monstrosity. It might well be entitled "a bill to prevent new enterprise and destroy small businesses."

I know a company that was organized in 1928 with a capital of about $1,000,000—just in time to get the full effect of the 1929 avalanche and what came after. It was to make a completely new product. The long, lean hard years ate much of its capital away. Its stockholders have never had a cent out of it. But they stuck and it struggled miraculously and lived.

Two years ago it began to click as a result of a long hopeless struggle for sales and improvement of product.

Under this tax bill it will be taxed up to 40 per cent on its excess earnings for its fiscal year 1940 over the average of the preceding four years, during which its earnings were slight or minus, plus a normal tax of approximately 20 per cent. That will take easily 33 1-3 per cent of its earnings.

This company's business will gain nothing by the armament program. On the contrary, it will be hurt by that. Such a large yearly cash outlay from its meager quick assets will seriously embarrass its operations and prevent any normal expansion of its business. Its only chance to recoup its years' losses, perfect the original factory equipment on which it was planned, and provide reasonable margins of safety was out of earnings. Now that chance will be impaired, if not destroyed.

It gains nothing by its permissible alternative of choosing a basis of graduated tax on the ratio of earnings to invested capital, because that capital has been so whittled away by its years of losses that this ratio is necessarily high.

Stockholders whose investment has been sterile and declining for most of twelve years and who had just begun to hope for some recovery, will have to abandon their hope and may begin to fear for the company's survival.

This is just another case among thousands of similar ones that could be cited. Another class is that of recently organized service companies with small capital and no record of earnings. This tax law will be a practical barrier to any progress or prospect of success for them.

A large and heavily capitalized company that has had reasonably good returns for the last four years will be affected to no such murderous degree. Indeed, in view of this terrific load in new or small competing industry, such a company could well afford to lower both price and profit to keep its earnings below any "excess" at all and thus destroy and monopolize the business of all its small competitors.

Sounds Like the Methods Employed by Nazis, He Says

This tendency in this legislation is so blatant and so marked that one is tempted to question whether it is not a deliberate attempt to nazify all business by driving it into great units and thereby regulation and other encroachment convert it to Hitler's national socialism or Mussolini's corporative state. No wonder small business and the great middle class are almost 100 per cent against this administration.

What this New Deal doesn't seem to understand is that strength for war depends upon a far stronger and more efficient industry than we have ever had. That can't be accomplished if the first step is a drastic taxation policy that practically destroys the profit motive. That is not a deliberate attempt to nazify all business by driving it into great units and thereby regulation and other encroachment convert it to Hitler's national socialism or of Mussolini, Stalin and Hitler. There is no middle way. We can't go that way without industrial paralysis.

Very few if any business managers want to profiteer in this emergency, but very few are willing to default on their trustships and ruin the investment of their stockholders by accepting inordinate risks and unbearable burdens.

American Fashions Are New in the Autumn Scene

Never were American fashions so important in the Fall style picture as they are this season. War conditions abroad have put American designers on their mettle to show collections as smart, as luxurious, as perfectly adapted to the American scene as those formerly shown in French collections. Nowhere are American designers so talented as in creating casual clothes—the backbone of every smart American wardrobe.

Casual Coats
$19.95 to $45

American freedom is the keynote of the new casual and sport coats. Many of the camel hair coats have zip-in linings which make them adaptable to almost any weather. There are tweeds, wools, fleeces and covereds... fitted or boxy, belted or loose. Smart enough to wear anywhere—office, school, travel... wherever sturdy woollens plus smart tailoring fit in. In a wide range of colors for Fall.

Three-Piece Tweed Suits
Special at

BETTER DRESSES
$14.95 to $29.95

Notice the simplicity of the lines preferred by American designers. But it is smart simplicity which requires high quality fabrics and perfect fitting. The soft details—very feminine shoulders, slender waists, artful draping—help to accentuate the charm of long, slim lines. These smart new fashions are developed in sheer wools, crepes, jerseys. These are the fabrics that lend themselves best to American designs.

Our Second Floor is Showing All the New Fall Coats, Dresses, Suits, to Give You That Smartly Turned Out Look

It's unusual to be able to buy a well-tailored, heathertone tweed, three-piece suit at $19.95. The top coat can be worn separately and so can the torso length jacket. The gored skirt is slim and straight. The suit comes in sizes 12 to 20.

Others $29.95 to $55

New Skirts, Sweaters, Jackets for Casual, Daytime Wear

Every American woman has almost unlimited use for casual costumes, the separate skirts which can be mixed or matched with sweaters or jackets for sports or regular daytime wear. They constitute practically a uniform for well-dressed girls to wear at college. You will find them in new Fall versions in our Ready-to-wear department on second floor.

APPLETON, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1940

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

Lawrence college football squad will complete its first week of practice tomorrow and, strangely, Coach Bernie Heseltin isn't as gloomy as you might expect if you saw the lack of numbers in the makeup of the Vikings.

Since Tuesday he has been working with from 20 to 25 boys and he can't see more than 30 reporting at any time this fall. That means he has lost 15 to 20 of the lads who reported at spring practice and who gave him rather high hopes.

But the weather has been favorable for hard contact work and Heseltin has made the most of it. Also, the boys have responded in a most pleasing manner with the result that last evening Heseltin felt he was as far along as he was in a full week a year ago. He also made note that the boys have absorbed 15 plays and made no effort to hide his pleasure.

Indications are the Vikes will have a first team that will be fair but after the varsity and a few reserves, there'll be a big void. It may mean another 60-minute ball team in several positions.

The biggest weakness appears to be at center where Bob Macintosh now is doing most of the work. Mac does all that is expected and does it well but he can't take a pummeling without relief. And that's the weakness for there isn't any relief unless Roddy, a reformed guard, blossoms. One center candidate was lost through a summer accident and another has a heavy school program and can't take the time for football.

The other weakness is forward passing. There are plenty of backs but only Art Kaemmer passes well enough and even he shows an inclination to throw instead of pitch now and then. Heseltin likes an aerial game and will need something of an air attack if he is to get the best out of his running attack. The latter shows possibilities for there are a couple lads who can skit across the grass with all kinds of ease. Among them are Frank Nencki, Frank Hammer and "Dusty" Rhodes.

Bob Osen, a bruising defensive man, will find a spot in the backfield along with Bob Romano, Fred Oliver, Supiano, and a couple other fellows. Among the latter is Bill Crosssett, a sophomore, who almost decided he'd rather learn to make ice cream than come back to school. Another hope is that Ed Starr, a rugged blocker, will make his appearance about the time classes start. So far he hasn't been heard from.

Vine Jones will handle one of the tackle assignments and everyone is hoping he shows the stuff he strutted as a sophomore. His running mate is expected to be Leroy Lubnow who is on the campus but who hasn't reported at the moment. They formed a great pair on the championship team of 1938.

In the absence of Lubnow, Herb Kirchoff and Ralph Colvin have been used. The loss of Leonard Liss, a big, aggressive lad who couldn't find a way to return to school, really shook up the line prospects because had he come back, Lubnow would have been moved to guard and boy, oh boy, what a combination that would have made.

Perry Powell, Milwaukee, and Dave Spalding, Menasha, look like the first choices for guards. They are veterans and probably will have to do a lot of work because of lack of replacements.

Jarvis Lingle and George Stuart have been working at the ends but will get competition from Larry Henkes, a big sophomore. Larry has had a little trouble with a knee but expects it to be all right. Kirchoff, at tackle just now, is another end possibility.

All of which does NOT add up to the Vikes have potent possibilities. There'll have to be passes to enable the running game to click and keep the opposing secondary defense where it belongs. The line looks strong enough, barring injuries, to stop opposing running games. But what the Vike secondary will do on pass defense is still another problem.

Yankees Stopped by Detroit Tigers, 6 to 3

Schoolboy Rowe Turns Trick;
Chicago Sox Enter the Picture

By The Associated Press

It's too early to say the New York Yankees, defeated 6-3 yesterday by the Detroit Tigers, are stopped. They are what is known as "slowed to a standstill."

When the western clubs were in the east the world champions acquired a case of pennant fever by winning 10 out of 11 from the invaders and they got the idea they could do the same thing against the same clubs away from home.

Now they are finding out that the Tigers and Cleveland Indians, who have alternated the pace most of the season, are stubborn about letting a Johnny-come-lately get into their private feud. And most anything is likely to happen—except the Yanks getting into first place this week.

After splitting a doubleheader at Cleveland Wednesday the Yankees folded before the Tigers while the Indians fattened on the Boston Red Sox 8-1.

From New York's standpoint the most disheartening feature of the Yanks' second straight loss was that victory was so close. Although in hot water often, Atley Donald was winning 3-2 going into the last half of the eighth. Then Joe Gordon threw a doubleplay ball into the dugout and the Tigers tallied four unearned runs on four singles.

14th for Rowe

It was the fourteenth triumph of the year for Schoolboy Rowe, who only two years ago went back to the minors with a sore arm that few people thought would ever be cured. He gave 11 hits two more than his mates made but he was careful in the clutches and fanned six.

The Indians' massacre of the Red Sox came on spectacular three-hit hurling by the veteran Al Leiter, who had a ten-hit bombardment that was concentrated in the fourth inning, when seven runs scored.

This left Cleveland half a game behind Detroit and 1½ ahead of New York. But that wasn't all. It let the surprising Chicago White Sox catch up with Boston for a fourth place tie, six games back of the lead.

Here are the figures

	W	L	Pct	Bhd	Pl
Detroit	79	58	.574	—	17
Cleveland	78	58	.574	4	18
New York	76	59	.563	2	19
Boston	73	64	.533	6	17
Chicago	73	61	.543	6	17

The White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics twice 1 to 0 and 4 to 3.

Bill Dietrich tossed four-hit ball to give the White Sox the opener and his ninth victory of the season. Singles by Moose Solters, Luke Appling and Taft Wright sent across the winning run with two out in the eighth.

Ed Smith of the Sox and Johnny Babich tangled in a hurling duel in the second game. With the A's holding a 3-2 lead in the ninth, pinch hitter Ken Silvestri poked one out of the park with Mike Kreevich on base.

Senators Stop Browns

The Washington Senators squeaked the St. Louis Browns 7-2 with rookie Arnold Anderson doing a six-hit mound chore and another freshman Jack Sanford batting in three runs with a triple, double and single.

Cincinnati eliminated the New York Giants mathematically from the pennant picture by pounding out a 9-4 decision for Gene Thompson's fifteenth victory of the year. Junior pitched shutout ball till the ninth.

The best National league fun, however, was in other games. For instance, Hugh Casey won both halves of a doubleheader for the Brooklyn Dodgers against the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-0 and 7-4. He went the route in the first game in a three-hit show and then went to

Vans Valley to Play for Title

Meets Denmark Sunday
On Duck Creek Field;
Danes are Favorites

NORTHEASTERN WIS. LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct
Vans Valley	11	4	.726
Denmark	11	4	.726
Hebels	9	6	.594
Duck Creek	8	7	.528
Eilers	6	9	.396
Oneida	0	15	.000

A long season of uphill battling will come to a close Sunday afternoon at the Duck Creek diamond when Denmark and Vans Valley, tied for the championship in the Northeastern Wisconsin league, meet to decide which will be the 1940 title holder.

The Danes will be seeking their third successive championship while the Valley nine is after its first.

Comparison of the two teams is a difficult job. Where one is strong the other is supposedly weak making for what may be a wide open contest.

Denmark has the edge in pitching, according to the dope, for it has Johnny Rowe, an outstanding veteran. Rowe's success on the mound this year was sporadic. Last year he put in an undefeated season. Of the three games he pitched against Vans Valley this year, he won two and lost one.

The Valley depends largely upon Hyson Meloyen, who has been in baseball for years. Louis Walinski and Daxo Schuler, the latter a newcomer to the league. The three of them have, with the aid of Valley bats, pulled through a rough year.

Denmark, on the other hand, started out with every intention of ending in the cellar position judging by the way it lost its games. But it soon began to climb and finally managed to tie for the title.

Thus if Johnny Rowe's arm can hold up under the battering of the Valley batsmen, Denmark should come through with a victory. If the Valley can connect with Rowe the Danes may be in tough circumstances in spite of being able to reach the Valley tosses.

No starting lineups have been announced.

Kaukauna Gun Club Will Sponsor Shoot

The Kaukauna Gun club will stage a shoot at its grounds near the Fifth lock from 9:30 to 12 o'clock Sunday morning. Ammunition will be available at the range.

The relief of Luke Hamlin with the score tied in the seventh inning of the nightcap and got credit for the victory.

Manager Frank Frisch of the Pirates was banished for the tenth time this year in the second game and took all his bench warmers with him, but later let them return to the dugout.

The once punchless Boston Bees shelled the St. Louis Cardinals 17-7 and 6-1, getting 36 hits in the doubleheader. Carvel Rowell batted in six runs in the first game, in which the Bees batted around in four different innings.

The Chicago Cubs piled up 14 hits, including Bill Nicholson's 24th home run, and Larry French pitched five-hit ball to plug the Philadelphia Phils 5-1. It was French's thirteenth victory.

S.S.A.C. Teams to Show in Night Tilts At Spencer Gridiron

Tickets for Sunday's double-header football program which pits the S.S.A.C. Blue Eagles against Grove All-Stars of Menasha at 7:15 and the Appleton Blue Eagles against the Fond du Lac Oscars at 8:30 under the Spencer street field lights are now on sale at the following places: Pond Sport Shop, Valley Sport Shop, Wonder Bar, Brandt's Tavern, Jacob's store, Forster tavern, Henies tavern, Ole Gossens tavern at Combined Locks and Al's tavern. Tickets also can be purchased from any of the players.

Coach Barfell is more than pleased with the showing of his senior team. Candidates for the squad have plenty of weight, speed and ability. Practices are being conducted nightly at McKinley school playground from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

Reelect Starnard President of City Major Pin Circuit

Eddie Starnard was reelected president and Ray Weber was re-named secretary-treasurer at a meeting of the City Major bowling league this week. The league again will operate as an 8-team circuit with competition getting underway at Arcade alley Sept. 24.

The entry fee this season was raised from $5 to $6.50 and dues were boosted from 30 to 40 cents. A league must have a minimum average of 160 to perform in the league and teams are limited to seven men. No man may join the circuit after the beginning of the second round. In case of absences, game scores of 140 will be figured in team totals. Previously, the absentee's score was figured as 10 pins below his average.

Teams registered for the 1940-41 season are Mellow Brew, Jens Chisholm, Adler Braun, Nehls, Aid Association for Lutherans, Engineers, Eggert's Bar and Club 333.

Durocher Must Take Salary Cut If He Becomes a Bench Manager

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York—J. Edgar Durocher, the trotting races fan, made money the first week and it looks like the grand circuit will move in there for a couple of weeks next summer. Brooklyn reporters might check rumors that George (Bad News) Cafego reupired his knee playing baseball and may not be able to play a lick for Doc Sutherland.

Atlas Mill gained a tie with Pond Sports for third round Industrial league honors by defeating Fox River, 6 to 0, in a tussle at Roosevelt school diamond last evening. Bud Werner mounded for the winners and allowed but one hit. Eddie Mitchell started for Fox River but retired in favor of Rammer in the fourth frame. Atlas pounced on Mitchell for four runs in the opening stanza.

Atlas and Ponds will battle for the third round championship at 5:30 Monday afternoon at Roosevelt school diamond.

Sears, Penneys Begin Quest for Merchants Title

The Merchants softball league championship will go on the block in a 2-out-of-3 game series between Sears Roebuck and J. C. Penney company with two games scheduled Sunday morning at Wilson school diamond. The first game will start at 9 o'clock and the second is carded for 10:15. Both will be 7-inning affairs. A third game, if necessary, will be played the following Sunday morning. The two teams won first and second round titles.

Badger Coach Says Indiana Is Dark Horse

Declares McMillin Has Been Getting Ready for This Year

Take it from Harry Stuhldreher, it is Indiana.

"Don't be at all surprised if Indiana wins" the Wisconsin coach declared. "We've known all along that Bo McMillin (Indiana coach) has been getting ready for 1940. Indiana will give them all a headache."

Not quite in the same breath, but in the same speech Stuhldreher adds:

"And you mustn't be too surprised if the team we have out there this year surprises them all."

Yesterday he sent his squad through two sessions of dummy scrimmage and gave the kickers a long workout.

Bruce Smith Shines

Minnesota's so-called No. 1 team ran up four touchdowns in a half-hour skirmishing against reserves. Halfback Bruce Smith raced 40 yards for one score and threw passes for two others. The fourth was made by Bob Paffrath on a 28-yard sprint.

Ohio State also had a scrimmage in which the veteran halfback, Jimmy Strausbaugh, excelled. Two tackles, Herman Timperman and Bruce Warren, stood out in the scrimmage held at Purdue.

Iowa and Michigan coaches encountered difficulty filling particular positions. At Michigan the center post was a trouble spot. Bob Ingalls, a 190-pound junior, has been assigned to center, but Coach Fritz Crisler said he wasn't up to par yet. At Iowa, Coach Edlie Anderson inserted two sophomores—Dick Breuninger and Bob Bender—in a new backfield shakedown in an effort to fill the halfback spot vacated by Nile Kinnick, the 1939 star.

At Indiana, Coach McMillin continued to defer the first scrimmage until his squad shaped up better physically. Northwestern held only routine workouts with emphasis on passing, while at Illinois the first stringers were let off with chalk talks, a tag scrimmage and a session at the tackling dummies. Neighboring Notre Dame got in its first contact jacks—rounds of punting, blocking and tackling.

Conservation Club Plans Trap Shoot

An open trap shoot for merchandising prizes which also will feature conservation club team competition will be held at the lake park traps, Sunday, Sept. 29, it has been announced. There also will be an exhibition by several professional shots including the Johnsons of Waupaca.

Among the conservation clubs expected to send teams are those at Westfield, Montello, Waupaca, Dalton, Berlin, Winchester-Larson, Winneconne, the twin cities, Stockbridge, Calumet county and Appleton. The teams will have five men each.

The shoot is not a registered event and anyone may enter, according to the Outagamie Conservation club which is sponsoring the meet.

Fraternal League to Roll on Hahn's Alleys

The Fraternal league, a new bowling circuit which will roll at Hahn's bowling alleys when completed, will hold a meeting at 7:30 this evening at Moose hall to complete organization plans. Twelve teams already have entered the loop and there is room for four more quints. The circuit will perform at 7 o'clock Wednesday nights, beginning about Nov. 10.

County League Opens Gossens Tavern Title Series Sunday

Freedom Favored Because of Kapp's Ability on the Mound

Little Chute—The first game of the championship series of the Outagamie County League will be played at Freedom Sunday afternoon and a record crowd is expected. Both clubs have a large following.

The Black Creek Merchants won the first half series and Freedom the second half series. The Creekers will depend on their heavy hitters while Freedom will pin its hopes on Sherman Kapp, Appleton, one of the ace twirlers in the loop. In their last meeting at Black Creek, the Creekers were held scoreless while Freedom scored four runs. Kapp has lost only one game since he joined up with Freedom after showing with Appleton Papermakers in the State league the first part of the season. The loss was to Little Chute in the ninth inning on a squeeze play after two errors in a row placed men in scoring position. Freedom finished the second half schedule with eight wins and one loss. Black Creek split on wins and losses in the second half with four wins and four losses.

Sunday's contest should bring forth youth against age with Freedom showing a roster of youngsters while Black Creek has a veteran lineup. The Creekers' hurling staff will show Bub Shaw, John Miller or Zuehlendorf with Shaw expected to start. He showed on the mound against Little Chute in the first half playoff and looked good. Charles Le Capitaine will don the mask and mitt and the moundman will have a big target to shoot at. At first base, Bill Le Capitaine will show, with Erv Rohloff at second. Single at shortstop, Ed Miller at third base. If Shaw starts on the mound, Shaw holds down the red light sack if not on the mound.

The outfield will show Jack Le Capitaine in left, Kitzinger or Mory in center, and Earl Rohloff in right. Sherman Kapp will be on the hill for Freedom and will toss his most crucial game of the year. In his last appearance he held the Creekers to only three hits and fanned ten. His battery mate will be the veteran Heinie Schommer who is the smartest receiver in the loop. At first base, Garvey will cavort with Weyers at second, Ziegler at short and Huss at the hot corner. Vic Diederick, a hitter in the clutches, will show in left field. Del Huss in center and Schouten in right.

Three umpires will be on deck to handle the contest which will start at 2:15.

New Mexico Football Team Will Use Some Old Spanish Customs

Albuquerque, N. M.—Gridiron opponents of New Mexico university's lobos are going to have to carry Spanish dictionaries onto the field if they expect to fathom Coach Ted Shipkey's new assortment of defensive signals this fall. "No, this isn't a gag," said Shipkey, grinning broadly. "It's just a new strategy in keeping with 10 defensive formations, in which llopes and backs shift to offset the opposition's blocking."

"No bueno por nada, seguro que si," he added gravely. "Bogardon?" inquired the reporter politely.

"That's a sample signal—which would mean our tackles pull out on defense to cover the ends while the guards run the play in the opposition backfield," Shipkey explained.

The fact that other border conference teams might also have Spanish-speaking players left Shipkey unperturbed. "I doubt if they'll be able to figure out what we're doing," he said.

33 Gridders Report

To Manawa High Coach

Manawa—Thirty-three high school football enthusiasts have reported to Coach Carl Swiston for the 1940 season, one of the largest squads in years. Coach Swiston, beginning his third year as football instructor, has put the boys through stiff workouts and plans no letup before the first game at Waupaca Friday, Sept. 27.

The contest with the county seat squad will be the first game for the Waupaca school in many years. Football was voted in last year and considerable interest already has been aroused.

Other games on the Manawa schedule include: Omro here, Oct. 4; Kimberly here, Oct. 11; at Marquette, Oct. 18; at Mosinee, Oct. 25; Pulaski here, Nov. 1.

Reach Semi-Finals

In Women's Tourney

Seattle—Marion Miloy of Lexington, Ky., plays Mrs. J. K. Priebe, Seattle City champion, and National Champion Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas, plays Miss Muriel Veatch, University of Washington coed, in today's semi-finals of women's Western amateur golf tourney.

Yesterday Miss Miloy defeated Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., 4 and 2. Mrs. Priebe won by the same score from Miss Mary Moezel Wagner, Pacific northwest champion from Portland. Miss Jameson defeated Nancy Hurst, another Portland, 6 and 4, and Miss Veatch took a 5 and 3 decision from Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis.

Brewers Split With Millers

Take 18-1 Drubbing In Opener but Come Back With 11-9 Win

Minneapolis—The Milwaukee Brewers, walloped unmercifully in the opener 18 to 1, came back to win the second game of a doubleheader with the Minneapolis Millers yesterday, 11 to 9.

The Millers established a new American association batting record in the first game, making their 26 hits count for 51 bases, bettering their old mark of 50 bases. Jimmy Deshong, Wimpy Wilburn and Joe Dickinson were the victims of the assault.

Paul Drenlap, Brewer rightfielder, paced his teammates to victory in the afterpiece as he slugged out two homers, one with the bases loaded.

In the first game, Harry Smythe scattered ten Milwaukee hits and drove in seven runs himself with two home runs and a single.

The score by innings:
(First Game) R. H. E.
Minne. 255 100 23x—18 26 0

(Second Game) R. H. E.
Milw. 212 510 0—11 14 1
Minne. 030 113 1—9 12 0

(Seven innings)
Blalocher, Kline (6) and Hank Evans, Kash (3), Hogsett (1), Kelley (7) and Denning.

Kansas City broke a slump of two games yesterday by trouncing St. Paul, 14 to 0, behind the two-hit pitching of Johnny Lindell. The Blues equalled the league's double play record for a 154 game schedule by getting their 188th. St. Paul established the mark in 1934.

Columbus stayed in the race by rallying for all its runs in the eighth inning to defeat Louisville 4 to 3.

In the other game, Indianapolis went 12 innings to turn back Toledo, 9 to 8.

Cedar Rapids Breaks

Jinx to Gain Berth

In 3-1 Loop Finals

By The Associated Press
The jinx that has followed all Three Eye league pennant winners and kept them from a place in the Shagbushes playoff finals is no more.

Cedar Rapids, league champion for two successive years, shattered the bugaboo last night by scoring its third straight victory over Springfield, 9 to 0.

Charley Embree gave the Brownsies, who finished third in the regular season, seven hits.

Decatur, after losing an extra-inning thriller to Evansville Wednesday, bounced back last night to win one. The Commodores clubbed against five runs in the eleventh to triumph, 13 to 8. It was their second victory in three starts against the Bees, fourth place holders.

The two clubs met again tonight, with Decatur needing only one more victory for the right to face Cedar Rapids in the finals.

Wins Kimberly Softball Title

Scores 7 to 2 Triumph Over Boogaards In Twilight Playoff

Kimberly—Gossens Taverns won the Twilight league softball championship Wednesday evening by defeating Vanden Boogaards, 7 to 2, at the ball park. Gossens were the first round champions while Boogaards won the second half.

The champions got three runs in the first inning off of four hits. In that frame, W. Wildenberg walked while N. Gossens flied out. U. Wildenberg next up, clouted out a homer while T. Oudenhoven singled and C. Wulterkins doubled to add the third run. The winners also scored a run in the second frame when J. Van Cuyk scored on a single.

Oles again scored three runs on four hits in the fifth frame after two were down. U. Wildenberg singled while J. Lom doubled. T. Oudenhoven let loose a triple to score the runners and C. Wulterkins doubled to clear the sacks. In three times up, U. Wildenberg got a homer and a single, C. Wulterkins got two doubles in three times up.

For Boogaards, two runs off of two hits was the best the second round champs could do in the first frame. Sarisan walked and K. Schense singled for the two runs.

Oles championship team include such players as W. Wildenberg, N. Gossens, U. Wildenberg, J. Lom, T. Oudenhoven, C. Wulterkins, J. Van Cuyk and I. Vandenberg.

Boogaards had Sarisan Schense Courchane, Van Dyke, E. Vanden Boogaard, Heitpas, Schwanke, Vander Zanden, Huntington and B. Vanden Boogaard.

High School Net Squad in Training
As long as the warm weather continues, tennis players of Appleton High school will practice afternoons in preparation for the spring season, according to Coach Edgar Hagene. A practice match has been arranged with Oshkosh High school for Saturday, Sept. 20, on the Appleton courts.

Twenty-one boys have signed up and the varsity squad will be selected from their number. They are David Brokaw, John Lindberg, David Lewis, William Younger, Alvin Blinder, Herman Hecker, Allen Johnson, Don Jabs, Ken Thompson, Eugene Dauchert, Harlan Siech, George Krueger, Kenneth Retza, Stan Beschta, Loris Blong, Guenther Holtz, Delmar Schulze, Lloyd Mueller, Le Vern Nymoen, Wayne Lonsdorf and James Germanson.

Experienced players are Blinder, who played in the position on the squad last spring, Thompson, Holtz, Schulze, Mueller and Germanson. Lonsdorf is a freshman. The ranks of the squad probably will be augmented in spring by William De Long and Norman Nickash, who are on the football squad.

River Falls Football Prospects are Bright
River Falls, Wis.—A squad of 28 players, including 13 major lettermen and seven minor letter winners, reported for the opening football drill at River Falls teachers college.

Coach Emmett Lowery indicated that he had the nucleus of a strong team and had hopes of a successful season.

The team opens the season here Sept. 21, meeting Gustavus Adolphus.

PLAN FOR DOG FIELD TRIALS—The Wisconsin conservation department approved the Medina marsh area as grounds appropriate for the release of chukar partridges for the running of bird dog trials by the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 14-15. Shown above, left to right, inspecting the proposed courses are Ralph C. Conway, supervisor of game refuges and public hunting grounds, Don Kennedy, Neenah, the club's field trial secretary, Jim Wildner of Conway's staff, and Al Dunham, conservation warden from Oshkosh. Pheasants purchased by the club will also be released for the event.

'Dark Horse' Still Plugging In Amateur Golf Tournament

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Mamaroneck, N. Y.—Warrington Bannerman McCullough, Jr., a semi-bald blue-blood from Philadelphia, still was in there slugging toe-to-toe with the tough competitors of amateur golf when the national championships forged into the semi-final round at the Winged Foot club today.

Early yesterday, when the dew was on the grass, McCullough generally was conceded to have gone further than he belonged. Some thought he should have resigned then, to spare himself embarrassment as the going got really rough.

But Warrington not only didn't abdicate, he got obstinate and knocked the cars off a couple of young men as Willie Turnesa and Johnny Fischer, both former champions.

Nonetheless, what to make of McCullough. Sure, he won the Pennsylvania state crown in 1937, but that scarcely qualified him to upset the boys the way he is doing here. He beat Turnesa 3 and 2 and Fischer 5 and 4, after being touted to lose both matches.

The other three semi-finalists "belonged," as they say, definitely. Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, who was assigned the task of trying to stop McCullough in one of today's two 36-holes, was runner-up to the champion twice in the last three years. Yesterday he eliminated the defender, Bud Ward of Seattle, Wash., 4 and 3.

According to schedule, in the other bracket were Wilford Wehrle and Dick Chapman, strictly according to schedule. Wehrle, out of Chicago, has been batting at the door for several years and so has Chapman. Wehrle, a beautiful golfer mechanically, was low amateur in the last national open championship at Cleveland. Chapman was the medalist in this tournament with successive rounds of 71-69, and is without doubt one of the hottest golfers in the country at the moment.

Next to McCullough's survival, the greatest surprise undoubtedly was Ward's weak submission to Billows, the fellow he trampled by a score of 7 and 5 in last year's final. Ward has been playing great golf right through the tournament, always keeping the pressure on the other man, and he looked like the logical winner. Yet against Billows he began spraying his shots from the stall, wandering into every available trap, hole after hole.

The feature battle today probably was that between Wehrle and Chapman. It figures to be close and hard fought all the way, with little to choose between them.

The Billows-McCullough affair had its followers, however. Billows looked like the logical winner, on the record, but those who watched Warrington dispose of Turnesa and Fischer yesterday were not so certain.

Billows shut the door on Ward in the back nine to win yesterday. Trapped off the tee at the one-shot tenth he came out nicely but still lost the hole when he was laid a stymie. That left him only 3 up. The next three holes were halved without incident.

On the fourteenth came the clincher. Billows putted first, and laid Ward a stymie. The outgoing champion tried to jump it from three feet, but hit Billows' ball and lost the hole with a 5 to a par 4. Ward was inside, 18 feet away, for a certain 4 and Ward's six-yard try for a winding birdie that would have taken the match another hole stopped at least a foot away.

Their cards:
Billows, in 443 344
Ward, in 345 354

Chiefs Bolster Team With 3 More Players

Milwaukee—The Milwaukee Chiefs of the American pro football league added three players to the team roster yesterday. The new men include Frank Bykowski, former Purdue guard, and two players recently released by the Green Bay Packers, Bob Temple, Arizona end, and Ed Merlin, Vanderbilt guard who played with Brooklyn last year.

The Columbus Bullies were scheduled to arrive late today for their American Professional Football league game with the Chiefs Sunday.

While the Chiefs put the finishing touches of their game in preparation for the league opener, the Bullies rested at Two Rivers after last night's intra-squad game in which the veterans defeated the rookies 13 to 3.

Nelson Peterson and Gus Buckley scored touchdowns for the Bullies' veterans. Jack Labay booted a 30-yard field goal for the freshmen's points.

Waupaca Youths Take to Football

Waupaca—With 37 candidates fighting for positions at the end of its two week training period, a lively interest is being shown in Waupaca High school's new sport—football. According to Coach Leroy Haberborn, the boys have progressed more rapidly than expected.

The squad is composed of seven seniors, thirteen juniors, six sophomores, and eleven freshmen. They include: seniors, Gordon Jensen, Phillip Steinmates, Robert Erickson, Ward Rudersdorf, Robert Babin, Edward Larke and Erwin Beach; juniors, Tom Holly, Bob Christofferson, Roger McLean, Ken Peterson, Larry Woody, Norman Peterson, Harlan Newman, Sam Taylor, Bill Vroman, Alfred Opichka, Eugene Bulton, John Durrant and Everett Nielson; sophomores, Robert Prochnow, Leonard Eckstein, Marlin Uhl, Tom Pinkerton, Ray Jenner and James Potts; freshmen, Arlen Davidson, Wesley Sosinski, John Sunby, Rueben Weitz, Edward Pflum, George Drivas, George Caldwell, Arden Polley, Arlyn Barden, Vance High and Edward Peterson.

Assisting Coach Haberborn are Bob Showers on the line, Vincent Graham on the backs and Eric Becker on the ends. First game of the season will be here Sept. 27 when the boys will play Manawa.

North Shore Arranges Skeet Tourney Sunday

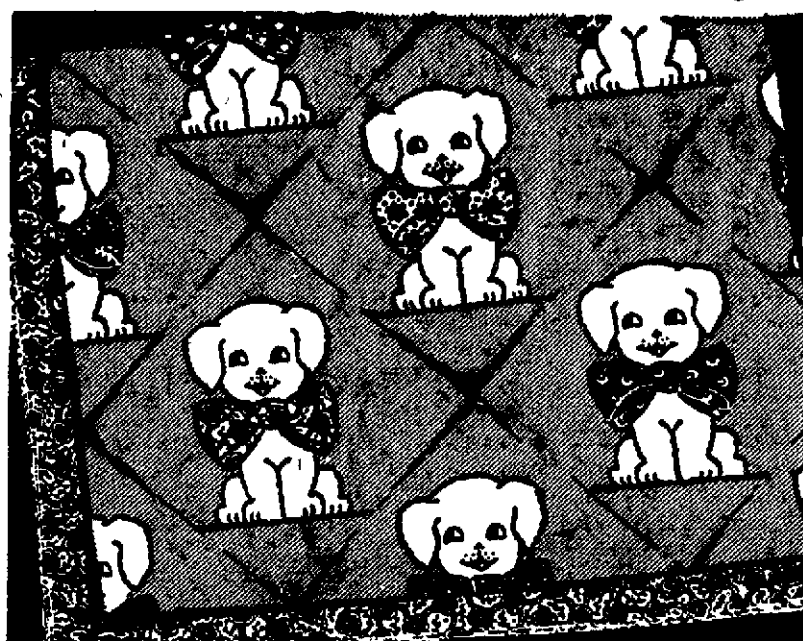

An informal invitational skeet shoot will be held at North Shore Country club Sunday, it has been announced. Shooting will start at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue through the afternoon. The committee handling arrangements is Chester Shepard, chairman, Art Wakeman, E. P. Hamilton, Tom Rivers, and Marshall Smith. A. D. Chase, Oshkosh, will be the referee.

Skeet Shooters from Manitowish, Two Rivers, Chicago, Des Moines, Ia., Green Bay, Appleton and Neenah-Menasha, will be entered. Several women interested in the sport will demonstrate in an effort to arouse interest of North Shore women.

Among the Appleton entrants will be Roy Purdy and Art Wakeman, and among the Neenah-Menasha entrants will be Don Shepard, William A. Merigold, Mowry Smith and Don Turner.

Error Paves Way to Win Needed Trick

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson:

"Here's a question for you: When is a mistake not a mistake? The answer is easy: When it gains a trick and fulfills an otherwise unmakeable contract.

"In last night's rubber game, our regular weekly-battle, my partner, who coincidentally is my wife, made the most brilliant play of her career . . . by accident. The hand:

"South, dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.
"Rubber bridge.
"North-South 30 part-score.

"The bidding was short and sweet. My angel lamb sat South and opened with two no trump. Everybody passed and I sat back, hoping that my two queens would help bring home the shekels. I thanked heaven that our part-score made it unnecessary for me to stew and brew over whether or not to raise the contract.

"West led the heart king. My sweet held up the ace, but won the heart continuation when East threw a diamond on the heart queen. Then the fun began! My little dove led a card which she thought was the diamond ace, but which unaccountably turned out to be the heart nine!

The moment it hit the table two things happened with amazing simultaneity. My misssus let out a cry like that of a wounded doe and West (an alert and determined matron) swooped down on the trick like a starving eagle. A furious argument started between the distant members of each team, my wife claiming that the card had just fallen out of her hand, while Mme. X even more loudly asserted that 'a card touching the table was played.'

East and myself, being mere husbands, maintained a discreet silence until I, wearying of the turmoil and with a thought about the neighbors, very gently pointed out to my mate that West was legally right. I received a glare of pure contempt for my intervention, but the argument petered out into mere mutters, the play was conceded to stand, and West, laughing, ran off her other three hearts.

"I'll say this for my girl friend: She never allows anger to distort her business judgment. When, on the third, fourth, and fifth heart, East signaled with the spade nine, the club nine, and then discarded, another diamond she took due cognizance. Then when West, having triumphantly cleaned up the heart situation, shifted to the spade jack she did not waste dummy's queen.

She ducked in dummy, won with the ace, and rattled off the four diamond tricks. On the last two rounds East showed every sign of distress, finally discarding one spade and one club. Now South was down to a spade and the A-5 of clubs, dummy to the spade queen and the Q-8 of clubs. East to the spade king and the K-9 of clubs. Trembling like a leaf, my sweet pie led the spade and East was stuck! On his forced club return my club queen finally acquired some value, and the club ace was the fulfilling trick.

"How do you like that Mr. C! A suicide square executed by accident! You will note that if West hadn't been so set on her pound of flesh and hadn't run all her hearts, friend wife would still be looking for her eighth trick! T. T., New York.

No comments needed! TOMORROW'S HAND. West, dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

My Neighbor Says—

Apply fertilizer and lime to your lawn within 10 days of each other. Put fertilizer in now and lime in before the end of the month.

Three-fourths teaspoon of sugar mixed with one-fourth teaspoon of cocoa sprinkled over buttered toast is equally as good as cinnamon toast.

When removing hot dishes from the oven always use a dry towel or the fingers are more likely to be burned.

This is the best time of the year to apply lime to your lawn. Lime is not a fertilizer. It simply corrects the "acidosis" of grass roots and helps the soil.

Chilling makes rolled cookie dough firm and easy to roll without the addition of extra flour.

Always add a little melted butter to uncooked frosting. It improves the flavor and also prevents cracking.

The Little Things are Cause of Big Quarrels

BY DOROTHY DIX

It has been said that life is a series of compromises. And this is true. None of us get exactly what we want in just the way we want it, but we learn to take what we can get and like it, and make the best of our bargains. (This enables us to get along peaceably enough with our fellow creatures. But, strangely, this system of give-and-take, which we practice daily in our business and social contacts, we do not introduce into the family circle. In our homes we refuse to compromise our differences of opinions, and points of view, and tastes and habits. And that is why the world is filled with disgruntled husbands and wives who spend their time fighting instead of billing and cooing; why so many children and parents are at daggers' point with each other. For it is the rule-or-ruin spirit that is at the bottom of most of the domestic misery that we see all about us, and that explains the phenomenon of why so many couples who could not live without each other before marriage, find it impossible to live with each other after marriage. Each is determined to be the head of the house, the supreme dictator, the one-who-must-be-obeyed; each is hell-bent on making the other conform to his or her ways, and in the struggle to do this love is slain and the dove of peace flies squawking from the premises.

Dorothy Dix

Now there is no human being so dumb as not to know that there can be no such thing as perfect harmony between a husband and wife. The difference in sex, the difference in heredity, the difference in the way each has been brought up, the mere fact that no two people ever think just alike or have the same tastes and desires and habits precludes this.

Home Attitude

There are bound to be thousands of things about which they disagree, thousands of tastes that clash and habits that get on each other's nerves. Why any intelligent couple do not settle these difficulties by compromise instead of quarreling over them from the altar to the divorce court or the grave is one of the mysteries of human stupidity that no one can solve.

Unnumerable marriages are wrecked, for instance, by so small a thing as a cigarette. The wife has a phobia about smoking. She feels that it is a wasteful and extravagant habit. She regards dropping cigarette ashes on a rug as the unpardonable sin. And she nearly goes up in smoke herself when she thinks of the smell of tobacco going up into her draperies.

The husband and his cigarette have been lifelong companions in joy and sorrow and he is lost without it. Smoking rests him, comforts him, soothes him. He won't give it up and his wife is determined that he shall. So it is a subject of endless bickering between them that eventually wrecks what should have been a happy marriage.

Unimportant Things

Most of the things that husbands and wives quarrel over are so picayune that they would be funny if the results were not so tragic. One thing to step out, the other liking to put on an evening. The wife's taste in hats, the husband's misadventures in neckties.

One liking garlic in salad, the other one loathing it. Mother's visits. The husband's old friends dropping in to dinner. Silly things to break up a home when they could have been so easily compromised by each one giving in a little and respecting the rights of the other.

The only way to solve the what-shall-I-do-with-my-children-without-me-a-d-o-as-they please problem is to compromise with them instead of trying to force them to do as you say and be a rubber stamp of yourself.

Don't arbitrarily lay down the law to them and expect them to give up all of their own ideas and plans and desires and adopt yours. Don't bully and browbeat them into servile obedience. They will obey you just as long as they are physically afraid of you, and no longer.

Be Sensible With Children

Don't think that just because you were young and girls were seven petticoats that any girl in a short skirt is a hussy. Don't think that because in your day parties started at 7 and ended at 11, that your children should go to roost with the chickens and come home before the fun starts.

Don't think that because you were never allowed to have beaux until you were 20 that your daughters shouldn't have dates at 15.

Recognize that times have changed, and with them customs and manners. Meet your children halfway. See their point of view. Strike a good average with them about work and play, stepping out and staying at home. And you won't have boys and girls who lie to you and deceive you and do things behind your back that they dare not do before your face.

There are few difficulties in life that we can't solve by compromise. DOROTHY DIX.

Parents Should Realize Religion Is Necessity

BY ANGELO PATRI

There are few people who dispute the need for religious training of children. As a nation we want our children to be taught to reverence all that is good and beautiful and true. We want them to be good men and women, of fine character, respecting the rights of others, respecting the good in themselves, doing their honorable best to serve their day. There are few among us who do not nod their heads in approval to that idea.

Then why in the world have we not taught the children on that basis? Why have we taught them to think of themselves, their immediate gain, their personal power, their material success as the chief end of man?

We teach by our pattern of daily living. What we do is bound to speak louder than anything we say. We have glorified money, personal power, that money buys, above all else. We value people according to their possessions, we value the artists by their income, the professional people by the fees they command. What is rich is good. And then we say, "Give the children religious training lest they perish in crass materialism."

Set the Example

Children need religion because all human beings need it. We are spiritual beings first, material creatures afterward and we can starve neither part of ourselves without dying. We have fed our material selves well and we have discovered that we have starved our spiritual selves to the brink of death.

Now we plead, "Save the children." But we don't mean it really. If we did we would first save ourselves and by that gesture save the children. They do as we do, think as we think, love what we love. When we have suffered enough through materialism we will turn again to religion and take our children with us.

By religion we mean a feeling of reverence, of relationship to the intangible goodness, the eternal law, of life, the common brotherhood of man. That phrase has about lost its meaning but it has not and cannot lose its power. It is written in the book of Life.

No Creed Necessary

Why cannot every parent, every teacher accept the writing, "and to keep himself unspotted from the world." That, according to St. James, is religion, pure and undefiled. No creed is needed, no ritual, no earthly law. Just that feeling of oneness with God and the desire to live without stain. So simple any child can understand. So severe a spiritual discipline that a saint must strive to achieve it.

Those who accept the discipline and strive toward saintliness teach by their lives the true religion and their children follow them. For those who have sought all the other things first and now want their children to see God in everything, the way is plain. They are to become doers of the word, not hearers only. Then their children will know religion.

Until we mean it we cannot teach religion to children. Reciting the creed and saying the prayer will not, in themselves, bring spiritual salvation. That must come through the practice of spiritual laws in daily living, in home, school, business, government, in every aspect of life. The religious inheritance of our children comes through us. We are being called on to account for this.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

reason for writing, however, was to ask what evening party could be given as a substitute for an afternoon tea? If there is such a substitute, please explain about giving it.

In answer to her second question: An evening at home could be substituted for an afternoon tea. It is the same, excepting that coffee or chocolate usually replaces tea, and a punch of some sort is generally served.

"Visit of Digestion"

Dear Mrs. Post: How can appreciation be shown to hosts who are very high above one? In my case, it is not high above on the scale of social prominence, but high above on the scale of educational eminence. I was invited by a professor and his wife to a dinner they gave not long ago. I was the youngest present, and the least impressive. The others were the husband's colleagues, and their wives. Ordinarily I know that after a formal invitation like this, I should at least pay a visit but by making such a call and proving to them that I know my ABC's of etiquette, I am fearful that it might seem presumptuous. But I do think I should do something besides worry about it!

Evening at Home Party

I can't imagine what is meant by "twilight coffee" unless it is cafe brulot, which is coffee poured over brandy and spices which have been put in a bowl and lighted. In order to see the flames leaping, the lights are turned out. This is the only answer I can give to a reader who asks, "Have you ever heard of a 'twilight coffee'?" Someone mentioned this in the conversation the other evening, and I have since wondered what was meant. My real

STEAK DINNER

How'd you like to sink your teeth into a juicy, brown broiled steak for dinner. There's no doubt about it.

A sizzling hot, juicy, crisply browned broiled steak and a dish of French fries will bring a round of lip-smacking from any man.

To complete this menu serve creamed peas, a molded carrot and pineapple salad and apple

Miss Schneider, pie, the dessert that has been America's favorite for generations. Ice cream in recent years has left it trailing somewhat, but apple pie never will lose caste as a truly American and wholly satisfying dessert.

Buy tart green apples for your apple pie, and take care that the pastry is flaky and tender. Poor crust will ruin any pie.

The Menu

Broiled Steak

French Fried Potatoes

Creamed Peas

Molded Carrots Pineapple Salad

Apple Pie Cheese

Broiled Steak

Wipe a steak 1½ to 2 inches thick with damp cloth. Grease rack. Preheat the oven 20 minutes at 500 Degrees F. or as high as possible. Lay steak on rack in center of broiling oven, 3½ inches below the flame. When steak is nicely browned on one side season with salt and pepper, then turn and brown the other side. Only one turning is necessary. It will take about 20 to 30 minutes to cook a steak 1½ to 2 inches medium rare. When done, place on hot platter, salt, pour over melted butter, serve at once.

Molded Carrot, Pineapple Salad

1 package lemon flavored gelatin

1 cup hot water

1 cup cold water or pineapple juice

1 cup grated carrot

1 cup chopped celery

1 cup green pepper

1 cup diced pineapple

1 teaspoon salt

2 tablespoons lemon juice

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water or pineapple juice. Chill

When gelatin begins to thicken, fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into one large ring mold or into individual molds. Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

Plain Pastry

½ cup shortening

1 cup cold water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Cut in shortening with 2 knives or a pastry blender until the size of peas. Toss lightly, adding enough water very slowly to hold dough together. Dust board and rolling lightly with flour. Cut dough into 2 equal parts. Roll ½ to 1 inch thick from center to the edges. Fit lower crust loosely over pie plate. Roll upper crust, fold over in the center, slash with knife.

Apple Pie

6 to 8 tart apples

1 cup white sugar or 1 cup brown sugar firmly packed

1 teaspoon cinnamon

1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 tablespoons butter

1 teaspoon salt

Line a 9 inch pie plate with pastry and fill with apples, pared and sliced thin. Sprinkle with mixture of sugar, salt and cinnamon, then with lemon juice and dot with butter. Moisten edge of crust, cover with top crust and press edges together, brush with milk or cream. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees F. for 10 minutes then reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and bake 40 to 50 minutes longer.

Casual Slaughters

YESTERDAY: The proprietress of the Fieldstone Inn can give them no information about strangers the night the chaplain was robbed. The next day Sandra and Kay visit the chaplain who is back in the hospital with more poison

Chapter 20

Enter, The Bride

"I hope you'll be able to come to the reception tomorrow night," Sandra said to him as we rose. "Colonel and Mrs. Pennant are giving it for Jeff and me—a sort of delayed wedding reception. I believe there will be dancing."

"Yes, I—ah, received a card this morning. I think I shall be able to go back to quarters again tomorrow: but of course, you understand, my appearance—"

"Have you properly clothed?" Sandra asked properly.

"Some new uniforms were delivered this morning—the post tailors, through the kind agency of Mrs. Bridewell, who has put herself to quite a bit of trouble on my behalf."

I thought of the shorts and with difficulty suppressed a giggle. Felicia had made a good story in regard to his preference in underclothing.

"I—ah, was referring more to the appearance of my face and hands," he continued diffidently.

"Think nothing of it," Sandra said warmly. "We all know what poison oak is. And everyone is anxious to meet you. I won't take no for an answer. I'll expect to see you."

She sounded quite grim about it, and the little chaplain consented with almost nervous haste. I felt rather sorry for him. He would think he had to appear, now that Sandra had made an issue of it, and would probably suffer torture, every time anyone looked at his overripe—the smile was irresistible—tomato face.

But after all, his countenance was not to be the main object of attention. As it happened, that honor was to be reserved for the bride.

In view of what followed, Sandra's attitude toward the reception is of some importance.

"Putting a good face on it for Jeff's sakes," she said acidly, with a penetration I had not expected of her.

That was on the way back to the club, after our visit at the hospital.

Answer: You should go and leave a card at the home of the professor's wife immediately. A "visit of digestion" is always a requirement when your hostess is a formal type of person. And if you can return their hospitality, do so, but if you can't, leaving your card is all that is necessary. (If you are married you of course leave three cards, one of yours for the hostess, and two of your husband's—one for her and one for her husband. If you have a double card, this is left for her, and a single card of your husband's is left for him.)

Furtherance of a Daily Meeting

Dear Mrs. Post: Just "how far" can two people (man and woman in particular) go in furthering a daily meeting on the street corner where they both wait for the same bus to take them into town, or on a commuters' train, or on the elevator going up and down in an office building?

Answer: Such a situation is left to the good judgment and dignity of the woman.

I had broached the subject, hoping to prod her to some reaction other than the apparent apathy which she had previously exhibited. And I was moderately successful. She went on, as if under some compulsion to justify herself. "I don't really belong," she said bitterly. "I never have. They couldn't forgive my father for marrying a Russian. Oh yes, they took me in because I was his daughter, and an orphan. But that first family-of-the-South business—the almighty Tacks and their friends—I don't really belong. Julia, now—her mother was Tack. They're royalty or something. The fact that my mother's people were of the nobility—that she was received at court, that the blood of kings ran in her veins—"

She paused, drew a deep breath, and I thought for a moment there was a gleam of fanatic hatred in her murky dark eyes.

"No, I've never belonged," she repeated. "I was a duty—a creditable duty. The wonderful Tacks! To think of them taking that orphan child and raising her as their own! I used to get so tired of hearing their praises sung, of being reminded of what a lucky girl I was, of expecting merely as an example of their philanthropy! Even marrying Jeff doesn't make me one of them. Pennants are not giving this reception for me. It's Jeff they're thinking of."

"Understudy"

Well, that was her side of it as opposed to Julia's. And though I thought she was a little morbid I had to admit that charity can have its ugly moments.

"It's too bad Adam has to miss all this," Gerald observed, as we waited on the veranda of Colonel Pennant's quarters Wednesday evening. The bride and groom had not yet arrived, and Julia, handing us each a tiny bag of rice, had suggested that it was cooler outside and, mysteriously, that we must not miss the arrival.

"Wasn't he supposed to be back today?" asked Felicia.

She was an eye-balling spectacle, in a classically cut white gown so simple that you saw only the flawless lines of her figure and the sculptured white curls that crowned her small head.

"I had an air-mail letter from him this morning," I told her. "He can't get here until Friday."

He was on the track of something which might or might not be important, the letter said, but I did not add that, piece of information.

Gerald unutterably resplendent in tails and a white tie, had delivered us in Adam's car.

"It's quite all right with Adam, really," he had grinned at me earlier in the evening when he asked if he might. "He said I'd be a poor understudy, but he wouldn't grudge me the pleasure of your company in his absence. Now I think of it, perhaps he underestimates me a bit. I'm a dangerous fellow—that's why I've invited Felicia to come along. For your protection."

"You're sure I'm not going for her protection?"

"A fair question," he admitted. "From the far side of the veranda, around the corner of the house, an orchestra began to play softly. Lights, strung from the house above the carpeted sidewalk, bloomed pale amber against the stud night sky. Around us people milled and chattered.

"Do you suppose we ought to

BY ANNE ADAMS

Yes, "it's a small world"—when it comes to fashion! For this Anne Adams frock, Pattern 4577, proves that even youngsters may be style leaders. It's made in simple panelled lines that take a jiffy to cut and stitch with a really smart note in the fullness concentrated at the back. This is done either with waistline darts or with a sash that ties in a bow, drawing the fullness together. The sleeves are short puffs or long and full. Make a neat collar in self-fabric or in crisp contrast, perhaps with ruffle trim. Sew gap ribbon bows or buttons down the front—or use bright bands of ric-rac across the pattern are perforated to make parties.

Pattern 4577 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, takes 2 yards 35 inch fabric and ¼ yard contrast.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to Appleton Post-Crescent, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern number, your Name and Address.

The Home Gardener

by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Time has come to fatten up the lily-of-the-valley roots. Fat roots mean dainty fragrant flowers in the spring. Poor starved roots can produce only straggly blooms hardly able to hold their heads up.

Lightly loosen the ground above the lilies of the valley and cover them with several inches of well or half-rotted manure. Water generously and continue watering until cold weather makes this impossible. If the roots dry out in fall, they may fail to bloom despite a generous offering of manure.

Overcrowded beds should be thinned. For immediate effect in a new location, select only fat rounded pups or crowns. The thin, pointed ones will need another year's growth or more before they will flower.

The new lily-of-the-valley bed should be, deeply dug and plentifully enriched with slowly rotting fertilizers and humus-building materials. The location should be shaded and preferably on the cool side of the house. If abundant quantities of humus are worked into the soil, the problem of supplying water during all slightly dry periods will be lessened.

This plant's love for moisture is likely to suggest planting it in poorly drained locations. This is a mistake. If planted where water collects in excess quantities, the formation of ice over winter is almost certain to crush the pups and tear the feeding roots from the crowns.

go in and dance?" Gerald asked anxiously. "I mean to say, either we're all frightfully early, or they're late."

"I think we were asked early on purpose," said Felicia soothingly. "This arrival is part of the show. They're being very mysterious. I offered to help Sandra dress, but she wasn't having any. She had already shoved Jeff out—he was in the billiard room, all gloriously dressed, practicing shots, when we left. Kay here probably knows what it's all about."

TASMANIANS

The last full-blooded Tasmanian died 64 years ago. She was named Truganini.

Truganini was far from "good looking." In her old age, she was ugly and had a short beard under her chin. Yet she had a kind heart, and one day saved the life of a white settler.

Tasmania is an island off the southeastern coast of Australia. It is almost as large as Ireland, but contains only a quarter of a million people. The present population is nearly all white, there being only a few persons of mixed race.

The island was named in honor of a Dutchman named Tasman. He was in command of a fleet of Dutch vessels which visited the coast three centuries ago.

Later Capt. James Cook, famous British explorer, visited Tasmania. When the first whites reached the island, they found several thousand native people living there. These folks were "blacks," or at least they had dark-colored skins. Their skin color was blackish brown or coffee brown.

The Tasmanians did not know the art of farming. They seemed never to have planted seeds. The only "crops" they reaped were those which Nature supplied free of any cost except the trouble of picking them. They ate roots, and took fruit from trees which grew wild.

Often the natives went fishing. They used nets as well as hooks and lines. The hooks were made of bone.

Long spears were used for hunting as well as war. The spears often had a length of from 12 to 15 feet.

Kangaroos, the largest animals on the island, were among those hunted. The men used to gather in a big circle and then would move inward, driving the kangaroos toward the center, to be killed with clubs or spears.

Right-Thinking

Pleasureville, Ky.—(1)—Every person attending the Baptist church in this town of 300 sits on the right-hand side.

The custom has been observed so long that even the oldest members are unable to remember exactly how it started. However, the most plausible reason is that the church was constructed to seat almost twice as many persons as there are in the congregation, and the members began sitting together on one side to avoid being scattered over the large room.

Pews on the left-hand side are practically new.

CHIEF FOR 17 YEARS—Alex Malcolm, Sr., in white uniform in both pictures, has led the Kimberly department since 1923. On the left he prepares to mount the village's pumper truck which has a capacity of 750 gallons per minute. In the other photo he prepares to don a gas mask, with his son, Alex Malcolm, Jr., already outfitted. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Kimberly's Fire Fighting Equipment Might be Envy of Larger Towns

(This is one of a number of articles describing the fire fighting equipment and personnel in the towns, villages and cities of this area. They are designed to acquaint readers with the types of fire fighting apparatuses and systems in vogue in this area. Another article will appear in the near future.)

When the fire siren shrieks in Kimberly, electricians lay down their wrenches, mechanics drop their wrenches, store clerks bolt from behind counters and office workers rush from their work. All dash for the engine house in the heart of the village and in a few seconds time the 22-man fire department is in action. It is the boast of Fire Chief Alex Malcolm, Sr., that the first truck usually roars out of the station in less than a minute after the alarm is sounded.

The Kimberly volunteer fire department started more than 30 years ago when a hand drawn 40-gallon chemical two wheel carriage was the only apparatus the department had; later a 300-gallon pump truck was purchased and the 2-wheel chemical carriage usually was hooked on behind. The early equipment was housed in the fire station in the old village hall near the park. In 1932 it was moved to quarters in the new village hall.

Several Big Fires
One of the major fires in the village occurred about 30 years ago. It was the Kimberly hotel fire which kept the fire fighters out all night; another occurred about 10 years ago when the Home Supply company planing mill was destroyed which again kept the firemen at work all night.

Chief Malcolm came to Kimberly from Scotland in 1912 and joined the department in 1921; two years later he was elected chief and has held that office since.

The village had three fire chiefs prior to Mr. Malcolm. They were William Lemmel, Joseph De Noble and Richard Ceaser.

Commission Control
The fire department is under the control of a 5-man police and fire commission, appointed by the village board. The commission sets up the rules and regulations governing the department and also fills vacancies and purchases new or additional equipment.

The department is supported by an annual appropriation of $1,000 from the village. This is prorated semi-annually to the men according to the number of drills and fires during the six month period. The department has a secretary, Joe Sandhofer, and treasurer, Alvin Fulcer appointed by the members to take care of this business. Checks are issued in July and September of each year.

The first aid team includes two firemen who have been qualified to teach by the American Red Cross. They are Alex Malcolm, Jr., and Al Adams, but is expected that all the firemen will qualify for the Red Cross card. Other members of the team are J. Vander Zanden, Matt Verkuilen, Joe La Blanc, and William Courchane.

Chief Malcolm explained that Kimberly's large fire fighting equipment, as large as that owned by many cities, is made necessary by the location of the Kimberly Clark corporation's huge mill and extensive pulp piles in the village.

The equipment include a Sea-grave triple combination truck; one 75-gallon per minute centrifugal pump; 1600 feet of 2½-inch hose, 100 feet of 1½-inch hose, 200 feet of 1-inch hose, one 60-gallon booster tank, one 40 foot extension ladder, one 14 foot roof ladder, one deluge set which delivers 750 gallons of water per minute, 20 feet of soft suction, and 30 feet of hard suction hose, 3 all service gas masks, one fresh air mask equipped for two men at one time, and inhalator for resuscitation work, and a great deal of auxiliary equipment.

The hook and ladder truck carries 45 gallons of soda and acid solution, 100 feet of chemical hose, two acid refills for chemical tank, two soda refills for chemical tanks, in addition to the equipment of ladders.

There are 17 alarm boxes located in various points in the village. When an alarm is turned in the annunciator in the fire station shows the location of the fire, and also turns on the fire alarm siren which is heard all over the village.

Signal in Mill
At the same time a signal is flashed to the chiefs home and also to the boiler room at the mill. The firemen then put in a village alarm through the mill system which operates call bells to tell the firemen working in the mill that there is a fire in the village and they should respond. Workers in the boiler room also blow the mill whistle.

A drill tower 35 feet high is just about completed to give firemen a place to practice rescue work and to hold regular drills.

There are three drivers for the Sea-grave truck and three for the hook and ladder truck so that one is available at all times. Drivers for the big truck are Joseph Sandhofer, Matt Verkuilen, and Martin Wyn-gaard while August Gloudemans is captain of the truck.

Drivers of the hook and ladder truck are Alvin Fulcer, Theodore Kemps, and J. Vander Zanden, who also is the captain.

Other members of the department are Arthur Schnese, assistant chief; Peter Ebben, second assistant chief; John Fiers, John Verbeten, George Jansen, John Van Zummeren, Primo Frassetto, Leonard Zeeg-ers, Alex Malcolm, Jr., Al Adams, William Courchane, Frank Verhag-eh, Joe La Blanc and Jack Lamers. Four honorary members who have reached the retirement age during the last few years are John Fox, Joseph Meunen, Martin Vander Velden, and Emil Breir.

More than 50 per cent of the asphalt produced is used in high-way construction.

High School Faculty Will Convene Sept. 17

Appleton High school's faculty will gather for its first regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Early American room. After administrative announcements have been made, instructors will have time to converse informally about their summer trips. Miss Ethel Carter, mathematics instructor, and Miss Mae Webster, commercial instructors, will be in charge of the refreshments. The clean-up work will be supervised by Miss Mary Baker, dean of girls, and Miss Elsie Koppin, Latin instructor. Jack Burroughs, art instructor, designed the invitation for the faculty bulletin board.

Legion Post to Hold 1st Dance of Series

Oney Johnston post, American Legion will hold its first public dance of the season Saturday evening in its new club house after its being closed for several months for remodeling and redecorating. The remodeling work included installation of a modern lighting system. The house committee, of which Clifford Radder is chairman, is in charge of arrangements for the dance.

Set Date for 4-H Achievement Day

Outagamie county 4-H club leaders, meeting last night at Shiocton High school, voted to hold the annual 4-H Achievement day program on Saturday, Nov. 16. The place for the program will be selected later, according to Miss Irene Skutley, county home demonstration agent. Wakelin McNeel, state assistant 4-H club leader, will be the principal speaker.

Record books which will be entered in state competition must be sent in to the office of County Agent J. F. Magnus by Sept. 25. The books will be checked by a committee consisting of Mrs. Carlton Schneider, chairman, George Bohl, Lucille Sievert and George Paltzer on the evening of Sept. 26. Other record books are due Oct. 1.

Library Loaned 15,000 Volumes During Last Month, Report Shows

A total of 15,132 volumes were loaned from the Appleton public library last month, compared with 14,290 for the same period last year, according to a report submitted this week to the library board by Mrs. Nancy Thomas, librarian.

The library added 150 books during August bringing its total up to 43,736 volumes. Of this number, 30,935 are adult and 12,801 children's books.

The report shows that 258 new borrowers were added last month, 203 of them adult and 55 juvenile. There were 13,842 borrowers listed at the end of August, 10,378 of them adult and 3,474 juvenile.

THE PETTIBONE-PEABODY CO.

"Sugar and Spice"...it's everything nice! A smart fabric by Stehli with a rough-yet-smooth texture that resists wrinkling and wears like iron. Soft, heathery colors in stripes, plaids and solid tones.

$1.65

Imagine the comfort of a formfitting shirt made with a soft collar which is absolutely free from wrinkles. When the collar is ironed it is as flat, as free from bulges or wrinkles as the stiffest of stiff collars. This new "Shapely" shirt comes in a most attractive "salt and pepper" pattern with self-colored stripe. Buttons and stitching match the shirt in color—a new feature. In blue, green, and burgundy. Sizes 14½ to 16. $1.65.
